Woodfield May Get 10-Story Office Buildings

A 10-story office building next to the Woodfield Theater, with a twin building proposed for the adjoining lot, could be the newest additions to Woodfield in Schaumburg. The village and developer, however, still must agree on how many parking spaces the proposal needs.

Leslie Sanford, attorney for Woodfield Associates admitted he plans to conclude the purchase of a six-acre tract in the T-1 area if he gets assurance from the plan commission that he can build.

Sanford attended Tuesday's plan commission meeting with representatives of Taubman and Co. and the Hornart Development Co., codevelopers of Woodfield and owners of the tract he wants to buy.

Taubman's representative was there to request resubdivision of the T-1 zoned area north of the Woodfield Theater, Rte. 53 near Golf Road. Sanford's office complex would be developed on the two lots closest to the theater.

AFTER SOME discussion they continued the hearing to 7:30 Monday.

Taubman's spokesman explained that the resubdivision follows the developers' master plan for the area. Without designation of separate lots building permits for each building cannot be obtained.

It involves lots where the Lord and Taylor store will be added onto the present building, an area set aside for parking, and areas for future development.

Sanford's office complex would be an outright purchase with the adjoining six acre lot set aside for the second building.

SANFORD UNDERSTOOD that the commission had the power to insist how many parking places for each 1,000 square feet of office space he must provide.

He was asking them to consider counting only usable office space instead of gross building square footage as he said the village's T-1 ordinance requires.

Commissioner Richard Nommellini said the commission will make a recommendation but only after talking to the village engineer and will leave the final decision to the village board.

Sanford brought along experts to show that two parking places for every 1,000 square feet of usable office space would be sufficient. He also wanted a small margin of leeway if Taubman insisted on extensive landscaping.

Sanford said the office building would have 20,000 square feet per floor but only 182,000 square feet of usable office space in the whole building.

THE SITE WILL accommodate approximately 325 parking places as the building is now designed; about 40 less than the village requires, said Sanford.

He continued to press for "flexibility" to allow landscaping of the parking lot and frontage "unless you don't want an office complex."

Clean Creek Boards To Be Presented

Officials of Chicago Metropolitan Sanitary District on Feb. 21 will formally recognize all workers in Schaumburg's Clean the Creek project held in the village last fall.

Ken Dopp, Clean Environment Committee member who coordinated the creek project, said awards will be presented to each member of the work team. Two hundred local residents participated.

At the meeting, scheduled for 8 p.m. at the Great Hall, Dopp is expected to also announce details of a joint spring clean-up being formulated by subcommittees of CEC and Hoffman Estates Environmental Concerns committee.

Professional Negotiator To Aid Teachers Here

A professional negotiator will assist a group of teachers representing the Schaumburg Education Association (SEA) when it begins salary contract negotiations later this month.

Dave Wilson, president, told an overflow crowd of SEA members yesterday that Dick Croll, Illinois Education Association member, will work with SEA.

Wilson said although Croll will not be a member of the 16-teacher negotiating team, his advice will be at their disposal.

SEA is presently fighting to keep its 400 members while a new teachers' union known as the Schaumburg Federation of Teachers (SFT), an affiliate of the AFT-CIO is attempting to win recognition from the School Dist. 54 Board of Education.

As teachers walked in to the SEA meeting at Jane Addams Junior High School, SFT organizers handed out newsletters.

ICICLES SHOW THAT winter is still in the Northwest predicting six more weeks of cold and chill that result in these conditions.

Revise Sprinkling Schedule

Hoffman Estates likely will be under sprinkling restrictions next summer, although the hours and schedules may be easier to understand than those imposed last year.

A ban last summer lasted three weeks, and the village then went onto a complicated schedule for water use. Residents with odd-numbered house addresses were allowed to use water during specific hours certain days of the week. Persons with even-numbered addresses were given other days. But the hours varied according to the day, and some people had difficulty keeping track of their allotted times.

Trustee William Cowin Tuesday told the village public works committee a better schedule should be worked out. He had so much difficulty remembering when sprinkling was allowed he gave up watering his lawn for the summer, he said.

JOHN BLACK, water consultant for the firm of Greeley and Hansen, told the committee he could not decide for the village whether a ban is necessary, or if it is, what kind of schedule to use. These decisions are up to the board and administrators, he said.

But Black added that most communities do impose sprinkling restrictions during summer months, and suggested the village would not be amiss to impose one for the coming summer. Private water companies boast of having no sprinkling restrictions, but generally have very little pressure during the summer, he said. Pressure could drop below safety standards, and does in some private company service areas, he said.

Cowin suggested a schedule of alternating use be imposed, saying it could be enforced more easily than the system used last year.

The ordinance passed last year was effective only until September, but it is to go into effect again this spring, unless other action is taken by the board.

Ecology Group Weighs Salt Ban

A possible ban of salt in the control of winter road problems is under investigation by Schaumburg's Clean Environment Committee.

At the suggestion of Mrs. Sandy Etchingham, CEC plans to obtain information concerning use of cinders and sand as a substitute for salt.

Knowledge gathered from several states including Montana and Minnesota, where salt has been prohibited in control of snow and ice, could lead eventually to a local study.

Trustee Jack Larsen, chairman of CEC, said he could foresee a future test in which areas could be set aside within the village for experimentation using each of the three substances.

non-Bengali enclave of Mirpur. He blamed the resistance on the heavily armed Pakistani Army holdouts.

The State

Circuit Court Judge Philip Romiti denied all motions to quash indictments against State's Atty. Edward Hanrahan and others accused of conspiracy to obstruct justice in the Black Panther deaths investigation.

Using a tape recorder, Daniel Walker, Democratic candidate for the nomination as governor, held the first of what he has labelled "simulated debates" with his opponent, Lt. Gov. Paul Simon.

Mayor Daley, the city of Chicago, and individual aldermen were added as defendants in the federal court case involving $20 million in Model Cities funds. A District Court Judge, however, refused to rule on a motion by the American Civil Liberties Union to require the Chicago Housing Authority to build public housing, regardless of any city council action.

The War

Three thousand South Vietnamese soldiers drove into Cambodia in pursuit of remnants of a 400-man Communist force battered by air strikes near the border, military spokesmen said. The U.S. command said American warplanes attacked missile bases in North Vietnam seven times.

Press Needs To Be Watched: Editor

A watchdog council is needed to keep check on newspapers, according to Norman Isaacs, Paddock Publications editorial consultant.

Isaacs told a group of suburban teachers attending a seminar Tuesday that newspapers can be used as a valuable tool in the classroom. But he cautioned them against accepting news stories as the ultimate authority. He proposed instituting a press council, similar to the British Press Council, that would evaluate news coverage and respond to readers' complaints.

"I don't regard the journalism enterprise as anything sacred," said Isaacs. "It can be a vicious pit."

"However, the press provides a great opportunity for public service when honorably done. It calls for a great deal of dedication and a high commitment to truth."

Isaacs was a guest speaker at a seminar at Dist. 25 South Junior High School in Arlington Heights. He teamed with Jack Humphrey, a reading specialist from the Evansville, Ind. school system, in instructing teachers how to use newspapers as a teaching tool. The project, called "Newspaper In The Classroom," was sponsored jointly by Dist. 25 and Paddock Publications. The teachers were from Districts 25, 26, 57 and 62.

Isaacs, editor-in-residence at Columbia University in New York, said that the public's lack of confidence in the press arises when the press oversteps its role of reporting truth.

"Sometimes a reporter has to go behind the facts to get at the truth. Unfortunately some reporters tip the scales from interpretation to opinion. You have this problem in Chicago as much as people have it anywhere."

"The most crucial factor in journalism is the exercise of judgment," added Isaacs. "By the very placement of stories on a page a newsman affects your attitudes. This is where he starts to play God."

One of the major abuses of the power of the press is monopoly control of the media, said Isaacs. He believes an owner who has control over newspapers, TV and radio stations has too much effect on public opinion.

Isaacs called for public control (such as a private council), not government control, to keep the press in line. He stressed the need to preserve freedom of the press.

"There has been some talk of this (Nixon) administration issuing curbs on the press," said Isaacs, referring to the Pentagon papers controversy. "I hope they don't attempt it."

He also denounced licensing journalists.

"Technically, journalists are not professionals, but craftsmen because we are not licensed. Licensing would bring requirements. The day we get to that is the day we wash out one of our greatest freedoms."

The Accepted Influence in the Northwest Suburbs

Mrs. Murphy 'Delighted,' CEC Not So Sure

Odd Couple Together Again

by PAT GERLACH

Like it or not, Schaumburg's Clean Environment Committee could find itself saddled with Jane Murphy unless, or until, status of the quasi-official advisory group is altered.

"I am delighted to be back on the committee," said Mrs. Murphy Tuesday. She was expelled from the group in mid-December by its chairman, Trustee Jack Larsen.

"Some of you may not agree, but I assume that I am back in the group from what I read in the papers," she added, producing clippings from a local weekly newspaper circulated in Schaumburg Township.

In a front-page story, Larsen was quoted as saying that CEC is not an official arm of the village government such as the zoning board of appeals or plan commission.

In the story, Larsen said only Mayor Robert O. Atcher has the authority to appoint or dismiss from formal commissions or committees operating in the village.

He described CEC as "only a group of people interested in working for the betterment of the village."

MRS. MURPHY'S dismissal from CEC, to which she had been named by Larsen when the group was formed last spring, occurred after the announcement of her selection as "Outstanding Young Woman of the Year" by the Schaumburg Jayceettes.

At that time, Larsen praised her "boundless energy" but said Mrs. Murphy was, among other things, unable to work within the confines of the committee.

Since then she has continued to attend CEC meetings which are open to the public.

"Janie, we are always willing to have you sit in on our meetings," Larsen replied just prior to concluding the meeting.

Joining the group as a guest this week was Gary Crawford, a local resident employed as an environmental consultant for National Loss Control, a consulting engineering firm which is a subsidiary of Kemper Co.

Ken Wolmer, manager of Schaumburg Airport and recently appointed chairman of an environmental committee formed by the Greater Schaumburg Area Association of Commerce and Industry, also was present.

WITH HEAVY SNOW predicted for the area, many area children will probably be joining 6 year old John Eric Baumbauer of Schaumburg, in clearing sidewalks and driveways in an effort to make the last few feet of the trip home a little safer for mom or dad.

Mental Health Outpost Gains OK

Though a bit apprehensive about space and scheduling, the Schaumburg Township Mental Health Board Tuesday recommended approval of a temporary mental health "outpost" here.

The outpost, to be administered by the Northwest Mental Health Center in Arlington Heights, is being proposed for the township offices, 105 S. Roselle Rd.

The outpost would function principally as a counseling and referral facility. Cases requiring more serious consideration would be transferred to the Arlington Heights center. The proposal was explained at the January Schaumburg Township Board of Auditors meeting by Dr. Eugene Trager, director of the Northwest clinic.

BEFORE APPROVING the proposal, board members were curious to know if there would be enough room in the township offices to conveniently accommodate a mental health facility. It was noted that the offices are presently occupied by the Schaumburg Township Youth Outreach worker, the township staff and the Salvation Army, which has received permission to conduct marriage counseling sessions at the facility.

Board member Mrs. Carol Johnson, with apprehension, said, "I cannot oppose having the facility here but want to be sure the space is adequate and the hours are flexible."

Mrs. Phyllis Seaver, board member and also a member of the township office staff, assured the board the offices could accommodate the outpost.

She noted that Northwest has suggested sending a staff member to the outpost for 10 to 14 hours a week. Some of this time, Mrs. Seaver said, could be scheduled for Wednesday, when the offices are not occupied by staff. The remainder could be scheduled so there would be no inconvenience or conflicts, she said.

THREE MEMBERS — Mrs. Connie Schoeld, acting chairman; Mrs. Lorna Miller and Mrs. Johnson — questioned if the quality of service would be adequate considering the space, travel and time considerations. The staff member, it was noted, would have to travel from Arlington Heights.

Mrs. Schoeld, who declined to vote, already has described acceptance of the outpost as being tantamount to endorsement of a recent $190,000 state grant request by Northwest Mental Health Clinic.

"Once Northwest is established in the township, the state may decide to allow them special consideration since they are already here," Mrs. Schoeld has said.

Northwest and Elk Grove Village Community Services are competing for state funds to independently provide mental health services to Schaumburg and Elk Grove townships, which were recently declared a separate mental health planning group by the Illinois Department of Public Health. Consequently both agencies have been wooing local governmental bodies for support.

The township auditors refused to endorse either application. Deadline for submission was Jan. 22. State funding would begin July 1.

"The state will require the service (at the proposed outpost) to be adequate," board member Herman Heinicke said.

Jury Weighs Decision On Dr. Middleton

by ROGER CAPELLINI

An eight-man, four-woman jury deliberated the guilt or innocence of Dr. James G. Middleton for more than eight hours yesterday without reaching a verdict.

The case was turned over to the jury at 9:50 a.m. after Criminal Court Judge Robert J. Downing spent 20 minutes giving legal instructions to the jury.

At press time last night the panel had not yet reached a verdict.

Dr. Middleton, 45, of 969 Elmhurst Rd., Des Plaines, has been charged with deviate sexual assault and aggravated battery by a former woman patient. The former CIA agent, deputy sheriff and smoke jumper is alleged to have given the woman a drug and then forced her to submit to a deviate sexual act.

The doctor has flatly denied the charges and has claimed the whole thing is a result of an extortion plot against him.

IF FOUND GUILTY he could be sentenced to 4 to 20 years in prison on the charges of deviate sexual assault and one to 10 years on the battery charge.

Testimony in the trial lasted 10 days and included statements from the alleged victim, six other former women patients, and two of the doctor's former receptionists. All the former patients said injections given them by the doctor caused them to become weak and dizzy. They also said while they were being treated by him they experienced excessive hair growth, a deepening voice, and an increased sexual appetite.

After Dr. Middleton took the stand last week and denied the charges, an anesthesiologist testified he knows of no drug which could produce the intoxicating effects to which the women testified.

At only one point during their deliberations yesterday did the jurors convey any message to the court.

At 1:30 p.m., Judge Downing said the jurors had relayed a note which said, "Can we have witnesses transcripts?" The judge replied on the same sheet of paper, "No. Robert J. Downing."

Faculty Getting A 'Court' Date

The younger generation at Schaumburg High School will step aside Saturday night for their teachers, who will take to the basketball court against the Harlem Diplomats.

The 6 p.m. game will match the high school faculty against the touring team, which styles itself after the Harlem Globetrotters.

Faculty members will not only make up the home team, but other members of the teaching staff will act as cheerleaders and waterboy or girl, for the event.

The game is sponsored by the Schaumburg High School V.I.P. (Very Interested Parents) Club. Tickets for the game cost $1.50. They may be obtained at the high school, 1110 W. Schaumburg Rd., or by calling 862-5200.

Proceeds from the game will be used by the V.I.P.'s to purchase equipment needed by the school. Past events have raised funds for sodding athletic fields at the school.

Implied Consent Law Unenforceable

by HARRY WEINER

Heretofore at the time of its passage early this year as a major means of reducing highway accidents, Illinois' implied consent law is now regarded as unenforceable with present equipment by area law enforcement officials.

And there apparently is some doubt that the necessary equipment will be available by July 1, when the law goes into effect.

Signed into law by Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie in early January, the law permits the state to suspend the license of any driver who refuses to take a breath test to determine blood alcohol content.

But law enforcement officials say the law will be unenforceable with present equipment because it requires use of equipment that makes a permanent record of blood alcohol content. Present breathalyzer equipment requires manual reading of test results.

THE ILLINOIS Police Chiefs Association, an organization composed of 800 municipal police chiefs, last week passed a resolution urging reconsideration of the legislation in order to eliminate the need for new equipment.

"We're 100 per cent in favor of implied consent legislation," said Jacob J. Novak, executive secretary and treasurer of the organization. "However, the bill provides that the instrument required to be used is something that hasn't been made."

Novak said there "isn't any instrument anywhere" that can comply with the law's provision that a mechanical print-out record blood alcohol content.

A spokesman for a Massachusetts firm that makes breathalyzer equipment agreed that the law requires "terribly complicated" equipment.

"I'm sure our equipment can't comply with the law, nor will anyone else's," a spokesman for Keys Scientific Equipment Co., Cambridge, Mass., said. He noted that it would be "almost impossible" to provide such equipment by July.

ILLINOIS STATE Police officials said they were studying equipment that might comply with the law, but admitted that even if the equipment is found, it would take a major expenditure to finance purchase of enough for the agency.

About 110 breathalyzers are needed for the state police, said Trooper Bob Bryant, of the state headquarters in Springfield. Bryant noted that the cost of the equipment, at least $2,500 per unit, would involve expenditure of funds that the agency does not now have available.

Bryant also noted that the equipment required is more complex than that required by other states, all of which have implied consent laws. "There are not many states that have this stringent a requirement," he said.

Bryant called the equipment required "an automatic-type machine," which is tamper-proof. He indicated he too was hopeful new legislation would be introduced.

Municipal police department officials in the Northwest suburbs indicated they were hopeful the necessary equipment would be available by July 1 and have begun studying specifications of the required equipment. Several departments have included requests for funds to buy the equipment in budget requests for the year, and others have indicated they will seek state subsidies.

Besides the mechanical requirements of the law, other aspects have been criticized by the Illinois Police Chiefs Association. Novak said that a provision allowing motorists to request a second test would cause grave problems in enforcing the law.

Motorists not satisfied with a breath test may request another test at the site of their choice, Novak said, thus greatly handicapping law officers. Motorists apparently could request another test at a site 100 or more miles away from where they were stopped, under the law, he said.

50% Of Environment Unit Money Goes For 'Costs'

Half the money collected by Citizens for a Better Environment goes toward administrative costs the fund-raising group encounters.

The facts were brought forward in a Schaumburg Clean Environment Committee study done by member Alan Larson following complaints made by local residents.

This week Larson reported on problems with CBE experienced by Palatine as explained by Dick Dawson, sanitation for that village.

"Five employees of CBE were arrested this past year in Palatine for soliciting funds without a village permit, and all five forfeited bonds," Larson said.

Subsequent investigation by Palatine police revealed that 50 per cent of the money collected by CBE pays wages of the solicitors and their supervisors.

Office expenses, administrative salaries and environmental donations are taken from the remaining half of funds collected, Larson said.

REPORTEDLY, CBE has contributed to Businessmen for the Public Interest, and Citizens Against Pollution, and donated glassmobiles as well as assisting in the establishment of municipal recycling centers.

"People contributing money to CBE solicitors are certainly unaware that most of their donation goes toward organizational expenses," Larson said.

CBE also is reported to have recruited local environmental groups to assist in their fund drives, which Larson believes "contributes to the public impression that a substantial amount of funds collected goes toward the fight to save the environment."

One solicitor apprehended by Palatine police is said to have collected $60 in one hour's time.

In Schaumburg, solicitors' permits were obtained but workers were on the streets prior to the required clearance from the Illinois attorney general's office came through.

Larson suggested soliciting for environmental causes permitted in the village be restricted to volunteers who could insure that funds collected "would substantially be used for the purpose for which solicited."

Although no official CEC recommendation was made, Trustee Jack Larsen, who chairs the group, indicated agreement for the need to check on future environmental fund drives.

Senior Citizens Plan Programs

Northwest Chapter 545 of the American Association of Retired Persons (AARP) will sponsor activities during 1972 similar to those sponsored last year.

Senior citizens are invited to participate, Elizabeth Helwig, publicity chairman, reported this week.

The regular AARP meeting is the fourth Tuesday of each month at 7:30 p.m. at the Church of the Cross, 541 W. Higgins Rd., Hoffman Estates. Also, Mrs. Helwig said, the club has card and bingo parties at 7:30 p.m. every Thursday at the Hoffman Estates Park District Barn, 650 W. Higgins Rd., Hoffman Estates.

Also sponsored are needlework and art sessions at 12:30 p.m. on the first Wednesday of each month and an afternoon card party at 12:30 p.m. on the third Wednesday of the month. Both are held at the Hoffman Estates Park District Barn, 650 W. Higgins Rd., Hoffman Estates.

She reminded members they may bring guests. Further information may be obtained by calling William Peters at 837-5771 or Mae Claus at 529-8889.

... By The Way, Beef Is At A 20-Year High

Your Milk Bills Will Be Higher Soon

by LEA TONKIN

The average consumer is making the unhappy discovery that his Phase II income is stabilized as the prices of unregulated food items and milk continue to take a bigger chunk out of his paycheck.

What's a consumer to do when faced by the current price hikes for milk and skyrocketing meat prices? According to some area retailers, his thirst for milk won't slacken, but he is likely to kick the meat-and-potatoes habit in favor of less costly items.

"When prices go up, people use recipes where there is a lot less meat," said Bill Newby, director of public relations for the Jewel Food Stores chain. "People start buying more poultry and eggs in stead of meat. Sure, there are a lot of people who will buy meat at higher prices, but there are many more people who will look for lower-priced cuts or other foods."

THE PRICE of beef is at a 20-year high while the demand still is at a relatively high level, Newby continued. A number of variables affect the current short supply of beef, he said, noting that certain market conditions may cause beef producers to lose profits.

"It is hard to predict what will happen to beef prices, but our prices have gone up 13 per cent since the middle of last November," Newby said. "Consumers have to recognize that there has to be an adequate profit for producers in order to have the food and produce in the stores that they want."

Jewel Food Stores will increase prices later this week on milk, Newby said. He declined to estimate the amount of the price hike. Newby contends that price increases in beef, pork, raw produce and other items are more than offset by price declines for other food items.

Other area milk retailers and distributors also are increasing prices this week as a result of a bootstrap clause in the dairy products pricing system. As the price paid to farmers for raw milk used in the manufacture of cheese and other items is raised above a specified level, the price of milk for residential use also rises, according to an area dairy industry spokesman.

HOME DELIVERY and store prices on milk will be increased shortly to reflect higher raw milk prices said a spokesman for Sidney Wanzer & Sons Dairy. No estimate of the price hike amount was available. Its distribution center is located in Rosemont, serving 125 area vendors.

"We will raise our price two cents a gallon," said Lloyd Meyer, president of the Meyer Brothers Dairy Inc., Arlington Heights. The company delivers milk to approximately 2,000 customers in North-west suburbs.

The price of cottage cheese and other dairy products in addition to milk will increase, Meyer said. He does not expect any slowdown in the demand for milk as a result of higher prices.

Most area milk distributors will boost milk prices following the announcement of increased prices to the farmers, according to Dick Michalski, president of Modern Dairy Products, Arlington Heights. The Arlington Heights-based company is increasing home delivery milk prices by one cent a quart, or four cents a gallon.

The last increase in milk prices came one year ago with two to three-cent-a-gallon change.

A spokesman for the Internal Revenue Service Economic Stabilization office in Chicago said Wednesday that retailers can raise their prices to consumers as a result of increased supplier costs. Price hikes cannot reflect a higher profit margin however. Raw milk and raw, unprocessed agricultural products are exempt from Phase II price controls. Pasteurized milk is a non-exempt item.

Milk Association Monopoly Charged

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Justice Department Tuesday charged the 40,000-member Associated Milk Producers Inc., (AMPI), one of the nation's largest dairy marketing cooperatives, with monopolizing the sale of milk produced by dairy farmers in 14 states.

Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell said a civil antitrust suit was filed in U.S. District Court in San Antonio, Tex., headquarters of the association. It charged that AMPI has combined and conspired with milk haulers and processors to unreasonably restrain and monopolize the sale of milk to processors.

AMPI has members in Wisconsin, Minnesota, South Dakota, Iowa, Nebraska, Illinois, Indiana, Missouri, Kansas, Tennessee, Arkansas, Oklahoma, New Mexico and Texas.

The Justice Department said AMPI has acted to restrain and monopolize milk sales in the 14-state area since 1967 by a variety of means designed to eliminate the competition of independent milk producers.

Consumer activist Ralph Nader described AMPI as one of three big milk cooperatives which he said had contributed most of $300,000 given to President Nixon's reelection campaign fund.

In a suit in U. S. District Court filed Jan. 24, Nader urged the court to roll back increases in milk price supports, claiming they were "in fact dictated by political considerations" and not based on the economic need for an increase as required by law.

Among the anticompetitive practices cited in the Justice Department suit were:

—Manipulation of federal milk marketing orders, after issuance by the secretary of agriculture, for the purpose of depressing the price of milk received by independent producers.

—Agreement with milk processors purchasing from AMPI that they would not purchase milk from AMPI's competitors, or that such processors who do will pay a higher price for their milk than those who do not deal with AMPI competitors.

—Unreasonably restricting the right of members to freely withdraw from AMPI and market milk in competition with AMPI.

As a result of these alleged practices, the government charged competition has been eliminated and consumers have been deprived of the opportunity to buy milk and milk products at competitive prices.

It asked for a court order prohibiting continuance of the practices cited and asked that AMPI be enjoined from using threats or coercion to induce dairy farmers to join it. AMPI was formed in 1969 through the merger of about 36 dairy marketing cooperatives.

Answer Tax Questions

Q—WHO MUST file an Illinois income tax return?

A—An Illinois income tax return, Form IL-1040, must be filed by residents of Illinois who are required to file a Federal Form 1040; by residents who are not required to file a 1040 but whose income is more than $1,000 times the number of exemptions reported for Federal tax purposes; by non-residents who have income earned in Illinois.

Q—INTEREST FROM state and municipal bonds is exempt on the federal return. Is it exempt on the Illinois income tax return?

A—No. Interest received from state and municipal bonds is taxable for Illinois income tax purposes.

Q—MY HUSBAND left for the service in June. He was employed as a mechanic prior to his induction. Since he is now in the service is he still required to file an Illinois income tax return?

A—Yes — your husband is required to file a return and report and pay tax on the income from his employment as a mechanic. Active military pay is exempt.

Q—MY PARTNER and I operate a pharmacy. We are both Illinois residents and file a U. S. partnership return. Do we have to file an Illinois partnership return?

A—Yes, in addition to the federal partnership return you are required to file an Illinois partnership return. If you and your partner are Illinois residents at the end of the partnership year use the short form IL-1065 A.

Q—I AM DIVORCED. I am allowed to deduct my alimony payments to my ex-wife on my Federal return. May I deduct these payments from my adjusted gross income before I calculate my state income tax?

A—No. Alimony payments are not deductible on the Illinois State income tax returns.

Wheeling Dems Endorse Berg, But...

by BOB LAHEY
WHEELING TOWNSHIP Regular Democratic Organization has endorsed Judge Raymond Berg for state's attorney of Cook County, but failed to arrive at a unanimous endorsement due to some sentiment for incumbent Edward V. Hanrahan.

The organization unanimously endorsed Lt. Gov. Paul Simon in his Democratic primary contest with Daniel Walker, according to James L. McCabe, township committeeman.

Also unanimously endorsed, for state senator from the 1st legislative District, was William B. Moran of Northbrook. Moran is in a three-way race for the date for state senator in the 1st District; and McCabe, candidate for delegate to the Democratic National Convention.

3RD DISTRICT REPUBLICAN candidates for the Illinois House of Representatives continue to collect endorsements in their three-way race for two nominations.

The Wheeling Township and Elk Grove Township regular Republican organizations this week added their endorsements to the joint candidacy of Mrs. Virginia Macdonald of Arlington Heights, former Cook County GOP chairwoman and delegate to the 6th Constitutional Convention; and Schaumburg Township committeeman Donald L. Totten of Hoffman Estates, deputy secretary of the Illinois Department of Transportation.

Their Republican opponent, Rolling Meadows Mayor Roland J. Meyer, was endorsed by Jack Pahl, former mayor of Elk Grove Village. Pahl, a past president of the Northwest Municipal Conference and a founder of the Cook County Council of Governments, cited the importance of Meyer's experience as mayor and park commissioner in Rolling Meadows.

Meyer, previously endorsed by Schaumburg Mayor Robert Atcher, is seeking support of municipal officials throughout the district.

Totten and Mrs. Macdonald now have won the formal backing of the regular GOP organizations in all the townships lying wholly or partly in the 3rd District. They include Schaumburg, Palatine and Maine townships, in addition to Wheeling and Elk Grove.

AMONG THE MORE active mail campaigns in the primary campaign has been that conducted by Thomas W. Flynn of Niles, Democratic candidate for state senator in the 4th Legislative District.

Flynn is opposed for the Democratic nomination by Steven D. Corwin of Skokie.

Among proposals put forth by Flynn in weekly news releases is a concerted state and local effort to provide low-income housing for the elderly in the suburbs, and creation of six-county mass transportation system for Northeastern Illinois.

Bradley M. Glass

Flynn declared that rental levels in most suburbs are beyond the reach of most senior citizens living on Social Security or small pensions. He said that these rents, combined with inadequate public transportation, high real estate taxes, and lack of social and recreational services are forcing older residents from their homes into city apartments.

State Rep. Eugenia S. Chapman

Flynn said that as senator he would support homestead tax exemption legislation and would personally catalog all state and federal programs available for assistance to senior citizens and make it available to all local governments in the 4th District.

Flynn also has proposed a $1.15 billion plan for purchase of all mass transportation facilities in Northeastern Illinois.

He said that $750 million could be raised through self-retiring revenue bonds without cost to the taxpayer, and that an additional $400 million could be obtained in federal funds.

Funds would be used to extend Chicago Transit Authority facilities wherever feasible and to purchase 3,500 new buses for suburban lines, he said. The buses could be used to create a suburban grid system similar to that of the CTA between the 400 cities in the region and to act as feeders to the railroads, Flynn said.

REP. BRADLEY M. GLASS, R-Northfield, is focusing his campaign for the state Senate in Wheeling Township this week.

Glass is opposing state central committeeman David E. Brown, R-Wilmette, for the Republican nomination for the Senate in the 1st Legislative District, which includes that part of Wheeling Township north of Palatine Road.

He began this week with "coffee" in the home of Mrs. and Mrs. Ed Fox of Wheeling, and Mr. and Mrs. Terry McCann of Arlington Heights.

On Feb. 18, Glass will be the guest at a coffee in the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Koepfen, 139 Berkshire, Wheeling, at 8:30 p.m. Koepfen is a Wheeling village trustee.

Three coffees have been scheduled in Buffalo Grove, all beginning at 7:30 p.m. They will be held at the homes of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Smith, 903 Cambridge Dr., Feb. 14; Village President and Mrs. Gary Armstrong, 274 Timber Hill Rd., Feb. 15; and Mr. and Mrs. William Means, 692 Hickory, March 5.

A LAWYERS' COMMITTEE supporting the candidacy of Donald Page Moore for state's attorney includes Martin J. Keating, 719 Cantine St., Arlington Heights, and Ellis A. Ballard, 79 Hawthorne Rd., Barrington.

Keating is assistant general counsel for marketing, refining and transportation for Standard Oil of Indiana; Ballard is a member of the firm of Pope, Ballard, Shepard and Fowle.

Moore, who also has been endorsed by the Independent Voters of Illinois, is running independently for the Democratic nomination against incumbent Edward V. Hanrahan and the regular party candidate Raymond K. Berg.

STATE SEN. HOWARD MOHR, R-Forest Park, will be the guest at a $25-a-plate testimonial dinner Tuesday to launch his campaign for reelection in the 5th Legislative District. Mohr is opposed by John E. Phillips of Franklin Park.

The dinner is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. at the Chateau Royale, 5743 W. Chicago Ave., Chicago. More than 1,000 persons are expected to attend, according to Mohr's campaign committee.

nomination, with Ann B. Matasar of Wilmette and Joseph K. Luby of Evanston. Sen. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine also received the organization's unanimous endorsement in the presidential preference primary.

McCabe said "several" precinct captains who preferred the reelection of Hanrahan abstained from voting on the state's attorney's elections, preventing the unanimous endorsement of Berg.

The Democratic organization also passed resolutions urging strong support of all unopposed Democratic candidates, with emphasis on State Rep. Eugenia S. Chapman of Arlington Heights, candidate for reelection in the 3rd District; Donald L. Norman of Arlington Heights, candi-

Crane Slates 5-Day Visit In Area

U. S. Rep. Philip M. Crane, R-13th, will begin a five-day visit to the district with an appearance at the Northwest Municipal Conference's annual dinner in Schaumburg this evening.

The dinner is scheduled for 6:30 p.m.

this evening at Lancer's Steak House, Arlington Heights and Meacham roads.

Another major appearance during his visit will be an address Monday before the Northwest District of the Illinois Bankers' Association at Fritz's Restaurant in Arlington Heights.

At 10 a.m. Saturday, Crane will hold the first meeting of his newly created 13th Congressional District Youth Advisory Council. The meeting will be in the Town Hall Meeting Room on the lower level of Randolph Shopping Center, Rand and Elmhurst roads, Mount Prospect.

The council is being formed to provide young people between the ages of 13 and 18 an opportunity to express their views to the congressman, Crane said.

Crane is also scheduled to address a luncheon at the Gen. Henry Dearborn Chapter of the DAR in Chicago at noon Saturday. At 3:15 p.m. Saturday, he will meet with representatives of the League of Women Voters in his Randolph office.

The congressman is also scheduled to appear at a dinner in Glen Ellyn Friday night, and will address the Evanston Junior Auxiliary luncheon on Monday.

Lunar Rover To Be Displayed

A full-scale mock-up of the lunar roving vehicle in which Astronauts David Scott and James Irwin toured the moon during the historic Apollo 16 mission last July, will be on display at the Chicago Auto Show opening February 25 in McCormick Place.

The mock-up is complete in every detail duplicating the vehicle which Scott and Irwin left on the moon after driving some 22 miles making geological explorations of lunar formations and structures. The $12.7 million operational vehicle is 6 feet wide, 10 feet long and 4 feet high. During its tour on the moon it carried both television and movie cameras and contained a complete navigational system.

The "Moon Buggy" as it is called, is powered by two 36 volt batteries and has an individual electric motor for each of the four wheels. Its top speed is 8 miles an hour. It weighs 462 pounds on earth, but because of the gravity on the moon is about one-sixth that of earth, it weighed a mere 77 pounds there.

Lunar Rover will be on display during all show hours from 11 a.m. to 11 p.m. through closing night, Sunday, March 5, and posters at the exhibit will depict operational and construction data.

In all, more than 550 U.S. passenger cars, imports, recreational and commercial, antique and racing vehicles will be on display during the nine-day show. Admission is $1.50 for adults and 75 cents for children 12 and under.

Ordinance Is Advanced

Day Care Center Is Nearer

A day care center at Woodfield Mall in Schaumburg may be a step closer to development because of a day care ordinance approved by the Schaumburg Plan Commission Tuesday.

However, one stipulation in the ordinance that states playgrounds must adjoin the building, may present a problem.

The ordinance governing the operation of day care centers was prepared by Peter Justen, commission member who chaired a committee of members Jim Rosenberg, John Neldvlecky and secretary Carol Herman.

The ordinance used the Cook County recommendations as a guideline but is an improvement on it, said Justen.

THE PROPOSED ordinance will now be given to the village board for its consideration.

In January the Schaumburg Zoning Board of Appeals and village board approved a land-use variance to allow the Woodfield day care center.

Alpha Associates, a Chicago firm chartered by the state, is planning the Woodfield center.

The proposed ordinance will still require operators to come to the village for a special use variance as Alpha did no matter where the center will be located.

In addition, the center must meet the business zoning requirements wherever it is built.

Guidelines for the ordinance in addition to the special use are that:

— proposed centers offer a minimum indoor play space of 50 square feet per child.

— the playground be adjacent to the building, and must offer 75 square feet of outdoor space per child. The computation must include all children enrolled and not those using the playground on shifts.

— parking be provided on a four spaces per every 1,000 square feet of indoor usable space.

JUSTEN SAID health requirements are covered in the village's general health ordinance and food servicing ordinances.

The commission members discussed possibilities that the Woodfield center might run into problems if the surrounding area is developed, using up the adjoining outdoor playground. In that case Alpha has proposed busing children to nearby parks or playgrounds.

The commission felt public lands should not be used by the centers; only private playgrounds established or rented by them.

Commissioner James Rosenberg was worried about approving the ordinance because the adjacent playground stipulation has to bring Alpha representatives to the commission for a variance sooner or later.

However, he agreed that the issue could be worked out, and the proposed ordinance received unanimous commission approval.

Totten, Mrs. Macdonald Launch Local Campaign

Mrs. Virginia Macdonald and Donald L. Totten, both GOP candidates for election to the Illinois legislature, will kick off local phases of their campaign at Friday's meeting of the Republican Organization of Schaumburg Township.

Also expected to attend the 8 p.m. meeting in Campanelli School, Schaumburg, is Dave Regner, uncontested candidate for election to the state senate from the 3rd district.

Regner, a Mount Prospect resident, is now completing his third term in the Illinois House of Representatives.

Totten, Schaumburg Township GOP committeeman; Mrs. Macdonald and Regner comprise the three-person legislative team endorsed by all Republican committeemen in the area.

AS FRESHMAN member of the team, Totten, active in local and county affairs for 10 years, is making his first try for state office.

He has been GOP committeeman in Schaumburg Township since 1966.

A graduate of Notre Dame University, Totten's business specialty has been manufacturing and production management.

He is currently an executive with the Illinois Department of Public Works.

Mrs. Macdonald was elected from the 3rd District as representative to the 1970 Constitutional Convention.

She has also served as assistant to the Director of the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency, was state campaign chairman for the Woman's Division of Sen. Everett Dirksen's 1968 campaign, and past Republican County Chairwoman for Cook County.

Regner is secretary to the Republican House Caucus, chairman of the Appropriations Committee and of the State Property Insurance Study Commission.

He is also a member of the budgetary commission, the Illinois Legislative Council, Legislative Information Systems.

At Friday night's meeting, each of the candidates is expected to give a presentation. There will then be a question and answer period.

Voter Signup Canvass Slated

A voter registration canvass has been tentatively scheduled Feb. 12 at the Barrington Square subdivision of Hoffman Estates by the Democratic Party of Schaumburg Township.

The canvass by party supporters is to be led by John P. Kelley, Schaumburg Township resident and candidate for state representative from the Third District. Similar registration drives already have been held at Village in the Park apartments, Town Square apartments and Moon Lake Village. Other drives may be scheduled at Multicon and Hermitage Trace complexes.

Workers for the canvasses are distributing information on registration locations and hours, and accepting completed change-of-address cards for new residents, which are to be delivered to the Cook County election office.

To vote in the March 21 primary, residents must be registered as of Feb. 21.

Skating Fun, A Warm Fire — And Dad

A WARM FIRE after a rousing snowball fight with her dad, Con, put Bobbie Lynn Bye to sleep in his arms as they warmed up in the lodge during a two day winter camp-out last weekend. The trip was for dads and daughters involved in the Twinbrook YMCA Indian Princess Program. The pair were part of a group of 153 area dads and daughters who participated in the first Freeze-In.

SKATING ON SINGLE runners isn't too hard if your dad gives you some support, Beth Rapp of Hoffman Estates discovered. She and her dad, Dale, took part in a Twinbrook YMCA two day Camp-Out for Y-Indian Princesses and their dads at Camp Edwards in Troy, Wis.

Men's Hairstyles — Plot Of Women's Lib Move?

by DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — It came to me, a blinding revelation, as I was reading a treatise on the outbreak of hirsuteness among male athletes.

Quoting his two daughters as saying "long hair looks pretty good on men," John Ralston, Stanford University football coach, predicted that "the men will cut it when the women say they should."

Reading that, I suddenly realized what

Acting on the first whim ever experienced by a human being, a lower paleolithic woman, for no good reason, let her hair grow beyond any previously achieved length.

And did she ever upset the anthropological applecart? Hoo boy!

"Love your hair that way," a lower paleolithic man crooned, and that did it. That was the beginning of human vanity.

And also the start of male domination. For soon all of the women were letting their hair grow. With predictable results.

While the women were fooling around with their hair — incessantly washing, combing, brushing and rolling it up in allosaurus teeth, which they used in lieu of frozen orange juice cans — the men were out zapping and zonking each other with stone axes.

PLENTY OF fresh air and wholesome exercise gave the men muscular superiority. Furthermore the elongated locks provided a convenient handle by which they could wrest women to the ground.

That was the start of the caveman era and female subjugation. Which is now coming to an end.

Now women are conspiring to overthrow the male by telling him he looks good in long hair. Meanwhile, gradually wearing their own hair shorter.

Athletes are spending time teasing and spraying when they should be blocking and tackling. Thus contributing to their own downfall.

The first time you see a coed with a butch haircut dragging a corner back across the campus by his flowing tresses, you'll know that vanity has struck again.

Dick West

really was behind the headlong surge of American men into extended hair styles.

The whole thing is a plot by the Women's Liberation Movement.

To develop this thesis, let me take you back in time to humanity's emergence from the primeval ooze.

THE SEXES then were truly equal, having the same amount of physical strength, mental prowess and dandruff. But almost overnight, as prehistoric time is reckoned, the situation changed.

Income Tax — 1972

How To List Medical Cost Deductions

This series of articles on changes and revisions in the 1972 federal income tax forms has been prepared by tax experts of the Commerce Clearing House in Chicago. The Herald will present the full series of 11 tax articles on the new tax regulations.

Taxpayers must consider minimum limits in deducting medical and dental expenses on their federal income tax returns.

Deduction is allowed for expenses actually paid during the taxable year covering medical care of the taxpayer, his wife or dependent who is not compensated for by insurance or through other means. The deduction is limited, however, to that portion of the expenses which exceed 3 per cent of the taxpayer's adjusted gross income. There is also a 1 per cent limitation on drugs and medicines.

On a joint return, the 3 per cent is based on the total adjusted gross income of both the husband and wife.

Two medical expense deductions are now allowed:

(1) A special deduction for one-half of the cost (up to $150 per year) of medical care insurance. The cost of medical care insurance includes premiums paid for supplementary medical care insurance under Medicare (but not the employee tax for hospital insurance). Medical care insurance expenses not fully deductible under this deduction are lumped together with other medical expenses and deducted, subject to the 3 per cent rule.

(2) Premiums paid by a taxpayer before he reaches age 65 for medical care insurance for himself, his wife, or a dependent, effective after he reaches age 65, are deductible in the year paid if the premiums are payable (on a level payment basis) under the contract for a period of 10 years or more, or until he reaches age 65 (but in no case for a period of less than five years).

Medical expenses include amounts paid for the diagnosis, cure, mitigation, treatment, or prevention of disease or for the purpose of affecting any structure or function of the body, including amounts paid for health insurance, dental work, eyeglasses, artificial limbs, hearing aids, transportation primarily for and essential to medical care and the like.

Medicines and drugs are included only to the extent they exceed 1 per cent of the taxpayer's adjusted gross income. Funeral expenses are not medical expenses.

4th Annual Draft Lottery Held — What's Your Number?

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Nearly 2 million young men turning 19 this year were thrown together in Wednesday's draft lottery, although it was possible only a few of them actually will ever be drafted.

The lottery was to determine the callup order for 1973 — on the basis of a pairing of 365 red capsules containing the dates of the year and an equal number of blue capsules containing draft sequence numbers 1 through 365.

By simultaneously drawing one after another of the red capsules from one plexiglas drum, and the blue capsules from another drum, Selective Service officials set the order by birth dates by which the young men will be liable to the draft unless exempted or deferred.

But there may be only a few men inducted into service next year.

For one thing, draft calls have been falling steadily as Vietnam War action slows; secondly, President Nixon hopes to have an all-volunteer Army system by the time his present draft authority expires June 30, 1973.

Military pay has been boosted and the services have been trying to make life more enjoyable for their men in an effort to spur recruiting and reduce reliance on the draft.

This is the earliest in the year the lottery has been held, giving those affected by the drawing nearly a year's notice on their likelihood of being drafted.

Birthdates of men born in 1953 and the order in which they are eligible for call for possible military service in 1973, under Wednesday's fourth annual draft lottery:

Little Margin For Error

Radar Guns To Curb Excess Speeding

by DOUG RAY

A policeman sits quietly behind a row of shrubbery waiting for a passing motorist. He lifts what looks like a blunderbuss to the patrol car window and takes aim.

It is no time to panic for the driver who sees the barrel zeroed in on him unless the driver is speeding.

Rolling Meadows and Arlington Heights police are using portable radar speed guns to curb excess speeding within municipal boundaries. The new radar "guns," which resemble Buck Rogers' space weapons, clock motorists within speed zones and are so diverse they may even be used to nab prowlers.

"You point it in the dark," said Rolling Meadows Police Chief Lewis Case, "and it will give the direction of the prowler." Case said the speed gun sends out a signal which can pick up the movement of people as well as the speed of automobiles.

ARLINGTON Heights police have two speed guns and Rolling Meadows one, along with conventional radar equipment. Sgt. Jack Weber, Arlington Heights traffic supervisor, said "a considerable amount" of speeding violators are detected by policemen using the portable radar units.

There are several advantages of the portable radar gun over the stationary radar equipment which is also used by both departments, policemen say. "It's (the speed guns) more impressive and more readily accessible for the alleged violators to look at," Weber said.

The portable unit registers the speed of passing cars and records the speed on a dial. Speed zone violators are often asked by police to observe the recorded speed to point out that there was a violation.

"The party arrested can see what the clocking was," Case added. Case explained that the speed guns clock the exact speed and there is little margin for error.

Case also said the conviction rate of Rolling Meadows motorists caught speeding by policemen using the speed gun "has been high. We get more pleas of guilty," Case said, "and it isn't so hard to qualify the evidence in court."

THE INSTRUMENT costs about $1,600, according to Case, who said "it's been well worth it."

Case praised radar equipment that has become more refined than when it was first introduced about 10 years ago. The motorcycle cop who formerly clocked the traffic violator from his own speedometer is seldom used these days because radar, Case said, is more accurate. "It gives people a fair shake."

Many policemen prefer the speed guns over the stationary units, Weber said.

"There was some difficulty in setting up the old ones and mounting them outside." The speed gun, however, functions in all directions depending upon where it is aimed, he said.

If a speeding motorist gets close enough to observe the stubby barrel of the speed gun, it is probably too late to slow down. He's a likely candidate for a traffic court.

Breadbasket Division Drops SCLC Ties, Rejoins Jesse

The Northern Communities Division of Operation Breadbasket has decided to drop affiliation with the Southern Christian Leadership Conference and join Operation PUSH (People United to Save Humanity), a new organization headed by the Rev. Jesse Jackson.

The steering committee of the four-year-old group made the decision at a recent meeting in Northbrook. The decision was based on the group's desire to continue working with Rev. Jackson and his aides. Rev. Jackson and his entire staff resigned from Breadbasket last December and announced the formation of PUSH. Since then, various Chicago Breadbasket divisions have moved to PUSH.

The steering committee said it felt Jackson and his aides were responsible for successful Breadbasket programs such as Black Expo and the Illinois Hunger Campaign.

THE MAJOR thrust of PUSH will be economic. Included in a 15-point program outlining the goals of PUSH are a comprehensive economic plan for the development of black and poor people; humane alternatives to the welfare system; automatic voter registration as a right of citizenship; humane conditions in prisons and sound rehabilitation programs, and adequate health care for all, based on need.

Time Northern Communities Division will have a cocktail party from 3-6 p.m. Sunday, Feb. 27, to celebrate its new affiliation and to raise money to get PUSH started in the suburbs. The party will be at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Marks, 70 Pierce St., Highland Park.

Among some 30 sponsors of the party are Mr. and Mrs. James Wallace, 94 Elendale, Deerfield; Mr. and Mrs. John Heuman, 170 Heather, Hoffman Estates; Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Rochell, 119 Pierce, Highland Park; Mr. and Mrs. James Brady, 2330 Peachtree, Northbrook; Teri Childress, 1418 Florence, Evanston; Pamela Skeen, 1192 Scott, Winnetka; Mr. and Mrs. Jay Silver, 8208 N. Central, Morton Grove, and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Patzold, 4825 Greenleaf, Skokie.

Phone Shelley Rochell, membership chairman, for additional information on the party and the division. The number is 433-4515.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Please explain the cause, effect and treatment for yellow jaundice.

Dear Reader — We could spend several weeks just answering that one question. Jaundice is caused by the yellow, not greenish, pigment that is normally attributed to bile. The pigment material can come from hemoglobin in the red blood cells. One of the major functions of the liver is to handle body pigments which include hemoglobin pigment in the red blood cells. The pigments are processed by the liver and excreted in the bile, giving bile this characteristic color. The bile in turn produces the color of the normal stool.

Basically, then, there are three ways that yellow jaundice can be produced. One is by the excessive destruction of red blood cells, by whatever means, which creates an excess amount of pigment to be processed by the liver. In this case the primary difficulty is with red blood cells or what causes them to be destroyed.

A second cause for yellow jaundice is obstruction of the normal bile drainage. This can be produced by a stone passing down the bile duct and lodging in the bile duct, thereby obstructing normal blood flow into the intestine. We often call this obstructive jaundice. It can also be caused by a tumor of the pancreas which obstructs the normal drainage from the liver.

A third general cause for yellow jaundice is any involvement of the liver itself which impairs the liver's ability to process pigment. There are numerous medicines or drugs which can affect the liver to cause this. Also certain infections, such as hepatitis, can cause jaundice in this manner.

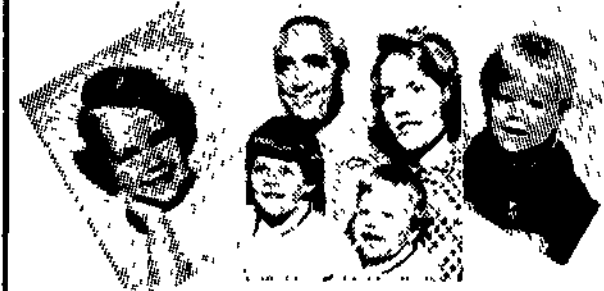

As you can see, there are a host of things which can cause jaundice, from breakdown of the red blood cells to cancer.

The treatment for yellow jaundice then is dependent entirely on its cause. If it is a problem in excessive destruction in red blood cells, treatment must be directed toward this. If there is a stone lodged in the bile duct, obviously effort should be made to remove it. If it is caused by infectious hepatitis, then support for liver function and waiting for the body to recover from its illness will usually take care of the problem.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Does diverticulosis always end up as cancer of the colon? I have known a couple of people who died of it because it had turned to cancer, so I worry secretly about it.

Dear Reader — Diverticulosis (pockets of the colon) does not become cancer. However, since one out of five people past 40 years of age has diverticulosis and since cancer of the colon is not a rare finding in the American population, it is obvious that some people with diverticulosis of the colon will also develop cancer of the colon. This does not mean that cancer of the colon was caused by diverticula. Because diverticulosis is so common in the American population, if it frequently turned into cancer there would be a lot more cancer of the colon than we now observe. I believe you can safely put this fear out of your mind. (Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

Let's Leave S.E. Asia

The list of Northwest suburban men who have died in Southeast Asia since 1965 is a tiny segment of a deeply compelling argument for us to get out of Southeast Asia now.

A total of 37 names is but a fraction of the complete list of Americans who have been killed, wounded, maimed, strung out on drugs or suffered the other physical and mental effects of war.

If one were to prepare a truly comprehensive casualty list, it should include the thousands of Southeast Asians who have died, been wounded or made homeless by the war. It should also include the thousands of acres of farmland pock-marked by bomb craters and forests stripped bare by chemical defoliants.

Finally, it should include the lost chances for better relations with communist countries and our damaged relations with our allies and neutral nations that scorn our Southeast Asian military adventures.

In other wars, there have been justifiable reasons for devastation. In World Wars I and II, survival dictated the chaos of war and the dreaded casualty lists, which showed thousands of Americans giving their lives for freedom and democracy.

Survival is not the issue for us today in the quagmire called Southeast Asia. Despite the easy reasons offered by four American presidents — the shadow of Communist China, the domino theory, the "slaughter of innocents" — there is little to compel us to continue our involvement.

And, despite the sincere and well-intentioned efforts of President Richard Nixon to end the war as soon as possible, today there is little hope his secret negotiations have brought us closer to an abrupt and total peace.

The war's history argues against an easy settlement. It began and remains a civil war, in which the communist forces in the north were drawn into the war when nationalists and communists in the south rose against the dictatorial Diem regime in the late 1950s and early 1960s.

In early 1960, the United States and then the North Vietnamese escalated the war, while our allies and the communist countries remained primarily on the sidelines. Now, despite our continuing presence in Vietnam, Laos, Cambodia and Thailand, the war burns low but will not go out.

Even today, in the wake of President Nixon's announced peace efforts, there are reports of another Tet offensive brewing. Hanoi's men in Paris argue more firmly against allowing a continued American presence in Vietnam.

Withdrawal would be simple if the South Vietnamese government and army which we have propped up for the past 15 years were capable of surviving on its own. However, there is little evidence either could survive a severe attack — indeed, there is evidence the people of Vietnam have little concern at all about the "enemy" from the north.

That is the crux of the problem. Our leaders have spoken loudly about the need for peace and self-determination. Yet we have refused to take a hands-off policy to promote that self-determination.

We could remain in Southeast Asia with a minimal "police force" (or attempt to "rebuild" Vietnam, as Nixon has proposed). Yet who would protect our men from a rekindled war? Would the result be "military advisers," "a token commitment" of troops? Would we once again slip into the quagmire of escalation?

Our only solution is a total withdrawal from Southeast Asia. We can escape the quagmire by returning to Japan, to the Philippines and to Korea. An American pullout would probably result in the release of POWs — a move we should demand if we leave Southeast Asia.

If the cost to us had been less in Southeast Asia, perhaps we could have found a trace of wisdom in the arguments favoring U.S. military action.

But we have failed to bring peace and self-determination to the four war-torn countries. Seven years of full-scale war, the devastation of an entire nation and the loss of too many American men argues strongly — even poignantly — against more war.

These reasons argue firmly for us to get out of Southeast Asia — now.

Timely Quotes

As far as I can see, the internal combustion engine is as dead as a dodo bird. It and its accompanying diesel engine have already become extinct and are going to be oddities in the future, because there are so many better ways to produce power. — Inventor-businessman William Lear.

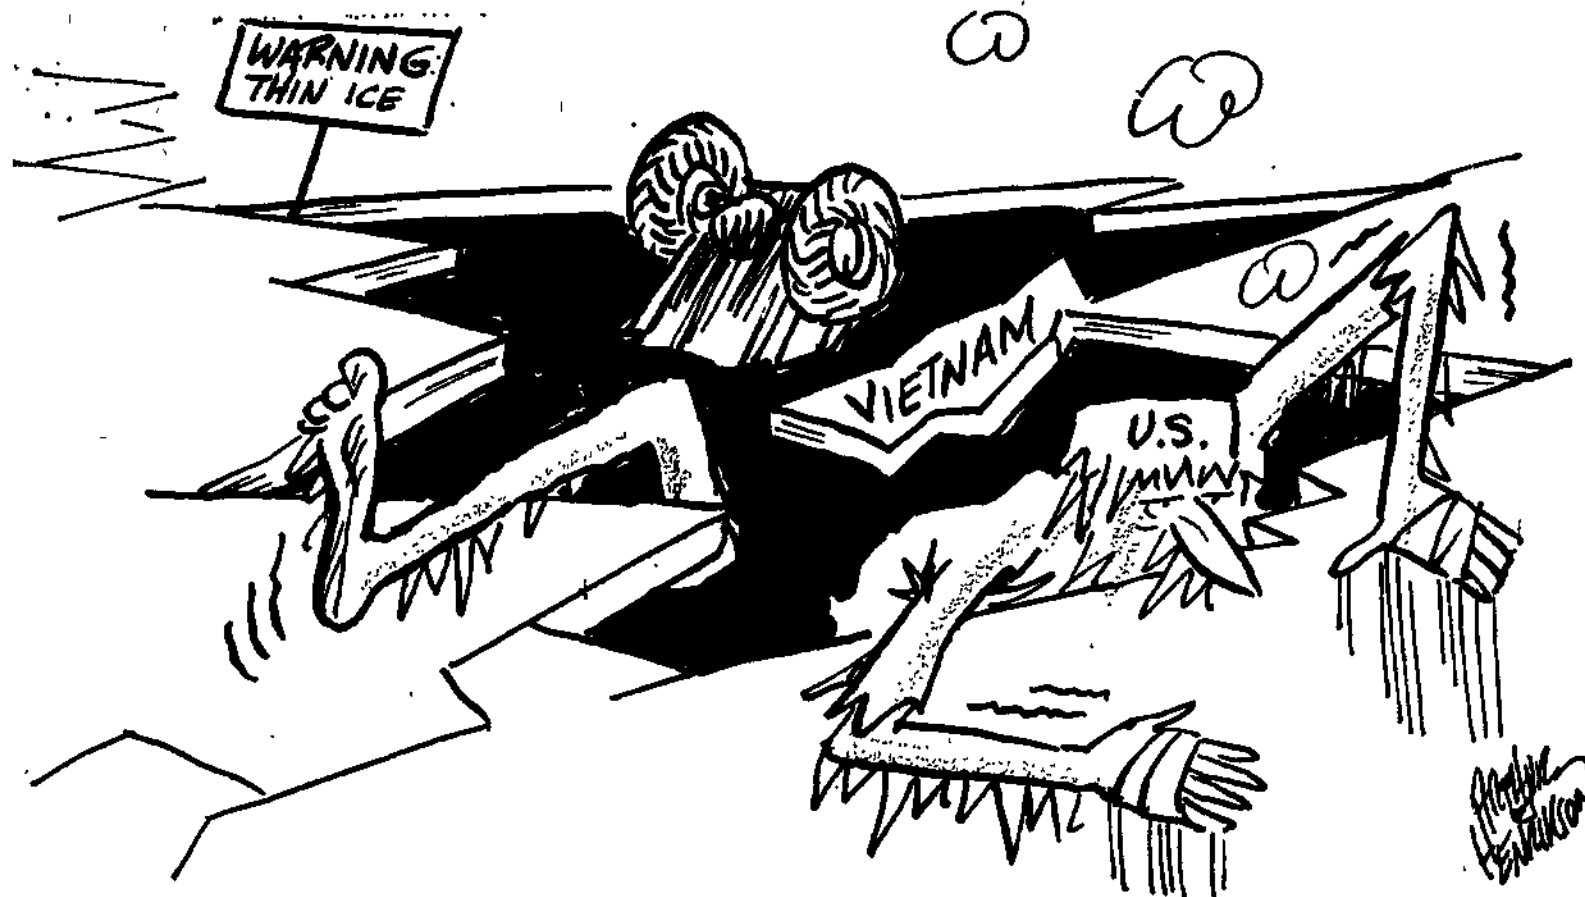

In a truly literal sense, the end result of a recruiting interview at Stanford may be the successful destruction of a Cambodian village — Hubert Marshall, professor of political science at Stanford University, saying U.S. companies making war materials should not be permitted to conduct job interviews on

Bob Lahey's Column

Is GOP's Chuck Percy Wooing Liberals?

Sen. Charles H. Percy

In his first five years as a senator from Illinois, Charles H. Percy has from time to time raised the hackles of the more conservative element of the Republican party, which has sometimes found him more liberal than was suspected when he was elected.

Disenchantment of conservatives with Percy probably reached a peak when he became one of the Senate leaders in the fight to cut back funds sought by President Nixon for expansion of the anti-ballistic missile system.

Coupled with his votes against President Nixon on the confirmation of conservatives Clement Haynesworth and G. Harold Carswell for the U.S. Supreme Court, Percy's stand against the ABM convinced a number of those on the right end of the political spectrum that Percy was a Democrat in disguise.

A cry went up from some corners — including the Wheeling Township Republican Club (not the regular party organization) — that Percy should be denied reelection and drummed out of the party.

Other points of disgruntlement to conservatives have been his opposition to development of a supersonic transport plane; his support of eliminating a $350 million appropriation for the F-111 aircraft; tolerant attitudes on foreign aid and the U.N. and other positions.

At just about any gathering of Republicans, there can be found some who are still predicting that Percy will have a difficult time being reelected.

That, however, is at odds with the expectations of many that he will lead all candidates on the Republican ballot, including President Nixon.

Percy himself seems confidently unconcerned with any threat from the conservative right.

Percy opened his reelection campaign in December with a statewide tour which included stops at Rockford, Belleville, Springfield and Moline, none of them known as hotbeds of liberalism.

He was warmly received at all his stops.

During the long holiday recess of the Senate, he undoubtedly had the opportunity for further sounding of the political climate in the state.

It is suspected that he found the conservative "threat" to have abated.

Palatine Chamber of Commerce and Industry.

At one point in his address, Percy volunteered the conclusion that "the theory that there is a single communist conspiracy directed against the free world just doesn't hold water."

Percy was commenting on a world tour he took at the request of the President in which he conferred with heads of state from Britain and France to Addis Ababa. He found, he said, that communist nations are too preoccupied with differences among themselves to concentrate their efforts against the free world.

Considering the diversity of Republican opinion to be found throughout the suburbs and the state, that is not a dangerous stance for a candidate for reelection. But to the far-right conservatives, of which there are more than a few in the suburbs, they are fighting words.

The fact that Percy chose a predominantly Republican audience in a suburban setting to disclaim an international "communist conspiracy" would seem to indicate that he is not concerned about wooing back conservative opponents.

Faced with only token opposition in the Republican primary, Percy may have decided to write off the extreme conservative vote and concentrate on the middle-of-the-road and liberal wings of the party, while making himself appealing to independents and a scattering of Democrats.

'Misinterpreted,' He States

The FENCE POST Letters to the Editor

it exists. As it was printed I questioned how acute the differences actually are. But, if they did exist I would do all within my power as a new commissioner, with new ideas, to help pull out the wedge of difference, not drive it in any deeper.

Also, I wish to go on record here and now and state that I have no quarrel with Mayor Meyer as to relations between the park district and himself or the City Council or for that matter any other issue.

In one other area I feel I was misquoted or at least my statements were misinterpreted. I was asked if I had started a football league in Champaign Urbana, it is true I was one of the original founders of pee-wee football, along with two other gentlemen, in 1962. It is today one of the most successful programs in the country. But when asked what my feelings were relative to pee-wee football and little league baseball here in the Meadows, I explained our program in Champaign Urbana and felt I could offer some degree of expertise in both these sports. I expressed, during the interview and still feel that the park district could and should conduct seminars and instructional classes to assist in training coaches and umpires for any and all sports programs in the Meadows.

I stated further that we put nothing but the best of equipment on our boys. I made no reference as to the quality of the equipment being used here in the Meadows, nor did I imply that our boys were being physically abused. I did cite one instance of verbal abuse and I feel that we all agree that this is a universal problem.

So in closing may I say, that after reading the article I question if in some places I had said those things in the manner in which they were printed? I feel that although I have had only one phone call complaining about the content of the article in one area, that the two articles following it prompted me to write to you.

Hoping for continued cooperation, I remain

NEW YORK (UPI) — What is the best selling book in the world?

The Bible traditionally has been considered but Webster's dictionary outsells complete Bibles in the United States today and dictionaries sell in countries where there is little demand for the Bible.

G. & C. Merriam Co. of Springfield, Mass., says sales of Webster's Seventh New Collegiate Dictionary, introduced in 1963, have just passed 10 million.

"Surely the Bible is the only book that has sold more copies than that," said David Replegle, president of Merriam.

Replegle said annual sales of standard sized and big dictionaries run about 2½ million copies of $15 million in money annually. But sales of all kinds of dictionaries, including the tiniest, may approach 50 million.

The American Bible Society says it sells around 725,000 complete Bibles a year and sales of Testaments and excerpts run to 90 million a year. The Bible Society doesn't know how many complete Bibles commercial publishers sell but it knows it has the biggest share of the market.

MERRIAM HAS about one-third of the standard size and big dictionary market with Random House, Funk & Wagnalls, American Heritage, Webster's New World and the Oxford Dictionary sharing most of the rest.

Replegle said it would be impossible to count the firms that print cheap dictionaries. Most use the Webster name because it is in the public domain. Merriam acquired the copyrights from Noah Webster's estate after his death in 1843, but they expired long ago. Ever since then, Merriam, now a subsidiary of Encyclopaedia Britannica, has printed the largest and most elaborate line of Webster's dictionaries.

The company remained strictly in the dictionary business from its founding until very recently when it published Webster's "Guide to American History." This fall it will bring out a handsome book of photographs of the American scene, its first complete departure from compendia type books.

"We'll branch out cautiously more in the direction of non-compendia reference works in the next few years," Replegle said.

"But dictionary publishing is an exacting business and we can't divert too much of our energies from it," he said.

FOR EXAMPLE, the devaluation of the dollar and shakeup in world currencies last year is creating a lot of work for editors. They already have listed nearly 50 words and terms that either are brand new to the language or must be redefined because of changes in their meaning resulting from the monetary crises of the last few years.

The ecology movement and the sex revolution also have created new words and phrases and altered the meanings of others so they must be redefined.

Eurodollar, convertibility, floating currency, drawing rights, dollar gap and gold premium are examples of terms requiring new definition as a result of the monetary changes. Stagflation is a new word. It means "inflation characteristic by stagnant consumer demand and severe price-wage inflation."

New, too, are ecocide, the wilful destruction of the natural environment; im-ploot, taking measures to offset exploitation of natural resources; antinatalist, an advocate of population control; transsex, the act of having one's sex changed; Custerism, display of bravado in a last ditch situation.

Loans Reach New State High

Lending activity by the Small Business Administration (SBA) reached record heights in Illinois during the first six months of fiscal 1972, according to Robert A. Dwyer, Midwestern regional director.

According to Dwyer, in the six months, ending Dec. 31, 440 loans were approved by the SBA within the state for $26,035,177, an increase of more than 26 per cent in dollar amount over the comparable period in fiscal 1971.

The most significant increase, Dwyer said, came in the state's 36 northernmost counties, which are administered by the SBA's Chicago office.

In those counties, Dwyer said, 311 loans were approved during the six-month period for $18,523,312 — a hike of more than 32 per cent over the pace of fiscal 1971.

The SBA established a record in Illinois in fiscal 1971 by approving $40,152,260 in loans during the entire year. This was an increase of 43 per cent over fiscal 1970.

Research Firm Outlook: Economy 'Recovering'

The nation's economy is characterized as moving from recovery to strength in National Securities & Research Corp.'s 1972 forecast.

The corporation sponsors the National Securities Funds, Fairfield Fund and Capital Trinity Fund with combined assets of $900 million. The 1972 edition marks the 25th annual forecast of business and stock market prospects published by National.

National's staff believes, "The underlying base for the accelerating prosperity next year continues to be the high and steadily increasing level of disposable income which is and should continue to be translated into rising retail sales as well as a maintainable record level of residential building."

"As confidence in the stability of the economy becomes restored, the abnormal (high) level of savings could drop back to more normal level . . . a 1 per cent reduction in savings adds about $7.8 billion to the spending stream."

In the opinion of the fund managers, business and earnings trends are highly favorable for the stock market in 1972. "Assuming that the Standard & Poor's 500 Stock Index can show a 16.5 per cent gain in earnings in 1972, and this appears reasonable, the market at current prices is selling at approximately 14 times the estimate. With the exception of the second quarter of 1970, this is the lowest quarterly P/E ratio since 1964 . . . it appears that stocks are reasonably priced and could show worthwhile appreciation over the next twelve months."

Additional impetus for the market is expected to come from the recent reduction in margin requirements. The "probability of reinvestment in American securities from abroad" is also cited as a possible market stimulant. The investment company sees more limited corporate financing during 1972 than in 1970 and '71, with long-term interest rates moving "modestly downward during the early half of 1972."

National is forecasting a 1972 GNP of $1.148 trillion, a 9 per cent gain over 1971, with 6 per cent real and 3 per cent coming from price increases.

Good earnings increases are expected for the following industry groups: autos, retail trade, steel, office equipment, banks, building, chemical, drugs, electronics, railroads, airlines, trucking and electrical utilities.

Toyota Reports Midwest Sales Up 56 Per Cent In '71

Mid-America retail sales of Toyota cars and trucks in 1971 increased by 56 per cent to 44,181 units. This compares with 1970 sales of 28,331, announced Anthony Thompson, president of Mid-Southern Toyota Distributors Inc., of Franklin Park.

"The 1971 retail sales results achieved by our 203 dealers, operating in 14 states, are particularly significant considering the well-publicized problems which confronted the imported car business since June of 1971," Thompson said.

"We were well on our way to reaching a realistic goal of 50,000 retail deliveries in 1971 when the international economic crisis — triggered by strikes, the wage-price controls, the import surcharge and the re-evaluation of both United States and Japanese currencies — created consumer buying confusion."

"The Gulf Coast dock strike temporarily restricted access to the recently expanded automobile receiving, preparation and shipping terminal operated by our sister company, Southern Service Co., at the port of New Orleans," Thompson said. "As a result, we were required to handle importation through alternate West Coast ports, which delayed shipment of cars and trucks to our dealers."

"We are most optimistic about prospects for 1972, and this seems to be borne out by the strong surge we have witnessed in retail sales since the first of the year," he said. "We believe the international monetary accord, and elimination of the excise tax and the import surcharge which have allowed us to establish a stable price structure for our products have been important factors in our healthy start this year."

"Despite increase in costs for new automotive safety equipment required after Jan. 1, Toyota announced its intention to hold retail prices at the current level, hopefully for the remainder of the model year," Thompson said.

Mid-Southern Toyota Distributors Inc., the largest independent distributor of Toyota automobiles in the United States, is a subsidiary of Amco Industries Inc. MST has dealers in the states of Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, Michigan, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Iowa, Nebraska, Kansas, North Dakota, South Dakota, Missouri, Kentucky and Tennessee.

Northern Air Now Northwest Trane

Northern Air Inc. has changed its name to Northwest Trane Air Conditioning Co., Palatine.

Ownership and management will remain the same.

The Trane Company is the largest manufacturer of central air conditioning and heating equipment in the world, according to Steve Rothacker, president.

N-I Gas Reports Record Revenues

Northern Illinois Gas Co. reported its 1971 earnings reached a record $34.7 million on revenues of $374 million.

These earnings represent an increase of about $2 million over the previous year's $32.8 million from sales totaling $345 million.

The per share earnings on average shares of common stock were $2.80 in 1971. This compares with $2.79 in 1970. The average number of shares of outstanding common stock increased during 1971 due to the sale of 900,000 shares in April.

C. J. Gauthier, chairman and president of N-I-Gas, said the earnings were attained despite problems imposed by the natural gas supply shortage and warmer-than-usual late 1971 weather conditions. Further, the adverse impact of this mild weather will carry into 1972 since the majority of customers are billed bi-monthly.

January weather was colder than normal, and on the fifteenth of the month the company had a record 24-hour gas sendout of 3.2 billion cubic feet of gas, when the temperature averaged nine below zero.

Union Carbide Dividend Is 50c

The board of directors of Union Carbide Corp. has declared its 219th dividend. The amount is 50 cents a share on the outstanding capital stock of the corporation payable March 1, to stockholders of record at the close of business Feb. 4, 1972. The last quarterly dividend was 50 cents a share paid Dec. 1, 1971.

Sola Has Higher 3rd Quarter Gains

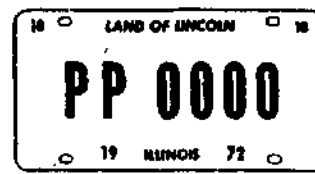

Third quarter earnings ahead of the same period last year and continuation of an upward business trend were reported by Sola Basic Industries.

Earnings for the third quarter ended Dec. 31 were $1,003,985 or 30 cents a share on sales of $25,485,924. Corresponding figures a year earlier were $836,908 or 28 cents a share on $24,602,213.

For the first nine months of fiscal 1972, earnings were $2,660,466 or 79 cents a share on sales of $70,719,685 in contrast with last year's earnings of $2,627,680 or 81 cents a share on much higher sales of $74,756,372.

The firm said the business upturn, anticipated at the company's annual meeting in July, became increasingly apparent as the second and third quarters progressed.

Headquartered in Milwaukee, Wis., the multinational company makes electrical and electronic equipment for the distribution, control and use of electric power in 18 domestic plants and 14 abroad. The company includes a facility in Elk Grove Village.

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI) — There are no signs anything resembling a major top is close at hand, according to E. F. Hutton & Co. The firm notes most of the popular averages fared well during the rallies late last week and that some reached peaks. But the Dow Jones industrial average did not, the firm says, and this may give some comfort to perennial bears.

Whatever one may think about this year it is considered a foregone conclusion 1973 will be a disaster year for stock market, according to Hoppin, Watson Inc. The firm says logic would dictate the buyer invest now, but warns not to believe anyone who says it might be for real. Some see in the current developing pattern of speculative interest a carbon copy of what we had last year, with the bull market peak coming this spring, the firm says.

Standard & Poor's Corp. believes the underlying advance on the market has further to go. The firm says in any event it is only a matter of time before the next leg gets under way. A constructive investment posture is recommended by the firm.

The economy has not yet made the necessary internal adjustments to respond favorably to the stimulating factors of deficit spending, tax benefits and the ample money supply, Edward A. Viner & Co. says. Perhaps the missing ingredient, business and consumer confidence, still is lacking, the firm says. For these reasons, the firm says it recommends a cautious approach toward the market in the near term.

To People Who Hate Their Nights

Funny thing about people. Many of them sleep restlessly, wake up tired, feel grumpy and never wonder if their mattress is at fault.

Yet, our experience indicates that a poor mattress is at the bottom of most sleep problems. We say that because so many of our customers have been amazed at the improvement in their sleep after they bought a Beautyrest. Here are typical comments:

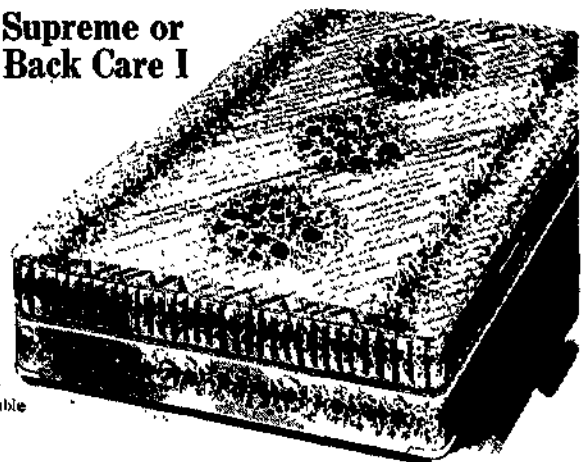

"Gee, I didn't know there was such comfort."
"Haven't slept as well in years."
"My back hasn't bothered me since I got it."
"I sleep better, I feel better, I have more pep."
"Wouldn't go back to my old mattress for anything."

If you have sleep problems—particularly if you are using an old obsolete mattress—better hustle down to our store and find out about Beautyrest. Why? Well, we are what you might call "Beautyrest Specialists" . . . we've been selling them for years and years . . . we carry all models in stock (few stores do) . . . and you'll find people here who will be genuinely glad to help you find the model that is best for your sleep problem.

Collecting Coins

by Mort Reed

Webster Two Hawk, chairman of the Rosebud Sioux tribal council, announces the release of a pure silver dollar-size coin-medal and a new book on the history of his tribe, "The Sioux People (Rosebud)," by Joseph H. Cash, associate professor of history at the University of South Dakota.

As a director of the American Indian Research project and South Dakota Oral History Project, Cash has directed oral history among many of the great Northern Plains tribes and has done much research on the people of the Rosebud reservation.

The book and coin-medal are the fourth in a series to cover eventually 38 of America's most prominent sovereign Indian nations. Three earlier coin-medal and book sets covered three Arizona tribes, the Havasupai, the Hopi and the Apaches.

While the origin of the Sioux is shrouded by the too-distant past, or as the author puts it "... before the dawn of history," the book reaches back into the 16th century to trace the fate of the tribe up to its present-day efforts to improve its lot.

IT DESCRIBES THE 100-year war that existed between the Pawnee Nation and the Sioux as "... a march of conquest unequalled in the history of American Indians in what is now the United States. The gold rush which hit the Black Hills of South Dakota ironically led to the decline of the Sioux.

The coin-medal is the size of a U.S. dollar struck in pure .999 fine silver and each bears the serial number of the book. The obverse device shows a mounted Sioux chief in full war dress with a row of typical tepees in the background.

A buffalo hide shield superimposed by a quiver, tomahawk and peace pipe compose the reverse device. Like most tribes the Sioux made their peace pipes from catlinite, a material found in and around the Minnesota area which is responsible for the name of Pipestone, Minn.

The coin-medal and book sets are limited to 15,000 editions, according to John Griffin, consultant to the Indian Tribal Series with offices located at 401 East Indian School, Phoenix, Ariz. 85012.

PROCEEDS FROM the sale of all Indian Tribal Series coin-medal and book sets go to the tribal fund for welfare and educational improvement within the sponsoring reservation.

In response to questions from many readers each American Indian reservation is governed by the individual tribal governments of that reservation. The Rosebud Sioux tribal government is a good example.

The tribal government of the Rosebud Sioux Tribe was approved Dec. 20, 1935. The governing body is the Rosebud Sioux Council. Members are elected for two years from each designated district within the reservation. The council either elects or appoints officers needed for the community's operation.

Webster Two Hawk, present tribal chairman and the ninth man to lead the Rosebud Sioux since 1936, is an ordained priest of the Episcopal Church. He is an alumnus of the Bishop Hare Home near Mission, S.Dak. A Korea veteran, Two Hawk is one of the highest ranking American Indian officers in the U.S. Army.

Continued success of the Indian Tribal Series will probably bring other nations into the program. Present plans call for six coin-medal and book issues in 1972, beginning with the Paiute.

Woodfield Hosts A Stamp Bourse

Woodfield will be host to a stamp bourse from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday in the Schaumburg Room, the shopping center's community auditorium on the upper level near Penney's.

Albert Lenz of Schaumburg is directing the project in which nine dealers will participate. Lenz has participated in many such bourses, mostly in Elgin, Des Plaines, Rockford, and DeKalb.

"The group is mainly from the Northwest suburbs," he said. "A couple are from Chicago, but the others represent Hoffman Estates, Des Plaines, Wood Dale, Rolling Meadows, Roselle, Bensenville, and Elmhurst."

Lenz, who began stamp collecting as a youngster, has been at it for 35 years. "Stamp dealers enjoy discussing their hobby with others whether they're curious onlookers or experts. They're only too happy to answer questions about their displays and collections," he said.

Do-It-Yourself

Smooth mirror finishes on furniture and floors don't come out of a can or off the end of a brush. The best varnish, lacquer or shellac will not give a perfect finish without proper preparation of the surface first.

Many people go ahead and brush on the finishing material with the notion that minor scratches and flaws in the wood surface will be covered up and not be noticeable.

If anything, the flaws will be even more pronounced. This is especially true with dark-stained wood.

For that perfect finish, all scratches must be sanded out of the wood. Start with medium grit paper and progress to finer grits.

Sand with the grain. On a flat surface, back the sandpaper with a solid block of wood and try to use pressure as uniformly as possible.

EXAMINE THE WORK frequently so that you do not sand off too much of the surface. Sight along the surface for irregularities. Run your fingers over it for ridges and rough spots your eyes do not readily detect.

When you think you have sanded the surface as smooth as you possibly can make it, go over it again with very fine sandpaper. This will remove the fine scratches left by previous sandings — scratches you may not notice now but which will be apparent once the finish is applied.

Wipe or vacuum frequently as you work. After the final sanding give the surface a good wiping with a tack cloth. This is a cloth with a slightly sticky surface and is available at most paint stores. Lacking this, use a rag moistened with turpentine.

Actual finishing should be done in a room as free of dust as possible. Use a full brush and flow the finishing material on with long strokes. Apply across with the grain when the brush is almost dry.

The finish should be thoroughly dry before succeeding coats are applied. Each coat should be lightly sanded with very fine sandpaper or fine steel wool before the next one is applied.

CERTAIN WOODS such as oak and walnut have open grain which will not provide a completely smooth finish no matter how much sanding you do. For an absolutely perfect finish these woods must be treated with a paste wood filler to fill up the pores.

Thin the filler with turpentine until it is like a thick paint. Then brush it in across the grain covering only a small surface at a time. As the filler is about to dry it must be rubbed in with a coarse rag and then the excess wiped off. Do not wait too long.

Fillers are available in a so-called natural color and in tints to match various woods. Tinting colors also are available. Check the color on some out of the way corner of the wood before application. If you are staining the surface, stain before filling and then use a matching filler.

Once the surface is filled, proceed as outlined before in smoothing the surface for finishing.

Two pushers went about their systematic task in a large room at the rear of Dempster Junior High School late Friday afternoon.

As a group of eager youngsters gazed intently, this pair revealed a ritual that would lead to the ultimate of thrills. The two, working as a team, showed how to make a lengthy trip short by satisfying.

The younger one used speed; the other yelled, whistled and made wild gestures.

Their captive audience soaked it up. When the trip had been completed, both parties were elated. Some even screamed their approval.

The pushers had succeeded. Besides directly experiencing the ultimate, they had truly influenced their observers. These youngsters were definitely hooked.

This wasn't an introduction to drugs. Instead, it was the 200-yard freestyle event between hosting Prospect and Forest View at Kopp's Pool. Falcon coach Gordon Aukerman was the skidline "pusher" and Cliff Schlak, his prize pupil, was the competing "pusher." Together they succeeded in lowering his area leading time in that event. Both explained their "pusher" roles.

"Sometimes you don't like the coach during practice," said this outstanding senior. "This is natural if he's working you hard. He's dropped my time in the 400 quite a bit. I'm glad I'm getting coached by him. I like the way he pushes me."

Aukerman had this to say about possibly the most talented swimmer in the Herald area:

"To say nothing of what he's done in terms of scoring for us, I think one of the most valuable contributions he's made is in terms of pushing these other swimmers. The ability and desire he's displayed in practice, along with his very positive approach to swimming itself, have helped some of our other swimmers."

Prior to this season, Schlak had directed his skills toward defeating Forest View as a member of the Elk Grove team. Four reasons contributed to his change of schools — his Des Plaines home was located in a redistricting area, his younger swimming brother was already attending there, his sister was just about to become a Forest View freshman and his coach — Phil Pardon — had taken the head job at Rolling Meadows.

Both Aukerman and the Falcon team are just as happy about the transfer as Schlak. His influence, both as a leader and as a performer, has made Forest View unbeatable through seven straight duals this season.

Schlak presently leads the Herald area's swim honor roll in three categories — the 200 and 400-yard freestyles and the 200-yard individual medley. A feat no other swimmer can match.

Aukerman began pushing Schlak last summer at a Mount Prospect park district pool.

"I just worked out all summer long," explained Schlak. "My stroke kept improving and my times kept going down."

Compared to his best time last year in prep competition in the 400 (4:18.0), his improvement has been outstanding — 3:58.6.

Working with weights for the first time has helped in lowering his times, according to Schlak. He also receives an assist from his basketball player size — 6-3, 185.

His goal, naturally, is the state finals. Or, as he puts it, "getting up there in the top six."

As of last week's state ratings, Schlak ranks fourth in the individual medley with a time of 2:08.0. To capture a place in the state as well as an athletic scholarship, he'll have to shave several seconds off, according to Aukerman.

Only a person on dope would be foolish enough to bet against this pair of pushers.

SUPER SOPH. Arlington's Charlie Dunn has already Dunn ranks third in both events on the Herald area hon-gone below state qualifying times in both the 200 indi- or roll. This is his second year on the Cardinal varsity- vidual medley (2:10.6) and the 100 backstroke (1:58.6). team.

Cards Share 3rd
In Frosh Invite

Six schools take turns hosting a freshman invitational each year and Arlington's turn came up this season.

The Cardinals came up 18 points short of first with a share of third place with Lyons Township recently at Olympic Pool in Arlington Heights.

Deerfield finished first with 66 points with Glenbrook South right behind at 58. Rounding out the scoring were Evanston in fifth (42) and Maine East in sixth (24).

Joe Nitch was the only individual winner for Arlington. The freshman won the 300-yard freestyle with a time of 3:13.4 — a new invitational record.

Maine East will host the tourney next year.

Past Wheeling

The swim season in the Mid-Suburban League has been a tough one for the Wheeling team. Things didn't change against hosting Arlington last week.

Arlington captured every first and all but one second in romping to an 83-12 victory Friday at Olympic Pool. However, the lopsidedness of the win didn't excite Cardinal coach Don Anderson as much as the return of Steve Jurco.

"Just his presence helps a lot," said Anderson of his senior co-captain, sidelined off and on this season with an infection. "We're glad to have him back in the lineup."

Jurco was only used in the medley and freestyle relays for Anderson wants to bring him back into shape slowly. He made his presence felt, however, in anchoring the 200-yard medley team to victory and being the first man off in the 400-yard freestyle as they won again.

Two Cards had double victories — Charlie Dunn and Dave Hartman. Dunn took the 100-yard butterfly (1:58.8) and the 100-yard backstroke (1:59.6); Hartman scored in the 200-yard individual medley (2:18.2) and the 400-yard freestyle (4:14.3).

Taking the only second for the Wildcats, now 4-1 in the league and 6-5 overall, was Ken Bergman in the 100-yard breaststroke.

Anderson was especially pleased with the effort of Ray Hollenbach in diving. His 144.1 was a personal high.

Iversen's Strong Showing
Paces St. Viator Victory

"We swam most of the guys in different events because we knew they didn't have a whole lot," said John Fleck, St. Viator's coach, while commenting on the most recent Suburban Catholic Conference dual.

Despite the juggled lineup, the Lions sailed away with a 67-27 victory over hosting St. Patrick Friday. It was the winners' fourth win against three losses and boosted their SCC record to 2-1.

Coming through with a pair of firsts to pace his team was Jeff Iversen. He won the 200-yard individual medley (2:17) and the 400-yard freestyle (4:14).

"Jeff is finally coming around now," said Fleck. "He was out with mononucleosis for eight weeks. He started training after Christmas and just this week his times are starting to drop."

Rounding out the firsts for St. Viator were Jim Wolf in the 100 butterfly (1:59.7), Dick Fitzsimons in the 100

Arlington is now 3-4 overall and 4-1 in the MSL.

Led by Randy Wood's wins in the 200 individual medley (2:27.5) and 100 backstroke (1:06.4), the Cards rolled to a 75-20 win in the frosh-soph meet.

Bengals Draft Conley

Steve Conley

Arlington High School product Steve Conley was selected by the Cincinnati Bengals Tuesday evening in the National Football League player draft.

Conley was the fifth choice of the Bengals, who had sent an assistant coach to Arlington Heights just last weekend to watch the 6-3, 220-pound running back in a series of workouts at Rolling Meadows High School.

Conley, who is also being touted as a possible tight end candidate, was notified at approximately 9 p.m. Tuesday.

Conley and his wife, who now live in Arlington Heights, immediately flew to Kansas City but will return home over the weekend. Steve starred as a college performer with the University of Kansas.

Several teams had expressed interest in the area product, but Cincinnati made it known last weekend they would select him if available and they were impressed with the workouts at Rolling Meadows.

Harper Wins, Plays Again Tonight

by PAUL LOGAN

Would Harper College hit the hundred mark for the fifth time this season?

That was about the only thing left unanswered midway through the second half of the Hawks' game with McHenry Tuesday night at Conant High School.

The Hawks blew the not-so-tough Fighting Scots off the court to lead by as much as 33 points at one time. When the last regular departed with the score 66-62 and over six minutes remaining, the century mark seemed assured.

However, the Harper substitutes had trouble finding the range and came up just short — 97-79.

"I think it helped us to win one," said Harper coach Dave Etienne, possibly thinking of the four previous losses in five games prior to this one.

The Hawks, now 6-2 in the SC, will continue their outside chance at a share of the title when they go against league opponent Amundsen College tonight at 7:30.

Although the Scots absorbed their 12th straight loss and are now 2-14 on the season, they did hold a 45-43 halftime lead in the earlier meeting last December.

"We couldn't hit from the outside of their zone," recalled Etienne, but his team went on to win, 99-76.

That wasn't the case this time around.

Kevin Barthule and reserve guard Jeff Boyer saw to that with a handful of bombs from the 20-foot range. Scott Feige, the other starting guard, committed four quick fouls and had to leave the game with the Scots still within range.

The visitors managed to cut the margin to 20-18 before Boyer started hitting.

"Boyer was a real surprise after Scotty got in foul trouble," praised Etienne. "He really helped us hitting from the outside and moving the ball at the point."

With this former Elk Grove prep quarterbacking the team, the Hawks got their patented running game going and raced away to a 22-point lead, 53-31. Accounting for six straight baskets during this stretch was Terry Rohan. The outburst forced the Scots out of their zone to a man-to-man and the drive toward 100 points was on.

Helping to key the fast break was Don Spry. The 6-6 freshman yanked down 12 of his game high 17 rebounds during the first half.

"Spry did a good job on the boards," said Etienne. "He really cleaned them out."

The Hawks, playing like their old loose selves, built on their halftime lead, 55-38, in the second 20 minutes. They outscored the Scots 20-4 over the first eight minutes as the losers could only hit on one field goal. They seldom got more than one shot with Spry, Jeff Algaier and Rohan handling the rebounds. Then Barthule or Rohan would cash in with a field goal at the other end.

Rohan had the greatest offensive night in his career with 26 points, all field goals and game scoring honors.

"We changed our zone offense and he's been getting open," said Etienne.

Barthule, the team's leading scorer, finished with 22. He might have scored more had he not been ailing and also concentrating on defending against Jim Mulvanna, the Scots' potent shooter. Mulvanna finished with 21.

Although McHenry's Joe Dehn and Bruce Harbecke had 22 and 21 points, respectively, they helped fatten their averages against Harper's reserves. Harper ruled the backboards, 57-40, with Rohan and Algaier finishing behind Spry with nine each.

PALATINE HOUSE LEAGUE HOCKEY

Squid Division
Lions Club defeated Palatine Savings & Loan by a 2-1 score. Andy Frank and Rick Pult scored for the Lions while Bob Simon tallied Savings & Loan's only score.

Scott Thomas scored the only goal of the game as Palatine Heating & Cooling edged Savings & Loan, 1-0. Goalkeepers John Nelson and Dave Handel turned in excellent games.

Arlington Park Dodge whipped Lions Club 5-1. Scoring for the Dodge boys were Don Trocke, Brian Ranieri, Steve Moss, Doug McElreath and Don Sullivan. Scott Walker was the Lions' scorer.

The Lions bounced back to cool off Palatine Heating & Cooling, 4-3. Mike Setty came up with a hat trick for all of the losers' goals. The Lions got scores from Pult, Stan Hamner, Steve Smith and Bob Hogan.

Heating & Cooling turned a 2-1 decision over Savings & Loan. Setty and Mike Ruid scored for the winners and Dick Grau for the losers.

The Dodge boys eked out a 3-2 victory over the Lions. Pult had both goals for the Lions while Trocke had a pair and McBride one for Dodge.

Free Wee Division
Dairy Queen defeated Suburban Sport Specialists by a 3-1 score. No details were submitted by coaches.

Morock Chocolates squeaked out a 2-1 win over Suburban Sport Specialists. John Danabue and Glenn Hoffman scored for the victors. Goalkeeper Bruce Deal had the near shutout.

In a very well-played game, Louis Ward Builders played to a 2-2 tie with Morock Chocolates. Tim Conner and Donahue scored for Morock while Mike Trocke and Dale Giesonup scored for the Builders.

Ward beat Suburban Sport as Dave Dudek scored the lone goal for the losers. Trocke and Jerry Oles were the Builders' scorers.

Barium Division
First Bank & Trust defeated Arby's Roast Beef by a 2-1 count. Pat Nichols had the only goal for Arby's while Jack Shriver and Mark Oakley tallied for First Bank.

Zayre's remained unbeaten with a 4-1 victory over Langer. Bruce Leloff scored twice for Zayre's while Gary Cronin and Mike Mueller each had one.

First Bank & Trust scored a 3-1 verdict over Langer. Goals for the winners were scored by Shriver, Mike Johnson and Adrich.

Arby's Roast Beef was a narrow 2-1 winner over First Bank. Jim McIntire scored both goals for Arby's and Ken Ullrich countered for the Bankers.

Arby's behind the shutout goaltending of Rob Sutton, routed Langer 7-0. Paul Thompson and Tom Norrell popped in two goals apiece while Brad Fogel, Scott Sprinkle and Len Larsen had one each. Mike McBride and Tom Norrell each had a pair of assists.

Zayre's cashed in on Bank & Trust by a resounding 10-2 score. Scott Schmidt had a hat trick. Andy Shmidt collected two goals and two assists. Tom Phillips had two scores and single goals were by Bill Smith, Mike Mueller and Steve Sarlus.

Midget Division
Arlington Heights Entertainers shut out Graebel American Movers, 3-0. No details were given.

Jag's Clothing and Graebel Movers fought to a 3-3 tie. Coaches did not submit details.

Heights Entertainers edged Jag's 5-4. Keith Larson had a hat trick for the winners and Bill DeVerma and Dean Molzank added a goal apiece. Scoring for Jag's were Tom Kine, Rich Stremmel, Steve Hanke and Keith Obermeyer.

The Palatine Norsemen traveling hockey team on the Pee Wee level has an 8-4 record for all games this season and is 4-1 in conference games against teams from Hoffman Estates, Joliet and Elmhurst.

The Norsemen have scored 64 goals in all, compared to only 17 for the opposition, with the margin being a one-sided 39-5 in conference action. Three victories have been over Hoffman Estates by scores of 8-0, 6-0 and 5-0. Joliet also has been defeated twice, 4-1 and 3-1. Other wins have come at the expense of Rockford (14-0), Winfield (6-0 and 4-0) and St. Jude (11-0).

Defenceman Sloan leads the team in scoring with seven points on three goals and four assists. Flynn has six points with three goals and Gullott has scored five points and leads the team in goals with four. The Norsemen have a well-balanced attack down the line.

Upcoming games will be against Schaumburg this Saturday, Feb. 5, and against Evanston Feb. 12. The Schaumburg game will be played in the Polar Dome in Dundee starting at 6 p.m. and the Evanston contest will be at the rink on the Northwestern U. campus next to McGraw Hall starting at 8 p.m.

MODEL AVIATION WITH YOUR SON

Dads, Now that the bowl games are over and it's too cold to pursue your golf game, how about taking on a "Father & Son" project of building a model plane? Can you remember struggling with a 10" comet "paper & stick" model years ago while listening to "The Shadow" or "The Long Ranger"? I do. I can still smell the "banana oil." The 10" "comet" kit is now 50" but what hasn't gone up. We still stock "comet" as well as others from 29" to $12.00. We even have some old "solid model" (wood, not plastic). Stop by with this ad and we'll give you one "on the house". Send this ad and we'll send one out if you can't make it in.

Wheeling Dumps Pirates, 62-48

by KEITH REINHARD

For a while it seemed that Ted Ecker might be playing some sort of variation of musical chairs on the basketball court ... call it the Rotating Forwards game.

It turned out there was method to his madness, however, and his Wheeling club went on to outmuscle Palatine in a Mid-Suburban League North Division showdown on the Pirate hardwood Tuesday evening, 62-48.

No less than five different faces and any number of combinations were shuffled around the forward slots by the Wildcat pilot while Jay Rusek, a utility man who has also played in the front court, viewed the shifting from a guard position.

Ecker was searching for the right duo to flank his towering center Roger Wood. Though the hosts had some strategies of their own, and eventually short-circuited Wheeling's experiment, the damage was already done.

Bill Olson and George Kaage turned out to be the heroes of the affair, and they will undoubtedly find more permanent berths on the floor in Wheeling's next encounter. Between them they accounted for 19 points and 26 rebounds as Wheeling bounced back from two straight conference setbacks to move above .500 again in their divisional race.

"We just haven't been hitting the boards this season as much as I had hoped and this was especially evident in our past two losses to Hersey and Arlington. I wanted to see who could do the best job up front and I think I've found what I want in Bill and George."

Most of the action took place right under the buckets all night long and one of the end results was Wood's first early departure via the foul route this season. He didn't go without a fight, however, blocking or deflecting 16 Pirate shots before acquiring his fifth personal early in the final stanza.

"That evidently was part of their game plan anyway," Ecker pondered. "And you have to give them credit for accomplishing their mission, but I think the key was the fact that we were able to take up the slack without Wood's scoring and rebounding punch."

Even when Wood was on the court he was handcuffed underneath by the clamppike defensive play of Jim Sander and Doug Fyfe. Rog went outside to pick up most of his pointage and was completely neutralized on his offensive boards.

On defense Wood was in the thick of the action most of the way with Palatine constantly going inside to look for the score. They found Rog's outstretched hand more often than not and began falling behind even before the first period was over.

The 'Cats led 16-10 at the outset of period two and were up by a dozen toward the end of the half. A 12-foot jumper and four free throws by Sander within a 30-second span just before the gun reduced that bulge to 30-24.

By the beginning of the second half Ecker had pretty much settled on sophomore Kaage and 6-6 senior Olson as his two front men and they helped the 'Cats rebuild a 12-point lead and maintain it until late in the going when first Wood and then Olson fouled out.

Wheeling didn't score another bucket after that but capitalized on free throws to maintain the gap the remainder of the contest.

Wildcat scoring was about as balanced as it has been all season with Wood finishing with 15, Jim Kass with 14, Olson with 10, Kaage with nine and Rusek with eight. Fyfe paced the losers with 14 and Sander kicked in 12.

Toklat—A 'Grizzly' Show For Kids

THE "G" RATING given the outdoor adventure movie "Toklat" has to stand for "gory" instead of for "general audiences."

Presently playing in ChicagoLand, this show is supposedly aimed at pre-school as well as grade school youngsters. However, it completely misses the target.

Since my daughter, age 4½, dearly loves to watch furry little animals in action, I thought she might get a kick out of it. But despite the "G" rating, I had heard that this movie was not all the advertisements made it out to be. So, last Friday I made a solo trip to check it out.

Prior to the matinee feature, two adults were overheard to say:

"There are so few good pictures you can take kids to . . . It should be good . . ."

"They like animals at that age . . ."

In the first 10 minutes, two animals and one man were killed. Some coyotes kill a sheep; a rancher kills a deer to trap Toklat, a giant grizzly, who he thinks did in the sheep; and then Toklat mauls the man.

Of the three closeups of the dead, the camera crew should win an academy award for the thorough job in showing flies buzzing and crawling around the sheep's carcass.

The dead man's brother, owner of the sheep, knows that his drunken, quick-triggered brother probably deserved his fate. Still, he begins trucking Toklat, the camera zooming in on his rifle as he says:

"I don't know why . . . but I guess I've got to do it."

As he rides off on the hunt, there is a sequence of flashbacks dealing with Toklat's life in the Utah wilds.

The audience, made up of several mothers, grandparents and several hundred youngsters, sees Toklat first as a cuddly teddy bearish cub stumbling into one silly crisis after another. As the months and years pass, the bear is shown meeting other animals as he explores his future domain. There are plenty of scenes, ala Walt Disney productions, as the kids develop a love for the bear.

At Rolling Meadows

Pat Hofer had high series of 555 (201 high game) in the Wednesday Morning Melodies League at Rolling Meadows Bowl . . . Marilyn Elliott was right behind with 554, having a high game of 191 . . . Barb Bade had 543 (210 game), Claire Bakowski 521, Marilyn Graham 499 with a 210 game, and Helen Daly 464 . . . Paula Betzold came up with a 209 game. Karen Estep 172, Honey Reese 170, Gert Grohan 165, and Donna Donges 164 . . . Tough conversions were made by Barb Bade (5-7) and Myrtle Dieling (6-7, 10) . . . Team-wise, high game and series went to the Silverbirds with 764 and 2267.

Take That, 'Toklat'

ty of scenes, ala Walt Disney productions, as the kids develop a love for the bear.

Even at full growth, the mammoth beast still is a cub in the eyes of his viewers, laughing and smiling all the time they watch him mature.

The scenery for the most part is majestic as the grizzly himself. However, several times there are scenes so out of focus that they hurt the eyes and are comparable to home movies.

The beauty of both plant and animal life had to impress these youngsters, but it was really setting them up for a cruel climax.

Finally the rancher sees Toklat, up ahead. As he pulls his rifle from his scabbard, there are several flashbacks showing Toklat as a cub and then when he kills the man's brother.

"Is he going to get him now?" said a little voice behind me to his mother.

When the shot was fired which killed the bear, the sound left the theatre hushed.

Did he die?" whispered the little child as Toklat was made to disappear by means of trick photography in an effort at making a tasteful scene of the kill. "Why did he want to kill Toklat?"

This child, probably about six, wasn't the only one asking why as little toddlers filed out of their seats. Minutes later in the foyer of the theatre, I heard some boys, approximately 10-years-old, talking:

"I could see the man getting killed, but not the grizzly."

"I hate that man."

It looks like my daughter will have to be content watching more of "Sesame Street" and shows like that until something that really deserves the "G" rating comes along.

"Toklat" should have a "GP" instead. Not for general audiences with parental guidance, but for "garbage picture."

Cougars Win More Than Just A Game

A Feast For A 71-39 Cage Victory

by LARRY EVERHART

Conant coach Dick Redlinger will have a big restaurant bill to pick up, but this is one of those times he won't mind treating.

The cats will be for his basketball team, and well-deserved they are after its 71-39 thrashing of host Schaumburg Tuesday night.

For the past two seasons, Redlinger has had a standing offer to his squad for dinner at his house if they hold an opponent under 45 points and a restaurant feast if the defensive total is under 40. Eat hearty, boys.

The Cougars, who never were threatened after the first quarter Tuesday, crept back into the South Division lead in the Mid-Suburban League by one-half game over idle Forest View. Conant now is 5-1; Forest View 4-1. Overall, the Cougars became 12-3 while dropping the Saxons to 2-12.

Conant's impressive defense Tuesday was due to two things: a smothering zone defense (even tighter in the fourth quarter when reserves were playing) and Schaumburg's continuation of its favorite tactic of holding the ball and being super-cautious in looking for shots.

Chet Pudlosky, Conant's 6-4 forward and the league's leading rebounder, grabbed another bundle of boards and led all scorers with 21 points before retiring early. Center Dave Schmitt added 13 and guard Bill Arkus 12 while John Blasco was the only Saxon with more than five points, collecting 16.

The aggressive hosts were guilty of 25 fouls and Conant cashed in by making 23 of 33 free throws. They had the best of everything else, too — 50 rebounds to 28 for the much shorter Saxons, and 46 per cent shooting from the field to a paltry 23 per cent for Schaumburg.

The losers' frustration heightened in the fourth quarter when they could sink just one of 19 field goal attempts — that coming at the buzzer. Until then, they hadn't had a basket since 1:22 remained in the third quarter.

The teams traded turnovers in the early ragged moments. Conant jumped ahead 6-0 and Schaumburg, having to temporarily abandon its slowdown style, seemed capable of making a game of it trailing by just two late in the opening period.

But from then on it was all Cougars.

They hit six straight baskets without retaliation to pull ahead 27-12 and gradually padded that cushion the rest of the way. Pudlosky already had 14 points midway through the second quarter.

The halftime lead was 32-22 as long bullseyes by Marty Hjertstedt, Kevin Joy and Jeff Larson were answered by two Schmitt tallies.

The consistent visitors kept going in the third quarter when Schaumburg, forced now to shoot, still could not hit with any regularity. It was 47-32 after the third quarter.

Redlinger cleared his bench in the last session and the little-used Cougars exerted so much defensive pressure that the hosts could scarcely find a decent shot. The game deteriorated into a foul-infested, free-throw shooting contest.

Just before the opening tip, Schaumburg coach Joe Breault had been presented with a bouquet of flowers from appreciative cheerleaders and pom-pom girls. The opposition turned out to be more like poison ivy, and it was the Cougars who came out smelling like roses.

Close For Three But Fremd Rolls

by DON FRISKE

It was a close game. At 2:32 in the third quarter the score was 45-42 in favor of the Fremd Vikings.

But the Vikings exploded from this point on to defeat the hosting Mustangs of Rolling Meadows, 80-64, Tuesday night in junior-varsity action.

Mustang guard Pat Geegan, whose two free throws put the Mustangs only three behind the Vikings, was the game's high scorer with 24 points. One half of Geegan's total came in the fourth quarter when his shooting was the one and only thing that kept the Mustang offensive moving.

"I was glad to see Pat having such a good game," said Ken Arneson, the Mustangs' coach.

From 2:32 of the third quarter on, the Vikings controlled the ball game. During this span they outscored the Mustangs by 13 points, 35-22.

One key factor of this outburst was the shooting of Fremd's center, Dave Sharpe. Sharpe was high scorer for the Vikings with 22 points. Sharpe contributed 10 of his 22 during the Fremd scoring binge.

The Mustangs had played even ball with the Vikings up until the third quarter when the Vikings outscored the Mustangs, 17-13. Fremd had a 38-33 lead at halftime.

The coaches from both teams agreed on one thing. At 3:24 in the first quarter, Mustang forward Len Link committed his third foul of the game and Arneson had Link sit out before he could get into any further trouble.

This move broke up the Mustang starting five who were working well at the time.

"One thing that hurt the Mustangs badly was when Link got into foul trouble," said Rick Gablenz, coach of the Vikings. Arneson agreed.

"The key thing in our downfall this game was when Len committed his third personal foul," said Arneson.

Both teams will see action this weekend when the Vikings meet the Wildcats of Wheeling and the Mustangs visit the Huskies of Hersey.

Wives Of War Prisoners On 'Roller Coaster Of Hope'

(Peace negotiations on Vietnam may go on in public or in secret, proposals may be advanced and rejected, but for relatives of war prisoners little changes. Tom Tiede, who has written frequently on their individual tragedies, reports they are still lonely, still waiting.)

by TOM TIEDE

NEW YORK — It has begun as another tedious year for Evelyn Grubb. She's the wife of an Air Force officer shot down and missing in North Vietnam. She's also the national coordinator for the National League of Families of Prisoners of War and Missing in Action. As such, she travels the nation to speak in behalf of the wives and children and other relatives of 1,600 POWs-MIAs.

She tells of her own husband, Maj. Wilmer Grubb, missing now since 1966. She tells of her four children and her hopes for their futures ("no wars"). She tells of all the misery and suffering and confusion and terrible human waste.

Audiences listen intently. Reporters take notes. "How do you feel, Mrs. Grubb, being away from your husband so long?"

THE WOMAN does a good job of it. She is poised, modest, courageous. And yet as she wanders about for her cause — Virginia one week, New York the next — she seems uneasy. Her answers to questions are mechanical. Her sad statistics seem to come out by way of cue. Clearly, she doesn't seem to be absolutely convinced that all that she is doing is doing any good at all.

Mrs. Grubb's activism is hesitant. Dedicated, but hesitant. And small wonder. She has been part of the POW-MIA movement for five years. She has besieged the Congress. She has written to world leaders. She has even petitioned the United Nations in an attempt to guarantee decent treatment of war captives. Yet for all of it, the POW-MIA question is no less severe today than when she started.

Even such periodic headline events as President Nixon's disclosure of the U.S. withdrawal-prisoner release package offer end up for the wives as another dip on what Sybil Stockdale, another league activist, describes as their "roller coaster of hope."

Oh, there has been some small progress for the activist relatives. Some recognition that they have terrible problems; some concessions, even, from Hanoi (North Vietnam released a "final and complete" POW list of 339 men in 1970). But as for guaranteeing humane treatment for their men, as for insisting the enemy follow the Geneva Convention on war prisoners (regular prisoner lists, regular mail, regular Red Cross inspection of camps) — as for this, the wives and parents and children and sisters and brothers have failed absolutely.

So it is that Evelyn Grubb and many of the other 2,700 members of her league are, after all these years, still what they were originally — desperately uncertain.

"I'm frustrated more than I can say," Mrs. Grubb admits. "I've done everything I know how. But I'm still without my husband. I'm still in limbo."

AS IT HAPPENS, Mrs. Grubb is in a special limbo. When her husband was shot down, Hanoi released propaganda pictures of the pilot, seemingly in good health. However, says the wife, "His name was not included among the 339 Hanoi released in 1970. So I don't know. If I believe the Hanoi list, my husband must have died after he was captured. Some of the propaganda photos showed him with bayonets pointed at him. Well, maybe they put one of the bayonets down his throat."

But if Mrs. Grubb's case is ugly, it is not unique. Most of the POW-MIA relatives have some special frustrations. Kathy Plowman was married two weeks before her husband went to war, and was five months pregnant when he was shot down. Shirley Odell writes letters to President Nixon advising him that while he watches sports on television, her husband watches a bare light-bulb in some dirty dungeon.

One wife on the West Coast put a POW-MIA collection can on the bar of a military officer's club and collected a grand total of $1.50 in two weeks.

And if the families don't have peculiar frustrations, they have obvious ones. Sex and marriage, for instance, for the wives. Some wives have begun to date. Some few are living with other men. A couple have even gotten divorces.

"The public acts as if this is terrible," says one activist wife, "and maybe it is. But remember, some of the girls have had husbands missing for five and six years. Some had shaky marriages to start with. Others have given them up for dead. Most women are very loyal, of course. But some just can't take it any more."

INDEED, SOME of the women can't "take it" any more. The crank calls in the middle of the night. The political bickering in many nations over the lives of their husbands and sons. "I'm so sick of it," says one California wife. "I read in a magazine the other day where you can buy a bracelet now with the name of a POW-MIA on it. If you send 50 cents extra you can get the deluxe bracelet, made of copper, which will cure rheumatism. My God! I don't even want to talk about it."

Still, this year, again, Evelyn Grubb and thousands of other POW-MIA relatives will be busy. March 26 is the eighth anniversary of the first man captured in Vietnam. Eight years. Ninety-six months. "We're planning everything from a candlelight vigil to an International Day of Prayer," says Mrs. Grubb, who knows full well that if candlelight and prayer worked, her husband would be home now.

Hope To Include 26,037 Boys In Scouting By 1976

A goal of 33 new Boy Scout units by the end of 1972 has been set by the Northwest Suburban Council of the Boy Scouts of America. The council hopes to have 26,037 registered members by 1976.

The expansion is being handled by a new Council Growth Plan, headed by Robert E. Lahti, president of Harper College. The plan proposes enough additional Cub, Scout and Explorer units so all Northwest suburban communities have become involved in scouting can be accommodated.

The plan is a result of surveys which indicate that three-fourths of the boys between eight and 16 who reside in the Northwest suburbs would like to be scouts. Currently about one-fourth of this total 68,400-boy population is registered in the area scout program. Girls are also included in the Explorer posts.

The council hopes to have enough trained leaders to expand the present program by 725 scouts this year. The Northwest suburban communities have been divided into districts with special scout names. The district titled Signal Hill takes in Barrington, Palatine, Inverness and Lake Zurich areas.

Wheeling, Buffalo Grove, Mount Prospect and Prospect Heights are included in the North Star section, while Rolling Meadows and Arlington Heights are in the Sauk Woods district.

THE COUNCIL name for the area of Schaumburg, Elk Grove Village and Hoffman Estates is Pathfinder. The Algonquin district includes Des Plaines, Rosemont, Schiller Park and the area surrounding O'Hare International Airport. The Skokie Valley district is Morton Grove and Skokie, and Park Ridge and Niles make up the Maine Ridge district.

Organizing teams will gather at an official kickoff dinner Feb. 17 at Harper College in Palatine. Scout officials and community organization representatives will attend the 7 p.m. dinner in the college cafeteria.

For further information contact James G. Stevenson, council field director, at 1622 N. Rand Rd., Arlington Heights, or phone 394-5050.

DuBrow On TV

by Rick DuBrow

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — The increased television use of two-part presentations of movies — divided up and shown on successive nights, or even with a week between the segments — is an example of network butchery of major films.

It is bad enough when television "edits" artful movies before putting them on, and then inserts a plague of commercials to ruin them even more. And it is nothing less than criminal how certain local stations hack away and eliminate entire sections of some films.

But the final humiliation, in a way, is when a network takes a motion picture that may have been conceived and presented on a grand scale in its original theater form, and then reduces it to the size of an elongated television show — spread out over several nights. What was epic becomes pint-sized, its image diminished not only by the reduction of its impact to that of a mere video "special."

WE RECENTLY had a sad example of how a great movie can have its image destroyed for many viewers. The film was "The Bridge on the River Kwai," and CBS-TV presented it as a two-parter, and it did not do well in the ratings. When first shown some years back, on ABC-TV, it was presented in one piece and gained a tremendous rating.

Now we are faced with other upcoming examples of butchery in the same vein. "Ben-Hur," which also was shown on a single night by CBS-TV, and had great impact that way, will be rerun by the network in two parts on Feb. 13 and 20. "West Side Story" is scheduled to be broadcast as another two-parter, on NBC-TV, March 14 and 15.

In an incredible move, ABC-TV, which is reported to have paid about $5 million for the Elizabeth Taylor-Richard Burton-Rex Harrison epic, "Cleopatra," now has decided to cut it up and present it in two parts, Feb. 13 and 14 — three hours the first night, two the second.

WHAT THE networks seem to overlook is the fact that once they have destroyed the image of a good movie by cutting it up unmercifully, they have under-cut its commercial value for their own future use.

Multi-part video offerings are fine for such series as "Gunsmoke" and "Marcus Welby, M.D.," and even acceptable — though not desirable — for ersatz television "movies" like the four-hour, two-night "Vanished," which would have had more impact on a single showing. But those are only production-line, forgettable television programs. To tamper, on the other hand, with major attempts at memorable entertainment — sometimes art that becomes part of the national legacy — is unforgivable.

Eye Operation Won't Hinder Sandy Duncan

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Television comedienne Sandy Duncan, who recently revealed she lost the sight of her left eye in November, is feeling "perfectly fine," her agent said Tuesday.

"She's in good health and good spirits," the agent, Gus Schirmer, said. CBS said she planned to resume filming her television series, "Funny Girl," in April.

Miss Duncan was operated on Nov. 1 for removal of a tumor, which turned out to be benign, behind the eye. The agent said that she still had the eye and that, although she had lost her vision, the eye was moving in tandem with the right eye.

Miss Duncan had been experiencing blurry vision before the surgery, the agent said.

Schirmer said Miss Duncan has been taping appearances on the Flip Wilson Show, Sonny and Cher and Laugh-In and has scheduled a film.

Miss Duncan disclosed the operation Monday would not hinder her career. She said she was fortunate the operation left no visible trace of her blindness.

A beginner would have no trouble making the spade game. He would win the heart lead with his king and play the ace and king of trumps. He would be annoyed when East showed out but would have just one line of play to make his contract. He would enter dummy with the king of clubs; discard a diamond on the ace of hearts and lead a diamond toward his king.

It looks like an automatic play for any one from beginner to world champion yet when one of our unlucky friends played the hand he had no trouble going down one.

West was one of those experts who try to develop good luck for themselves. When South played the ace of spades, West dropped the jack. This would have cost him a trick if his partner held the singleton king of trumps, but expert West was sure that South wasn't the type of bridge player who bids one and three spades with a six-card suit headed by ace-nothing.

South looked at that jack of spades and looked some more. Then he glared at West; looked at the ceiling and finally led a club to dummy's king. He discarded a diamond on the heart ace and proceeded to play the 10 of spades. East showed out and South had no way to lead a diamond toward his king.

It was bad luck, but also bad play. South should have ignored West's false-card play.

Social Security and You

Q—DURING 1971, I earned over $1,680 and received my monthly social security payments. I reported to social security when I started working. Do I need to do anything more?

A—You must file an annual report with social security furnishing information as to your total earnings for 1971, and what months of the year you did not earn over $140. A card for reporting should be sent automatically to you. If you do not receive the card by about the middle of March, telephone 230-7000 and inform social security. This report must be filed no later than April 17.

Q—I DIDN'T expect to earn over $1,680 during 1971, but I worked more hours at Christmas than I expected and earned over $1,680. Since I did not know that I would earn so much, I didn't report it last year. What do I do now?

A—Telephone 230-7000 in the near future and explain what happened. They will send you a card for reporting. This must be done before April 17.

Q—IF I REPORTED to social security during 1971 that I earned over $1,680, why can't I fill out the annual report card now, at the social security office, and not wait for the report card to be mailed?

A—The report card that is mailed has information already punched into your card, such as your name and social security number. Using this particular card enables social security to process your report quicker, therefore, it is preferable that you fill it out when it is received and mail it back.

Deadline Nears For Medicare

If you were born between Oct. 1, 1903 and Oct. 1, 1904, your last opportunity to apply for medical insurance under Medicare ends March 21, 1972, according to Cornelius R. Schafer, district manager of the Social Security office at 4415 N. Milwaukee Ave., Chicago.

This is true even if you are still working and will continue working indefinitely. An individual does not have to retire to sign up for Medicare. However, there is a limited time after he is 65 to sign up for the medical insurance part of Medicare.

Any person who has not previously signed up for medical insurance, is at least age 65, and was born after Oct. 1, 1903, can apply anytime from now until March 31, 1972.

The medical insurance part of Medicare helps pay doctor bills, outpatient hospital bills, and costs of many other medical supplies and services. Ninety-five per cent of the people 65 or over have signed up for this insurance protection.

Many people who have not signed up for medical insurance incorrectly believed they weren't eligible for it or that their present insurance was enough protection.

Schafer said, "The reasons people over 65 do not sign up or delay in signing up are frequently based on incorrect beliefs or incomplete information. Then by the time the individual realizes his mistake or finally decides to enroll, the time limit has expired. He is no longer eligible for this insurance protection which he now wants and needs."

A person does not have to get Medicare. A person who has never worked may be eligible for medical insurance. Most private and company health insurance plans automatically terminate full coverage after age 65 and merely offer a supplement to Medicare.

Before anyone decides he has enough insurance without Medicare, Schafer urges that he contact his insurance company representative. And before deciding he is not eligible for Medicare, whatever the reason, contact a Social Security office. The phone number in metropolitan Chicago is 239-7000.

Ends Training

Airman Richard P. Diaz, son of Mrs. Beatrice Q. Diaz of 207 S. Wolf Rd., Wheeling, has completed his Air Force basic training at the Air Training Command's Lackland Air Force Base, Tex. He has been assigned to Lowry AFB, Colo., for training in the munitions and weapons maintenance field.

Airman Diaz is a 1970 graduate of St. Viator High School, Arlington Heights.

Lang Appointed Manager At Masonite Corp.

Richard H. Lang, of 3 Red Haw Rd., Rolling Meadows, has been appointed manager of National Accounts for Masonite Corp., Chicago-based manufacturer of hardboard products for residential and commercial construction. He succeeds Earl W. Hadland, who retired recently after 45 years with Masonite.

Lang, who joined the company as a

Mortgage Firm Announces Loan

A $5,177,600 mortgage loan for the Gatehouse II apartment complex, at Seegers and Goebbert Roads in Arlington Heights has been arranged by Percy Wilson Mortgage and Finance Corporation of Chicago.

This is the second phase of the project. There are 280 units in each of the seven buildings. One, two and three-bedroom apartments, ranging in rent from $220 to $345, are featured. Air conditioning, dishwashers, carpeting and draperies are also included.

Tenants of phase II will have use of the community building, swimming pool, club house, tennis courts and recreational areas, built for the first phase of the project.

Gatehouse II is being built by Lincoln Property Co., under section 221-d-4 of the National Housing Act, with Lincoln Construction Inc. as general contractor.

Loan arrangements were made by Neal Ross, assistant general counsel for Percy Wilson.

Area Man To Head New PR Program

George R. White, 1116 Barberry Ln., Mount Prospect, has been named to the newly-created post of director of corporate public relations for the Portland Cement Association. Formerly director of marketing communications, his appointment recently was announced by Charles W. Reese, PCA group vice president.

White, with extensive experience in public relations and PCA field promotion, will develop a public relations program on behalf of the broad interests of the Association and the cement industry.

A graduate of Oklahoma State University, he has served the Association in Phoenix, Ariz., and Seattle, Wash.

Supported by a majority of U.S. and Canadian cement manufacturers, the Portland Cement Association engages in research and market development at its $20 million Cement and Concrete Center in Skokie.

Home Ownership Builds Equity

Buying a home may be the biggest investment a family will ever make according to Richard G. Rutledge, executive vice president and general manager of real estate sales for the Quinlan and Tyson, Inc., Realtors.

If a family wants to buy a home and can meet the economic requirements, owning a home is a very sound investment, Rutledge said. He said there are several financial advantages to owning a home:

It is a hedge against inflation. During an inflationary period, the value of land and homes generally rises in proportion to the inflationary increase. The market value of some homes in the North Shore and Northwest Suburban areas served by Quinlan and Tyson has increased more than 50 per cent in the last 10 years, he said.

It builds up equity and price appreciation, according to Rutledge. By paying the principal on his loan, a homeowner builds up equity. And the value of the home appreciates greatly — more than the equity, and the appreciation accrues entirely to the owner.

Home ownership provides tax advantages. Real estate taxes and mortgage interest are deductible on federal income taxes.

"For example, take the homeowner who has an 80 per cent loan on a $40,000 home. His mortgage interest rate is 7.25 per cent over a 25-year period, and his annual taxes on the home total $1,000. This homeowner will be able to deduct the $1,000 in taxes and $2,305 in interest per year on his income tax. If he is in a 22 per cent income tax bracket, he would have had to pay $727 in federal taxes on that $3,305. That $727 is a savings, Rutledge said.

GI Loans Are Showing Gains

A 14-year high in the number of GI home loans guaranteed was recorded in 1971.

Donald E. Johnson, administrator of veterans affairs, said the 284,000 home loans approved by the Veterans Administration in 1971 exceeded the 1970 total of 187,000 by 70 per cent, and represented the best year since 1957.

In Illinois, John B. Naser, director of the VA regional office in Chicago, said 5,704 home loans were approved for Illinois veterans in 1971. This compares with 3,036 approved loans in 1970.

The 1971 gain was attributed by Johnson to three factors: first, improvement in the general availability of mortgage money for home building and buying; second, the first full year of operation under the Veterans Housing Act of 1970 signed by the President on Oct. 23, 1970;

The law restored eligibility for loans to veterans of World War II and the Korean Conflict, eliminated the one-half per cent loan funding fee previously required by post-Korean veterans, and made other changes providing greater flexibility in the loan program.

Third, the first reductions in history in the maximum interest rate set for GI home loans was approved. The administration lowered the interest rate from 8½ per cent to 6 per cent on Dec. 2, 1970; from 6 per cent to 7.5 per cent effective Jan. 13, 1971, and then down to the present 7 per cent rate on Feb. 18, 1971.

The VA head said gains were also registered in other facets of the GI home loan program in 1971. Some 820,900 veterans requested determinations of loan eligibility from VA (up 64 per cent from the 500,000 total of 1970) . . . 368,300 applied for loans (up 90 per cent from the 194,000 total of 1970) . . . and 625,000 requests for property appraisals were received (up 60 per cent from the 392,000 total of 1970).

Although most GI loans continue to be made on existing homes, Johnson noted that there was a nearly 52 per cent increase in appraisal requests on new houses, from 143,800 in 1970 to 217,900 in 1971.

The popularity of the GI loan program with younger veterans was underscored by the fact that about 70 per cent of the 1971 home loans were made to veterans 35 years of age or less.

Elect Werdell Loan Officer

Robert F. Werdell has been elected real estate loan officer of Mount Prospect State Bank, according to William J. Busse, president and board chairman.

Werdell has over 20 years' banking experience, the last nine in real estate, with American National Bank, Chicago. He graduated from the Mortgage Bankers of America three-year program at Northwestern University, and has completed principles of real estate appraisal at the Chicago YMCA and Chicago Real Estate Board classes.

Werdell served in both the U.S. Army and Navy. He lives in Streamwood with his wife Dorothy and four children.

Robert F. Werdell

Cwik Is Promoted

Ronald J. Cwik of 862 Crestview, Palatine, was recently named assistant vice president at LaSalle National Bank in Chicago.

Cwik worked in investment banking for six years before joining the bank in 1969 as a municipal bond salesman. He was promoted to investment officer in 1971. Cwik holds a degree from the University of Illinois.

TIPS TO HOME BUYERS AND HOME SELLERS FROM MAP MULTIPLE LISTING REAL ESTATE SERVICE IS NOW A GOOD TIME TO BUY?

Inflation, recessed economy, bear market, fluctuating interest rates . . . can this be the best time to buy a home? Cost experts say yes. Waiting for interest rates to come down probably will cost you more in the long run as labor, materials and Real Estate continue to become more expensive. Home prices are expected to climb as the housing shortage becomes more apparent.

Housing will have to be provided for 100 million more Americans in the next 30 years — in addition to replacing about half of all existing housing.

A home is an excellent long range investment, but it's important to buy wisely and carefully. Prudent purchasing begins with becoming well informed on home buying before you enter into an actual transaction. There are numerous factors that affect your investment and safeguard your financial interest.

The many local Real Estate offices that display the big gold and black "MAP Multiple Listing Real Estate Service" sign can help you make the right move. Call or stop in anytime and meet the "PROS" — the people of MAP Multiple Listing Service who work together for efficient, satisfactory Real Estate service to the community.

Two Promotions Are Announced

Two executives of Levitt and Sons' Chicago operations were recently promoted. Arthur B. Gingold, who was vice president and Chicago regional general manager for the nationwide homebuilding firm, has been named senior vice president of the Midwest zone. Robert T. Craig, formerly director of sales and marketing for this area, will take over Gingold's former position as regional general manager. The promotions are effective immediately.

As head of the Midwest zone, Gingold will direct all operations in both Chicago and Detroit as well as the planned expansion to other Midwest cities.

Craig will be responsible for all Chicago building activities, which now include four housing communities in Buffalo Grove and Schaumburg and six others to be announced this year. Gingold has experience in advertising and marketing. He has been with Levitt and Sons for eight years, holding several important executive positions before assuming his present one as senior vice president. He came to Chicago in 1967 and was primarily responsible for Levitt's entry into this market with its first community, Strathmore in Buffalo Grove. Before coming to Levitt, he worked with Ted Bates & Co., an advertising agency in New York.

Craig joined Levitt in 1967 as sales manager of Strathmore. In 1969, he was promoted to director of sales and marketing for Chicago operations. He has 20 years of experience in the building industry as a construction executive and general contractor.

Levitt and Sons is headquartered in Lake Success, New York, and its Chicago branch is located in Schiller Park. The Midwest Zone office, which Gingold heads, will establish headquarters in Chicago.

Wagerer Honored By Beltone Corporation

Helmut Wagerer, 484 Cambridge Road, Des Plaines, has been awarded a gold pin in honor of his five years service with Beltone Electronics Corp., Chicago. Beltone is world leader in hearing aids and electronic hearing test instruments.

The pin was presented by Beltone president S. F. Posen at a special dinner held in appreciation of the effort all Beltone employees put forth in making 1971 a highly successful year for the company.

In making the award Posen paid special tribute to the contributions Beltone's many long term employees have made to the company's outstanding growth.

Trails Project Opening

A new Community called The Trails at Woodfield was opened recently in Roselle by Kennedy Brothers.

Eight furnished models — four garden villas (single-family homes) and four court villas (townhouses) — are on display at the 156-acre project. The $35 million community represents the first multiple housing-type residential and commercial planned unit development for Kennedy Brothers.

The first phase of the Trails will include the construction of 172 garden villas, 345 court villas and the first of two recreation complexes planned for the community. When completed, the Trails also will include 450 condominiums; a shopping center, the second recreation complex and landscaped parks. A homeowners' association will provide maintenance for all the common-use areas.

Recreational facilities in Phase I of the Trails include a $250,000 clubhouse with teen room, adult lounge, card and billiard room, men's and women's saunas and banquet facilities. Additional amenities include an Olympic-size swimming pool, a putting green, tennis courts, basketball and volleyball courts, and a junior soccer field, which can be used for skating in winter. Tot-lots also will be included in the community.

In describing the general concept for the Trails, Bill Kennedy, vice president of Kennedy Brothers, said, "The community has been designed to accommodate all the contrasts, individuality and amenities necessary to a truly natural community. The Trails has been planned to reflect all the warmth and character of long-ago village living."

The community has been designed to appeal to young executives and their families in the moderate-income home-buying market.

The four different garden villa homes were designed for zero-lot-line placement, with the home constructed at the edge of the homesite, thus presenting unified and totally usable outdoor spaces.

The garden villas range in price from $38,400 to $44,900, including lots of approximately 70 feet by 110 feet each. The homes range in size from three bedroom, two bath residences to five bedroom/2 1/2 bath residences, with from 1,600 to 2,160 square feet of living space, excluding basement and garage.

The designs for the four court villa residences have incorporated the townhouse plans used in the earliest European and American cities according to the developers. Utilities, plumbing, roofing and other construction costs are reduced and more living area is realized than would be found in a detached home for the same money the company said.

The court villas, priced from $25,900 to $35,500, range in size from 1,200 to 1,550 square feet of living space and from two-bedroom/1 1/2 bath homes to four bedroom 2 1/2 bath homes.

Each court villa has a full basement and two courts, one at the front and one at the back of the residence. Most of the villas have one or two-car garages.

Inside the garden and court villas are changes in floor and ceiling levels, clerestory windows and two-story dining rooms and secluded hideaways. The homes include sunken living rooms and family room/kitchen combinations.

All but one of the models at the Trails have been decorated by Sherman Associates in themes promoting bright atmospheres throughout the homes. The eighth model has been decorated by Gary Grosbeck, staff designer of Sears Roebuck and Co.

Kennedy Brothers, headquartered in Northbrook, is a second-generation firm of building specialists. Among the communities built by the firm are Charmagne and Winham in Northbrook; Dawn Gate in the Plum Grove area, and Willow Walk in Palatine.

The furnished models at the Trails are open daily from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. and on Sundays till 8 p.m. To reach the Trails, exit the Northwest Tollway (I-90) at Route 53. Drive south four miles to Nerge Road, then west two miles to the models.

NEW HOME OFFICE OF American Savings Association, shown above in an artist's sketch, will be moved to Schaumburg. Construction is underway on the two-story, 15,000 square-foot facility. American Savings, currently located in Oak Park expects to move its headquarters to the site at 1010 N. Meacham Road in May of this year.

Annen & Busse Reports Sales

A 57 per cent increase in sales over the previous year was reported by the Annen & Busse, Realtors firm for 1971.

William N. Annen, president of the realty company, attributed this increase to the efforts of sales associates, the firm's marketing program and an association with MAP Multiple Listing Service. Gross sales of the 22-year old company were excess of $31 million according to Annen.

Increasing amounts of professionalism and training will be required in the real estate field according to Edward J.

Busse, secretary and treasurer of the firm. "Both our initial training program and its advanced counterpart are designed to meet these demands," he said. Busse said the company's plans include additional sales offices. The firm is interviewing prospective students for its next training session.

Annen and Busse, Realtors, has offices in Arlington Heights, Mount Prospect, Palatine and Elk Grove Village.

Insurance Agent Tops $1 Million In Sales

William Q. Allen, 8629 Robin Dr., Des Plaines, who is a special agent in Prudential's LaSalle Agency, Chicago, topped the $1 million mark in his sales of Prudential Insurance protection during 1971.

Allen, a winner of the company's Community Service Award in 1969, has represented Prudential since April, 1968, according to John J. McKenna, CLU, manager of the agency. An Episcopal priest, Allen served several churches in Iowa and Illinois prior to joining the company.

Graduated with a bachelor of science degree from Iowa State University in 1953, he continued his education at Berkeley Divinity School, New Haven,

William Allen

Conn., and received a bachelor of sacred theology degree from that institution in 1955. Last year, he was awarded a master's degree by Yale University's Berkeley Center. He is a member of the District No. 63 School Board.

Schumann Joins Mount Prospect Bank

Robert W. Schumann, 38, has joined Mount Prospect State Bank as installment loan officer, according to William J. Busse, president and board chairman.

Schumann has 18 years consumer loan experience in the Northwest suburbs. He has worked for the General Electric Credit Corp. and helped initiate the installment loan business in Illinois for GE. He has also worked for Confidential Loan Service, Inc. and Consolidated Acceptance Corp.

He graduated from the National Consumer Finance Institute at Marquette University, Milwaukee, and from the Advanced Management Course at General and the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants.

Elect Directors

Three directors were reelected to serve three-year terms at the recent annual meeting of members for Oak Park Federal Savings and Loan Association. They are John L. Domeier, Charles E. Gates and Myles A. Spaulding.

Domeier, president and managing officer of Oak Park Federal, begins his fourth full term as director. Domeier received his advanced education at Illinois Wesleyan, Aurora College and Loyola University, graduating with a commerce degree. He served with the Marine Corps during World War II. His career in the savings and loan industry began in 1949 and he accepted his first employment with Oak Park Federal two years later. In 1964 he became president and managing officer and is presently also chairman of the board of directors.

Gates was elected to the board of directors in 1971. He is a former vice president and general manager of WGN Continental Broadcasting Co., and a veteran of 43 years service with both WGN and the Chicago Tribune. Gates is a graduate of Beloit College and began his business life with the Tribune in 1929. He joined the WGN Radio staff in 1940 and retired in 1970, retaining a consultant relationship.

Spaulding was elected to the board in 1968. He is a native Chicagoan and accepted his first business employment with Bacon, Whipple and Co. in 1928, continuing in the investment banking business until 1941. He opened a men's clothing store in Oak Park in 1936.

At the organizational meeting which convened following the member's meeting, John L. Domeier was reelected president, managing officer and chairman of the board. John P. Domeier was reappointed as honorary chairman and consultant.

Other officers reelected for one-year terms were: Clement H. Novak, vice president and secretary; Leonard W. Dodson, vice president; Ralph R. Bellon, treasurer; and Erwin J. Kuncel, vice president. Ernest T. Hoppe was elected vice president and James D. O'Malley, vice president.

Officers appointed by the board to serve one year terms were: William C. Eldridge, assistant treasurer; Dorothy M. Grandsard, assistant secretary; William Nelis Jr., assistant vice president; William Evans, assistant vice president; Arthur Hollis, assistant secretary; James D. O'Malley, assistant secretary; Leonard W. Dodson, assistant secretary; and William McDonnell, chief appraiser.

In the president's annual address to the members, Domeier noted that association total footings had passed the $200 million mark before mid-1971. Asset growth was $18,981,000, a 270 per cent increase over 1970 growth. Parallel expansions in savings and first mortgage lending was described by Domeier with special emphasis on a new high general reserve and surplus figure of $13,731,000. A record contribution to reserves were made during 1971 and the greatest dollar amount of dividends in association history ($8,620,000) was paid out to savers.

SUBDUED INFLATION and improved overall economic conditions are ahead in 1972 according to Theodore Tung, Continental Illinois Bank economist. Tung addressed the members of the Chicago chapters, Chartered Property and Casualty Underwriters and the American Society of Insurance Management, in a joint meeting with the Chicago Bar Association. "Economic conditions are now working in favor of Phase II," he told the Chicago group. Tung predicted that this will be "the best year since 1968, when business peaked." Corporate profits are expected to rise $65 billion this year he added. W. J. Gibbons of Palatine is president of the insurance management group.

APPOINTMENT OF Theodore R. Britton Jr. as a special liaison representative of the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) to the Institute of Real Estate Management was announced by the institute, an affiliate of the National Association of Real Estate Boards. Britton's designation was previously made by Harold B. Finger, assistant secretary for research and technology of HUD. "This appointment will open up new avenues of communication between HUD and IREM," according to IREM president Paul H. Riddle, CPM (Certified Property Manager), Pittsburgh, Pa.

Britton deputy assistant secretary for research and technology for the government agency, will report directly to Finger. His current work includes such projects as Operation Breakthrough, housing assistance programs and research on public and private housing management.

GORDON "MURPH" Bryan returns to Korvettes as senior vice president of Midwest store operations with an appointment to the executive committee. For the past two years Bryan served as president of the Hurley-Liebman Furniture Chain in Philadelphia. He was previously with Korvettes for five years, progressing from regional home furnishings merchandise manager to regional vice president. Bryan will now resume leadership of Korvettes 13 Midwest units, including six stores in Chicago, five stores in Detroit and two stores in St. Louis.

LARWIN MORTGAGE Investors declared a second quarter dividend of 64 cents a share for each share of beneficial interest. This dividend represents LMI's ninth consecutive increase in dividend payments, the highest dividend in the trust's history, and a 33 per cent increase from the 48 cents paid for the second quarter of fiscal 1971. LMI's total dividends for the first half of fiscal year 1972, ended Dec. 31, 1971, are $1.26, as compared to 92 cents a share for the first half of fiscal year 1971 (a 37 per cent increase). The dividend is payable on March 1 to shareholders of record as of Feb. 14. Larwin Mortgage Investors, a short-term mortgage trust specializing in construction and development loans, is managed by The Larwin Group, Inc., the real estate and land development subsidiary of CNA Financial Corp.

WILLIAM A. MAYBROOK has been named director of marketing for 3H Building Corp., according to an announcement by Edward E. Kirk, vice president of marketing and forward planning. 3H is currently marketing projects in Hanover Square and Hanover Highlands in Lake Zurich, and Cherrywood in Bolingbrook. All are in the Chicago suburban area. In his new position, Maybrook will be responsible for expansion of corporate marketing activities and the development of new residential communities. Maybrook has served as general sales manager for 3H since 1969. A 1965 graduate of the University of Illinois, he is an active member of the Sales & Marketing Council of the Home Builders Association of Chicago. He lives with his wife and two children in Highland Park.

Cost Of Living Key To Phase II

Phase II is just short of a system of outright, heavily enforced controls according to John E. Healy II, president of the Associated General Contractors of America. Healy, also a member of the Construction Industry Stabilization Committee (CISC), recently commented on the Phase II economy in Constructor magazine.

Americans must try to reduce the wage and price escalation while increasing productivity if the cost of living is to drop, Healy said in the Constructor article. The result of this Phase II effort would be in effect an untaxed wage increase for every wage earner in America he said.

"A number of things made Phase I and Phase II mandatory," Healy said. "The President had no choice. The domestic rate of economic growth was too slow. Inflation was rising along with unemployment. However, wage demands continued to escalate. Our economic world leadership continued to decline. Our share of world commerce dropped from 21 per cent to 18 per cent in 10 years."

Healy said the real problem in the loss of world trade is low productivity rather than high wages. "For example I am told that unit man-hour requirements for multi-family housing based on 1,100 square feet of living space is 1,100 man hours in America versus 460 man hours in Europe," he said.

No segment of the economy can set goals for itself that are not in the interests of the whole economy, Healy continued. He cited as examples of exemptions from the national interest the Pay Board ruling for coal miners and CISC ruling for painters in Little Rock, Ark.

"The action of the CISC in approving retroactivity of wage increments coming due during the freeze is also unfortunate," said Healy. "This is no way to bring home to the workers of this country the seriousness of the situation."

"They have got to understand that the real purchasing power of wages cannot possibly rise faster on the average than overall productivity or output per man hour," Healy said. "They must realize that wages increases in excess of productivity inevitably result in price increases or unemployment or both."

Security Plan Is Introduced

A consumer protection plan — Economic Security Program — was offered to Midwest home buyers by ESP-Fidelity Corp., which already has instituted the plan in California, the Southwest and the South.

This plan guarantees home buyers their mortgage payments, and apartment dwellers their rent payments, for a specified period of time should the buyer be unemployed through no fault of his own according to Edward Lawson, president.

Laurence August, executive vice president and innovator of the plan, added that such major items as recreational vehicles, boats, swimming pools, automobiles, furniture and major appliances could be included in the Economic Security Program at a later date.

Costs of the program are borne by the home builder or developer, and the buyer is protected for a pre-determined number of full monthly payments to be credited to his account during the period of unemployment. There is no obligation for the consumer to repay the credited payments.

The Frank L. Bean Co., Lawson said, has been selected as marketing and advertising agency to introduce the ESP plan.

The program provides its benefits for both company-employed and self-employed consumers when confronted with the five major categories of involuntary unemployment: economic unemployment caused by reduction or elimination of employed personnel due to adverse economic conditions; technological unemployment, caused by the reduction of employed personnel due to automation or technological advances; geographic unemployment, caused by company relocation or physical consolidation; production product re-design causing temporary unemployment; lock-out caused by labor union disputes.

ESP-Fidelity Corp. is the manager and administrator of the program. There are three ESP-Fidelity Corp. offices in the United States, located in Chicago, Los Angeles and Providence, Rhode Island. Lawson and Arthur Rifas, administrative vice president, will operate out of the home office, 175 W. Jackson Blvd., Chicago, while August will supervise operations in the West Coast Office.

Albert Van Maren

Van Maren's Topic: Janitorial Services

Albert Van Maren of Prospect Heights, sales manager of "Action" Building Maintenance Corp. in Des Plaines, presented an unusual talk about modern janitorial services recently at the regular Thursday morning meeting of the Businessmen's Breakfast Club at Nielsen's Restaurant in Rosemont.

Van Maren demonstrated some of the new techniques being used today by progressive janitorial services. He also discussed the trends of companies to use these services as opposed to hiring their own personnel for the task because of the convenience, long-range savings in many cases and better janitorial service provided due to new techniques, materials and equipment.

Van Maren, who holds a master's degree in marketing from Northern Illinois University, is a member of the American Marketing Association and was listed in the College and University Edition of Who's Who.

Adding To Marketability

Basic improvements in a home are not necessarily reflected in the sales price on the house according to area Baird & Warner, Inc. executives.

"What you can recover from a home improvement depends entirely on the value placed on it by the prospective buyer, not by what you paid for it," said Robert G. Walters, vice president and district sales manager of both the Arlington Heights, and the Mount Prospect offices, and Michael J. Del Re, sales manager of the Mount Prospect office.

Some improvements, such as a second bathroom or a third or fourth bedroom, add greatly to a home's marketability, and you may be able to recover more than the improvement cost you. Other improvements, such as a basement recreation room, may add little or nothing to the price of the house the Baird & Warner representatives said. They offered two suggestions to sellers:

First, be realistic when pricing your house and figuring the value of the improvements. Be guided by the advice of a Realtor who can determine what the improvement is worth in terms of the market, your home and your neighborhood.

Second, when talking to prospect buyers, don't harrange them with what the improvements cost you. The buyer may disagree with your improvement, and may turn down the house. "For example, say you spent $4,000 in adding a recreation room to your house, and when it's time to sell the house, you can tell the potential buyer of this particular investment. But the buyer may not be interested in a recreation room and couldn't care less that you spent $4,000 for this addition. In fact the buyer would rather have the $4,000 and expend it in some other area in the house that would suit his preference," said Walters.

The seller should keep in mind that he put in the recreation room for the enjoyment and benefit of his family and not to expect that a buyer would be willing to pay extra for it, he said.

Based on the experience gained through Baird & Warner's 28 offices throughout the Chicago area, the firm offers these as rules of thumb on home improvements, which can vary in individual cases:

Completely redecorating the house before you put it on the market can often return $3 for every $1 spent. For example, if you spend $900 repainting the house, inside and out, there's a good chance you'll be able to add $2,700 to the price of the house the company said. Decorating done within 90 days of putting a home up for sale is considered a selling expense, and is tax deductible; normally, decorating is viewed as a non-deductible maintenance expense.

"We highly recommend decorating the house to show it in its best light, because a good-looking home moves faster," Walters said. "We also recommend decorating in neutral colors, because these raise the least objections from buyers."

Adding an extra bedroom or full bathroom should return $2 for every $1 spent, if this results in a house with a third or fourth bedroom, or a second or third bath. However, the guideline doesn't apply to adding a fifth or sixth bedroom, or fourth or fifth bath.

"The reason is simple," the manager said. "A two-bedroom one-bath house has limited demand; buyers today are more interested in three or four-bedroom homes with 1½, two, or three baths. Beyond that, homes get too big and too expensive and appeal only to a select market."

If you add a family room or powder room (half-bath) on the main floor, of your home, you may get back dollar for dollar. But the same improvements made on the basement level will probably return only 30 per cent of their cost.

"Say you have a basic $30,000 house," said Del Re. "Several years ago you added a family room and powder room on the main level at a cost of $5,000. That should make the house price around $35,000, if you sell today. But if you spent the same $5,000 on these improvements in the basement, they might only be worth $1,500, bringing the house price to $31,500."

"The installation of central air conditioning is often recoverable on a dollar for dollar basis and adds greatly to the marketability of the house," he said.

Adding a garage, either separate or attached, may not be recoverable at all. People today expect garages as part of the house and do not feel they should pay extra for them. If you don't have a garage, your home may be harder to sell.

Whether or not you recover the expense of basic improvements, be sure you keep records of what these cost you advised Del Re. Home improvements, other than routine maintenance, are added to the price you paid for the house originally when income tax time comes around. This reduces the taxable difference if you sell the house for more than you paid for it.

"For instance, say you bought the house for $25,000 and sold it for $35,000," he continued. "Ordinarily, that $10,000 profit would be taxed at capital gains rates, unless you purchase another home for $35,000 or more within a year."

"However, if you put $10,000 worth of improvements into that $25,000 home and sold it for $35,000, there would be no capital gains tax. All basic improvements are fully deductible," he concluded.

Appointments Are Announced

The board of governors of the Federal Reserve System has announced several reappointments concerning the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago and the Detroit branch of the Chicago Fed.

Emerson G. Higdon was reappointed chairman of the board of directors and Federal Reserve Agent for a new one-year term. William H. Franklin was reappointed to a three-year term as a director and was also reappointed deputy chairman of the board for a one-year term. Gaylord Freeman was reappointed Seventh Federal Reserve District representative on the Federal Advisory Council for 1972.

At the Detroit branch, Peter B. Clark was reappointed to a three-year term as a director.

Higdon, president of the Maytag Company, Newton, Iowa, became president of the company in 1962, and was named chief executive officer in 1964 while continuing as president. As Federal Reserve Agent at the Chicago Fed, Higdon shoulders statutory responsibility for custody of unissued Federal Reserve notes stored at the bank, and also doubles as the Board of Governors' representative at the bank.

Franklin has been president of the Caterpillar Tractor Company, Peoria, since 1966. Gaylord Freeman has served as chairman and chief executive officer of the First National Bank of Chicago since 1969.

Clark, chairman of the board and president of the Evening News Association, Detroit, Mich., also serves as chairman of the board of directors of the Detroit branch of the Federal Reserve bank.

Landlord Offering Implied Guarantee

by LEA TONKIN
A flood of frivolous complaints will result from last week's decision by the Illinois Supreme Court that a landlord implicitly guarantee an apartment to be habitable when he rents it to a tenant. This was the opinion of dissenting Justice Thomas Kluczinski after a Jan. 28 decision reversing an earlier ruling against two persons who withheld rent because of alleged building code violations. Chief Justice Howard Underwood and Justice Howard Ryan also dissented. Justice Kluczinski said the 4 to 3 decision would create a "maze of practical problems" and "inundate the already understaffed metropolitan courts with a flood of protracted litigation." The Spring vs. Little ruling delivered by Justice Joseph Goldenhersh involved two consolidated cases. The litigants in the case were Emma Little, a resident at 3901 W. Jackson Blvd., Chicago, and Jack Spring, Inc., and Zeleta Price, a tenant living at 7804 Prairie Ave., Chicago, against Sutton & Peterson, Inc. The case was remanded to the Cook County courts to enter a decision. Declaring that the majority decision will do more harm than good, Justice Kluczinski said this ruling destroys the intent of the Forcible Entry and Detainer Act. "Numerous frivolous, trivial and spurious claims will unduly delay the termination of possessory rights and land and property," he said. NED SIMON, president of the Apartment Council of Metropolitan Chicago (ACMC), said the Supreme Court ruling should not seriously affect most area landlords. "This ruling is not objectionable at all," he said. "The tenant has a right to know what to expect in his apartment." PEOPLE MAY GO to court for minor problems but this is not the first recourse to solve a problem," he said. "This ruling should not hamper most landlords, if they are in compliance with local and state ordinances." A violation of some kind could be found in almost any building, whether it is old or new Simon said. "The question is, will they evaluate the law in a fair and impartial way," he said. Noting that it is not unreasonable to expect an apartment to be in a habitable condition, Simon said ACMC has an ethics committee which hears complaints regarding the activities of its members including any alleged building code violations.

THE ILLINOIS Supreme Court noted that its recent ruling on rental units does not alter the practice of liability for payment of rent as long as the tenant is in possession of the unit. This decision is applicable only to rental units.

Lawyers for the Chicago Real Estate Board are reviewing the 5-page decision before making a statement, said Thomas Hughes, executive vice president. The board acted as a friend of the court on behalf of the defendants, he said, adding that they had been favored in an earlier decision.

"We do not have any information yet on whether the case will be appealed," said Hughes early this week. He noted that the decision will affect landlords in the entire state.

Members of the Society of Industrial Realtors (SIR) negotiated 127 cooperative transactions during 1971. These involved sales of 4,275,000 square feet of buildings, leasing of 2,751,000 square feet of space, and sale of 2,360 acres of land SIR President C.V.W. Trice Jr., Miami, Fla., reports.

Total dollar volume amounted to more than $44.5 million for the 69 cooperative transactions for which prices were disclosed, he said. The figures were compiled from transactions reported to headquarters of the society, a professional affiliate of the National Association of Real Estate Boards. SIR members specialize in marketing industrial properties and meeting the real estate needs of industry.

In the fourth quarter of 1971, SIR members cooperated on 16 transactions, involving 1,034,000 square feet of building space and more than 58 acres of land. Dollar volume for seven of these transactions totaled more than $3,500,000. Trice said, noting that prices were not disclosed for the other nine cooperative transactions.

Trice pointed out that there are 594 offices of SIR members in 209 cities throughout the U.S. and Canada which cooperate in locating existing facilities and sites, and in marketing buildings and land for industry.

Condominiums Are Underway

Brick townhouse walls rising along Roosevelt Road in Elmhurst mark on-schedule construction of Atrium, the suburb's $20 million planned unit development.

The first models of Atrium's 210 townhouses will be opened in latter April, according to developers I. Simon and Son, Inc., and Romanek-Golub and Co.

"Excellent construction conditions during December more than offset recent severely cold weather," said Robert Neumann, vice president of the Simon company. "After display models open in April, we expect to be able to deliver the first sale townhouses about June 1."

Models representing the development's 288 condominium apartments will go on display by June 1. Construction of the six-story condominium buildings will begin in April or May, with first apartment occupancy in early 1973, Neumann said.

Work on the Atrium clubhouse and other recreational amenities will start by March 1, to be in use by the first residents this fall.

Townhouses will be clustered around a quarter-acre, landscaped courtyards, through most of the 27½-acre tract, north of Roosevelt Road about midway between Illinois Rte. 83 and York Road. Apartment buildings will be in the southwest section of the development, overlooking Salt Creek. The clubhouse, swimming pool, tennis courts and other recreation facilities will occupy a central location.

Will Elmlund Retires After 47 Years

Willard J. Elmlund, 2 S. Albert St., Mount Prospect, retired recently after more than 47 years at GTE Automatic Electric, Northlake.

Elmlund, a supervisor in the electronic exchange engineering department, joined the company's drafting department in 1924. During the next 16 years he worked as a blueprint file clerk, tracer, draftsman and drafting checker.

In 1940 he joined the equipment engineering department, and was promoted to the section supervisor in the equipment engineering section in 1967.

A native of Chicago, Elmlund attended Carl Schurz High School and Northwestern University, where he completed two years credit in evening classes.

He is a member of the Independent Telephone Pioneers Association, the Svithold Club of Chicago, National Model Railroad Association, Northwest Cannonball Model Railroad Club and a state-registered professional engineer.

Elmlund is a bachelor, and will devote much of his spare time after retirement in traveling, gardening, and pursuit of hobbies that include model railroading and stamp collecting.

New Home Office Is Constructed

Work began recently on the new home office building for American Savings Association in Schaumburg.

The two-story building will cover 15,800 square feet. It is located at 1010 N. Meacham Road in Woodfield Park.

Arthur G. Erdmann Jr., president of American Savings, said J. Emil Anderson & Son firm was recently issued a building permit for the structure. Occupancy is set for May 5 of this year. Erdmann said that in a recent discussion with Harold Anderson, president of the J. Emil Anderson development company, it was disclosed that the American Savings building will touch off a series of new building starts in the 400-acre Woodfield Park area.

American Savings is currently located at 6720 W. Roosevelt Road in Oak Park. The $13 million institution was founded in 1913 and is a member of the Federal Home Loan Bank system and the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corp. The facility will be maintained in Oak Park after the completion of the new Schaumburg building.

GARDEN VILLA PLAN 2 shows the greater usability of land effected by the zero-lot-line placement of this single-family home on the homesite. Four different Garden Villa Homes are now available at the Trails at Woodfield, Kennedy Brothers' new residential and commercial development in Roselle.

Frohlich Named PCA Executive

James A. Frohlich of 916 Rohlwing Rd., Palatine, has been named director of the Allied Industries department of the Portland Cement Association. The appointment was announced by George H.

Paris, vice president for market planning and development.

Frohlich and his family recently moved from the Los Angeles area where he was a national accounts executive for PCA's Pacific Southwest region. A native of Oak Park, he is a civil engineering graduate of the University of New Mexico.

The Portland Cement Association is a research and market development organization, headquartered in Skokie, for manufacturers producing more than 80% of the portland cement shipped in the United States and Canada. Mr. Frohlich will head up PCA work with related concrete industries and their associations.

Pircon Elected To National Association

L. J. Pircon, president, Purity Corp., Elk Grove Village, has been elected to associate membership in the National Asphalt Pavement Association, the international trade association for the hot-mix asphalt paving industry located in Riverdale, Md.

With more than 800 members, NAPA represents the hot-mix asphalt industry in the United States, and has a steadily increasing international membership ranging from Europe to Japan and Australia.

In Recruit Training

Marvin S. Allen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Allen, 114 Arizona Blvd., Hoffman Estates, is presently undergoing recruit training at the U. S. Naval Training Center, Great Lakes Ill.

Allen enlisted in the Navy through the high school recruit enlistment program. Upon completion of recruit training he will attend one of the Navy's trade schools.

The sailor was a 1969 graduate of James B. Conant High School and enlisted into the Navy through the United States Navy Recruiting station in Palatine.

In Theater Group

Lynn Higgins of Hoffman Estates, who attends the College of St. Benedict in Minnesota, recently served as production assistant for the first in a series of presentations to be performed by a theater group at the college.

The drama "The Happy Journey" is a one act play by Thornton Wilder produced in the college's arts center last month.

Assigned

Army Spec. 5 Paul A. Wauters, 22, son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew A. Wauters, 51 N. Sixth St., Wheeling, recently was assigned to the 2nd Armored Division at Fort Hood, Tex. Wauters is a draftsman with Headquarters Company, 1st Battalion of the Division's 68th Armor.

On Student Senate

A Hoffman Estates resident, Ed Hussey, 238 Westview St., has been elected to the University of Cincinnati Student Senate. Hussey is one of eight senate representatives from the university's College of Business Administration.

Completes Basic

Airman John W. Staples, son of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon L. Staples of 379 Glendale Rd., Buffalo Grove, has completed his Air Force basic training at the Air Training Command's Lackland Air Force Base, Tex. He has been assigned to Lowry AFB, Colo., for training in armament systems.

On Dean's List

Susan M. Mudry, junior at Augustana College, Rock Island, has been named to the dean's honor list for the fall quarter. The list covers students whose grade point average is in the A range, from 3.50 to 4.00.

Miss Mudry is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Mudry, 281 S. Wheeling Ave., Wheeling.

Infantryman

Private Rickey A. Renner, 21, completed eight weeks of basic training at the Army Training Center, Infantry, Fort Polk, La.

Before entering the Army, he was employed by Allstate Insurance Co., Northbrook. The private's wife, Elizabeth, lives at 681 Piper Ln., Wheeling.

THE VILLAGE THAT NEVER CHANGES

Can you imagine a village where you will not see a single garbage can? Where there are no property line fences? Where the smallest homesites are an acre? Where there is no industry? Where no two homes are alike? Where every home must receive architectural approval? These are just a few of the unusual features of Inverness that are protected by prudent deed restrictions to jealously guard against changes in the character, value and way of living in the community. How much does it cost to join this exclusive 450-family village? Our acre-or-larger homesites start at $12,000, with only 20% down and an annual percentage rate of 7%. We also have a portfolio of homes for sale for immediate occupancy due to executive transfers. Prices range from $60,000 to $200,000. Drive out today; or, if you prefer, send for a free brochure.

Our picturesque 4-Silo office is open daily on Baldwin Road, just west of Northwest Highway (Rte. 14) between Palatine and Barrington. Convenient to Northwest Tollway (north from Rte. 33 exit).

*Example: $12,000 purchase-$2400 down, 120 monthly payments of $111.45.

You And Employment Agencies

Counselors Help You Sell Yourself

(Second in a Series.)

by SUSAN LIGHT

NEW YORK — After registering with a private employment agency, the job hunter is assigned to an employment counselor for help in locating a position.

At first blush the counselor may not appear to offer enough service to earn his salt. A brief interview — a couple of phone calls — arrangements for one or two appointments.

But the job seeker doesn't know what goes on behind scenes. Running down employers to get listing of job openings, especially when the labor market is tight, takes energy, skill, patience and a certain amount of brass that most people lack. The counselor has to have a shell like an armadillo. He may make 50 phone calls in a day on behalf of two or three workable job applicants.

Before sending an applicant out for an interview, the counselor clues him in on specific details about the job, furnishes information about the company and gives suggestions on how he should dress and conduct himself at the interview.

ADVICE THAT job hunters won't take from parents and spouses they may take seriously from a personnel counselor who knows the ropes.

Consider Susie Smith, who has been drawn to the agency by an enticing ad describing a secretarial position in an insurance office. After Susie fills out an application and signs the fee agreement, the counselor takes over. He skillfully questions her about her background, interests and achievements without letting her get a word in edgewise about the job she saw advertised. He has been trained to control the interview.

When he finally calls the insurance company, he finds that the job has been filled.

But he can't let a slick like Susie get away. Quickly he checks the agency job orders for similar openings. No luck. He asks Susie if she would mind sitting in the outer office briefly while he attends to a pressing personal matter.

Then he dashes back to his desk, grabs the yellow pages of the telephone book and starts down the list of insurance companies. He pitches Susie to personnel directors, company officials, administrative assistants. Getting through to the right person is an art in itself. Ten calls later he has lined up an appointment.

Having chanced on the new opening, he advertises it — just in case Susie fizzles out. This brings in more applicants, who may be hired if Susie isn't. And the cycle starts again. It matters not to the counselor who gets the job — Susie, Dottie or Lulu — as long as it's someone he recommends.

YOU MIGHT comment, "Good grief, Susie could have used the yellow pages herself and saved some money." Quite so.

But Susie couldn't have said — at least effectively — "I'm a terrific applicant. . . 23 years old, single, extremely attractive, sharp dresser, bubbly personality. I'm very intelligent, too. Graduated in the upper 10 per cent of my class. I take shorthand at a speedy 120 words per minute and can make a typewriter sit up and bark. Secretaries like me are hard to find, even in the present job market!"

And therein lies the greatest strength of employment agencies. Technical excellence is important, but generally not enough to land a job. If you can't sell yourself to an employer and you don't have any pull, you're a gone goose in the job market today. The agency counselor supplies the sales pitch and the pull.

Since employment counselors are paid on a commission basis, they make money only when they succeed. They are trained to be objective and not let their hearts rule their heads.

The training spiel may include advice like this: "Don't waste time on people who are hard to place. You'll never make it if you take lame ducks under your wing."

"REMEMBER, you're a salesman first. Helping people is fine, but only incidental. If you're the mother-hen type, better find another place to roost."

Unfortunately, the applicant who needs a job the most may be the least likely to be "worked" by the agency.

When Mrs. Miller's husband died and she became the family breadwinner, she turned in desperation to an agency. In her salad days she had worked in an office, but, at 50, her skills were rusty. The counselor, though personally sympathetic, gave her a five-minute courtesy interview and promptly filed her application.

In Naval Training

A 1969 graduate of James B. Conant High School is currently undergoing recruit training at the U.S. Naval Training Center, Great Lakes, Ill.

Michael J. Carroll, the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Carroll, 126 Newton, Hoffman Estates, enlisted in the Navy's advanced electronics program. He will receive up to two years of training in electronics in the naval program.

cation marked "hard to place."

Surprisingly, some candidates who appear to be the best qualified are the least employable. High-paying positions that require people of their caliber are scarce and generally filled by promotions from within.

IF THE SUPERIOR applicant applies for a lower-paying position, the counselor runs into a solid block of opposition. Few employers want to hire an overqualified individual who probably knows more than the boss.

Larry Benedict, an experienced controller with a string of degrees, who lost his position when his company merged, found the doors closed when he decided to settle for a good bookkeeping job.

Unless the agency specializes in executive and administrative recruiting, upper-bracket candidates would do better to send out their own resumes to firms that might be interested in people with their qualifications.

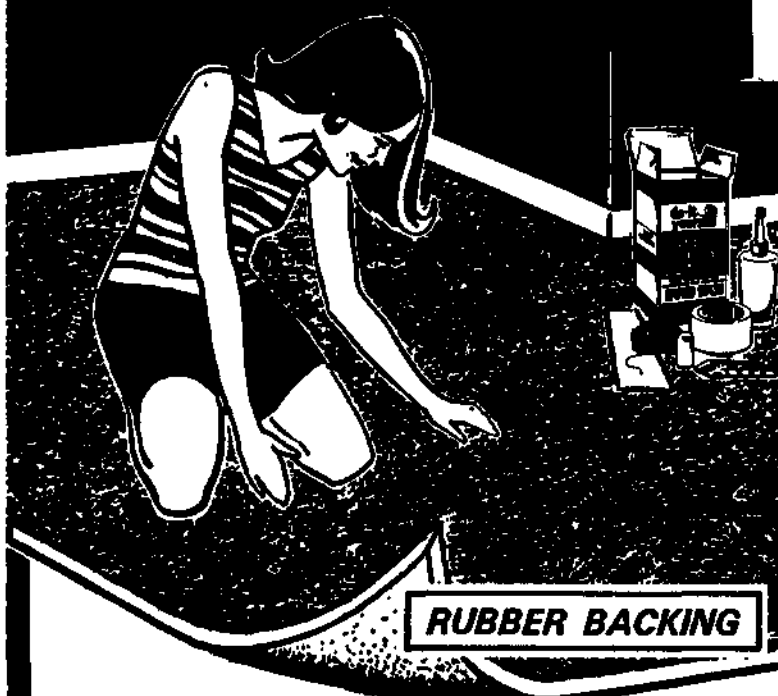

Better, perhaps, they should settle for the old-time methods of keeping up their social contacts and enlisting the aid of friends and relatives. The old saw — "It isn't WHAT you know but WHOM you know" — still goes.

The Secretarial Spectrum

Still A Career Opportunity For Women?

by ELEANOR RIVES

"I thoroughly enjoy it and the experience is marvelous," said 19-year-old Cathy Boylan of Mount Prospect.

"It's tremendously exciting," exclaimed Joanne Weber, young Roselle matron and mother of two children.

"Your success depends upon working for a successful man," stated Lynne Williams with years and years of business experience behind her.

All three were referring to their jobs. All three are secretaries.

But there's a long, long climb from Cathy's rung on the ladder to Lynne's, from the fledgling secretary to the highly respected, indispensable right arm of a vice president of the company.

CATHY IS ONE of 20 secretarial students at Harper College in Palatine enjoying on-the-job training as she works for her associate of applied science degree. Miss Mary Ann Mickina, coordinator of the secretarial program and a business whirlwind herself, combed the surrounding communities until she found jobs for every student in both secretarial procedures classes.

Chris Collie, employment manager at Motorola in Schaumburg and a member of the advisory board for the secretarial science program at Harper, said, "It's a two-way street. When we accept a student for on-the-job training, both parties gain. Motorola is helping her complete her education; once it is completed, she will be an efficient, competent full-time employee."

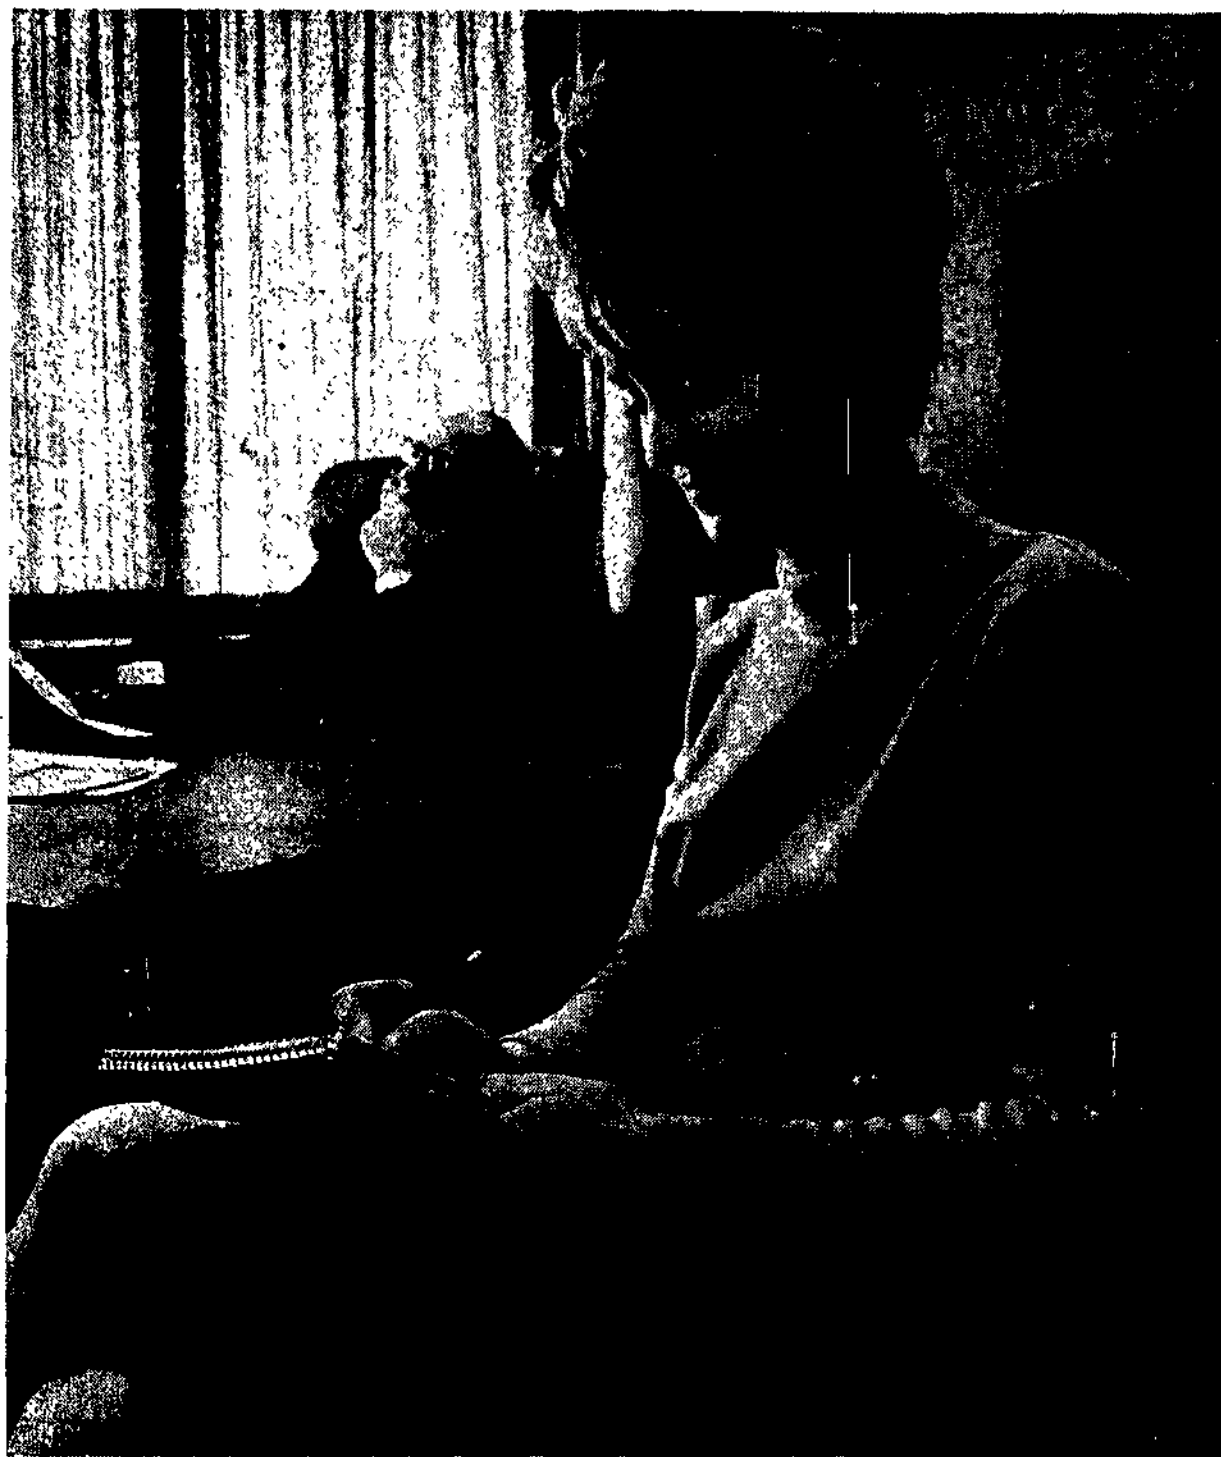

HARPER HAS a regular two-year secretarial program and a two-year legal secretarial program, both of which culminate in associate degrees. A 25-hour medical transcriptionist program offers a certificate which enables the holder to go into any hospital and transcribe medical dictation, either there or at home.

Cathy Boylan, aspiring to be a legal secretary, works part time in the law offices of Biestek and Facchini, P.A., in Arlington Heights. She may take dictation (Gregg shorthand) from any of four lawyers, or type from their dictaphone belts. Such terms as "plaintiff," "pleadings," "dependent," "et al," are everyday language to her now.

For girls with legal secretary aspirations, Miss Mickina arranged a visit to a meeting of the National Association of Legal Secretaries where they absorbed new knowledge of the courts, documents and other legal matters. Cathy loved it. But then Cathy has wanted to be a secretary ever since she was in 7th grade.

ACCORDING TO Clarence Feiereisel, a counselor at Prospect High School, girls who enter the high school secretarial program at the freshman level need no further training unless they wish to go into a specialized field. Further training consists mainly in becoming familiar with a specialized vocabulary.

However, if their secretarial program is not completed in high school, he advises students to continue at Harper, Triton, Oakton or a business school in Elgin rather than a commercial school in downtown Chicago.

SPEEDWRITING IS ONLY one of the business skills of Joanne Weber, executive secretary for the past 2½ years to Carl Lindholm, a corporate vice president at Motorola in Schaumburg. It takes a lot more than manual skills to be a top notch executive secretary. Add experience, maturity, initiative and desire, and a career-minded young girl is on her way to the top.

"Too many students unknowingly get trapped in expensive contracts," he said.

CHRIS COLLIE advises girls to continue their training beyond the high school level, to increase their skills and get supplemental training.

Hiring at Motorola is done at the entry level position, usually as a file clerk. A girl's abilities may then carry her to general office work, clerk-typist, stenographer and secretary. The top of the ladder — executive secretary — is filled from within the company, often by a secretary who has advanced with her boss or whose work has been outstanding enough to be noticed by an executive.

Motorola, which attempts to stay in the top brackets with comparable industries salary-wise, suggests a salary range from $95 to $130 a week for general secretaries, depending upon past experience, education and potential.

AN EXECUTIVE secretary can make up to, and sometimes over, $10,000 a year. Another 20 per cent is hidden in such fringe benefits as profit-sharing, vacations, health benefits, cafeteria subsidies, parking lot repair service and free educational courses.

Mrs. William Weber, younger than most executive secretaries, works for a corporate vice president, Carl Lindholm of Motorola's Communications Division. Joanne's fast rise to a top secretarial position was due to a combination of factors, not the least of which was good timing. A capable, efficient, enthusiastic worker, she happened to be in the right place at the right time.

In 1959 she entered the secretarial field at the bottom of the ladder in another company. She left the business world to marry, settle in Hoffman Estates and rear two children, now 8 and 10. In 1965 she went back to work and three years ago came to Motorola.

JOANNE, WORKING as a secretary in public relations, found herself filling in on a number of positions, coordinating various activities as Motorola moved its offices to Schaumburg. When Carl Lindholm arrived, he needed a secretary. Joanne got the job.

Joanne's typing skills were learned in high school, her shorthand at the Speedwriting Institute. But much more than manual skills are involved in being an executive secretary. Screening telephone calls, setting up meetings, contacting people, composing letters on one's own are all part of it.

Enthusiasm is another part. Joanne's excitement over her job radiates from her. She can hardly wait to come to work Monday mornings.

"I hope I never take all this for granted," she said.

LYNNE WILLIAMS, executive secretary to Richard Speer, vice president in manufacturing at Universal Oil Products,

Des Plaines, came to the United States from Wales as a child, studied shorthand and typing at Evanston High School and a sprinkling of other subjects at Northwestern University night school. For 19 years she has held the position of executive secretary with Calumet and Hecla, which became a part of Universal Oil in 1968. Miss Williams came with it.

Before that she held various positions, starting as a clerk-typist and advancing from job to job and place to place, even trying her hand at managing a small newspaper. "But that rough a job and those long hours weren't worth it," she said.

MISS WILLIAMS has a fantastic understanding of not only the product but the entire business. "I have read every piece of correspondence that ever came across my desk," she said. "And I had a very patient boss. He would explain anything I asked, give any amount of time to me." In addition, she keeps up with all the trade magazines and newspapers.

Lynne composes many letters, edits others, writes speeches, assembles information needed on trips and telephones, telephones, telephones. Not the least of her duties is seeing that her boss gets places on time and doesn't forget anything.

"Being an executive secretary is a personal relationship," she said. "If a secretary likes and respects her boss, she will do a much better job. She must present her boss to everyone in the best possible light. And it's important to get along with his associates, too."

Her advice to young people entering the secretarial field: "Do what is asked of you and do it graciously. Don't think anything is beneath your dignity. Try to work for a powerful company and a successful man. As he moves up, he will take you along with him."

Lynne Williams believes most young people read far too few books for pleasure.

"The greatest thing any young person can do is read, develop vocabulary, learn to spell correctly, and understand. One must want to be good; then one will be good."

UC Program Trains Family Doctors

by THOMAS C. MILLER

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Specialization has made the family doctor a vanishing breed, but at the University of California Medical Center, family medicine training is not only alive and well but a specialty in itself.

According to Dr. Herbert Vandervoort, the head of the UC family medicine program, the pendulum in medical schools is swinging toward a return to the family doctor training.

"Studies indicate that about 80 per cent of diseases can be treated by a GP (General Practitioner)," Vandervoort said. "And a lot of people graduating now want to go into family medicine."

A family medicine specialty was created in 1969 by the American Medical Association, and since then 30 students in each graduating class at UC, or about 25 per cent, have named it as their choice. "There has been a void due to the trend toward specialization," Vandervoort said in explaining why the family doctor has been disappearing from the medical scene.

"AND THERE HAS been a myth that GP's were toward the bottom of the academic pole in medical school. Students got the idea that the GP is out there doing a lot of lousy work," he said. "That's just not so."

Another UC family medicine faculty member, Dr. Donald Ransom, said the trend toward family medicine was due to a combination of increased support from medical and government officials, a demand by patients for more personalized care, and more socially conscious medical students.

"But practitioners have also discovered that some of the old models just don't work any more," Ransom said. "The shift to family medicine is like the shift to ecology."

The family medicine program at UC combines classroom instruction, on-the-job training with family doctors in the San Francisco Bay area and a family practice residency that allows a doctor to bypass his internship and concentrate on family care at a hospital.

A UC FRESHMAN medical student can choose family medicine as one of six specialty areas and begin his training by taking a basic course in family medicine.

"We limited the freshman class to 30 students, but 50 wanted in," Vandervoort said.

A student in the freshman class, Lucia Cies, said she was looking for a "new method of reaching people."

"The family doctor concept was an alternative to the clinic model or the team-work method now being practiced by many doctors," she said.

While in the freshman course, the students can volunteer for preceptorships — actually working with a practicing family doctor.

While working with the practicing doctor from six to nine months, the student is assigned one particular family for special study.

"We expect a very detailed report on that family," Vandervoort said. "Some students become very close to the families, and even after the course ends, they continue to keep in touch with them."

THE STUDENTS in the preceptorships are offered a choice of working with a doctor in an urban minority area, an urban majority, a suburban or rural practice. Vandervoort said the students have selected these options in about equal numbers.

After the basic freshman course, the students can take advanced courses in such subjects as family counseling. At the junior level, some students actually do family counseling at the UC Hospital family clinic.

After graduation, the doctor can apply for a family practice residency related to a university, such as UC's program at Sonoma County Hospital in Santa Rosa, north of San Francisco.

In the residency, the doctor is given total responsibility, within the limits of his training, for the care of a number of families. At the same time, he receives training in other specialty areas.

"We have 18 residents at Sonoma, with six slots opening each year," Vandervoort said. "We have 60 applicants for those six slots."

A second family practice residency will begin operating this year at San Francisco General Hospital and will specialize in training family doctors for urban areas.

The Potting Shed

by Mary B. Good

This bit of information is going to make somebody rich and famous — maybe it will be you:

The Griggsville Wild Bird Society has launched a nationwide search to find the best artist to paint the flowers of America.

Several years ago, The Society embarked on a similar campaign, but then they were looking for the best wildlife artist. It took a year and a half of detective work, and of all the artists in the world, they chose Richard Sloan of Palatine, now considered the greatest wild-bird artist since J. J. Audubon. Imagine — Sloan, right here in Palatine!

IF THE FLOWER artist chosen by Griggsville fares as well as Sloan has, this artist stands to make thousands of dollars from each painting he (or she) produces. Sloan is still working on his series of 48 for the Society, to give you just an idea. (You can't buy a Sloan original unless you are Jackie O's husband. And the 2328 reproductions sell for $30 a print when they are first released, and zoom up to as high as $325 for "Eastern Bluebird" as the limited editions are snapped up. Now that's a better investment tip than any stock market inside I could ever give.)

Imagine yourself or your great talented friend in the position of another Richard Sloan.

Here's the scoop: The Society is stressing detail and authenticity as well as beauty in its criteria for judging American flower painters. The primary goal is creation of the most accurate and lifelike paintings that have ever been done of these nature subjects.

THE PROPOSED flower painting program will be a companion to the bird painting program, and the purpose of both will be the stimulation of new interest in nature and the promotion of understanding and appreciation for the beauty of nature.

Society personnel wish to study the work of every artist who has exceptional ability and might be interested in undertaking a task as monumental as the flower series the Society is contemplating.

Interested nature artists and persons familiar with artists who have exceptional talent in the nature field are urged to write J. L. Wade, Griggsville Wild Bird Society, Griggsville, Ill. 62340.

I HAD the treat of visiting the "Purple Martin Capital" of Griggsville, meeting Mr. Wade and bringing greetings from Richard Sloan and Paddock Publications this past summer. I can't begin to explain the scope of this successful business executive's plans and aspirations. But whoever may become involved in this ambitious venture as top flower artist — to him it will mean $$$.

A tremendous opportunity for an artist; oh how I wish I had artistic talent — gushes and gushes of it! Perhaps this area will produce another great artist — you?

The Midwestern Chapter of the International Shade Tree Conference will have its annual meeting at the Pick Congress Hotel in Chicago starting Tuesday, Feb. 10.

The program will include timely topics regarding trees and the environment.

Meetings are open to the public. There is a registration fee of $8 a day. More information may be obtained from Laurence R. Hall, 724-8400.

A horticultural demonstration on plant propagation is scheduled at the Botanic Garden, Edens Expressway between Dundee and Lake Cook roads, next Tuesday. There are two sessions, one at 10 a.m. and the other at 1:30 p.m.

Glenn Park, chief horticulturist, and Carl Quasthoff will demonstrate techniques in multiplying plants by making cuttings and proper techniques in seed planting.

More information is available from Fran Whittin, program coordinator for the Chicago Horticultural Society, 332-2868.

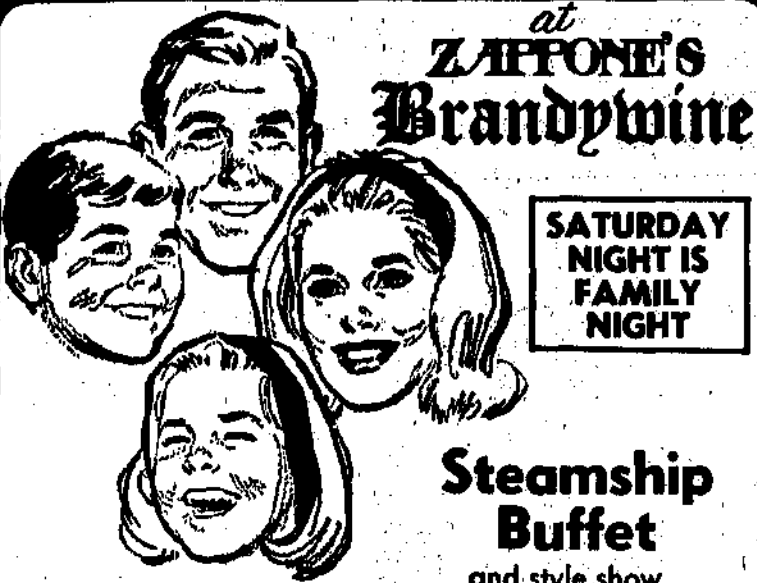

Lollipops, Roses On Runway

Three area youngsters and members of the three area Infant Welfare Centers will parade the runway at the Conrad Hilton Friday, Feb. 18, when the Infant Welfare Society of Chicago holds its annual "Lollipops and Roses" benefit.

The benefit, a luncheon followed by a fashion showing of ensembles from I. Magnin, is sponsored by all 50 centers in the Chicago area. Proceeds will go to the Society's Philip D. Armour Child and Family Center in Chicago which offers free health care to needy children and their mothers.

Mrs. Robert C. Fivian, 1410 N. Salem, Arlington Heights, and her 5-year-old daughter Karen will represent the Arlington Heights Center on the runway. From Mount Prospect, Mrs. James Gallagher, 16 S. Wa-Pella, and 11-year-old Amy Cameron, daughter of Mrs. J. William Cameron, 420 S. Wa-Pella, will model.

Palatine will be represented by Mrs. Charles W. Stanford of Inverness and 4-year-old Todd Payes, son of Mrs. William J. Payes III of Plum Grove Estates.

Eli Skinner chapter of Daughters of the American Revolution is meeting at 1 this afternoon in the home of Mrs. Douglas F. Gutzman, 344 S. Windsor, Arlington Heights. Mrs. James P. Dodds III and Mrs. James Grab are co-hostesses.

"The Art of Trappunto" is the subject of the program to be given by Betty Lindstrom. Mrs. Lindstrom will trace the art back to medieval days and show how through modern methods the procedure has been greatly shortened.

ROTARY ANNS

Christine Chiss of Strasburg, France, an AFS student living in Arlington Heights, with Mr. and Mrs. E. Saunders Reinhard, will speak and show slides of her country at Monday's meeting of the Rotary Anns of Arlington Heights.

The group will be meeting at 12:45 p.m. in the Arlington Heights home of Mrs. John A. Lindstrom, 824 S. Beverley.

ALPHA CHI OMEGA

Northwest Suburban Chapter of Alpha Chi Omega Alumnae will meet Tuesday evening at 8 p.m. in the Palatine home of Mrs. Emanuel Semerad, 943 Bell Aire Terrace to hear a panel discussion by members of Planned Parenthood Association.

The chapter's benefit bridge will be held at 1 p.m. Monday, Feb. 14, in the home of Mrs. Grace Sharpe, 404 S. Bothwell, Palatine. Those interested in the bride may call Mrs. Sharpe at 359-2929.

MOUNT PROSPECT WOMEN

The Art Department of Mount Prospect Woman's Club will meet at 9:30 a.m. Monday in the Mount Prospect Community Center. Mrs. Louis Vlasak, chairman, invites all interested in art.

The club's bridge session will be held at 1 p.m. Tuesday, also in the Community Center. Proceeds are used for club philanthropies.

OPERATING ROOM NURSES

Dr. Arthur Besser, pediatric surgeon at Lutheran General Hospital and Children's Hospital, will be speaker Tuesday for Northwest Chapter of the Association of Operating Room Nurses. The role of the nurse in the care of the pediatric patient during surgery and related subjects will be the theme of his discussion.

Alexian Brothers Medical Center, Elk Grove Village, will host the 7:30 p.m. meeting in Stritch Hall.

DELTA ZETA

A guest speaker will show a film and discuss landscaping at 8 p.m. Tuesday for Arlington Heights Delta Zeta alumnae. Mrs. Thomas Horton, 1515 W. Roanoke, Arlington Heights, will host the chapter meeting; interested alumnae may contact her at 259-8871.

FIRST DIVISION

COOK COUNTY COUNCIL

Cook County Council, First Division, American Legion Auxiliary, Department of Illinois, will hold their regular meeting Friday at 12:30 p.m. at the Sherman House, Randolph and Clark Streets, Chicago. Mrs. Henry Kraus, president, will preside.

Mrs. Richard Katona, foreign relations chairman, has announced that the speaker who will appear at Friday's meeting will discuss Kenya, the country being studied by the Auxiliary.

The American Legion and its Auxiliary are dedicated to Americanism throughout the year, but special stress is put on patriotism during the month of February, according to Miss Lorraine Hagedorn, Americanism Chairman.

Some of the important phases of the program are the American Essay contest, the "For America" seminar to be held at Freedom Foundation, Valley Forge, Pa., and the reception for new citizens.

Birth Notes

LUTHERAN GENERAL

Brian Douglas Nash is the name chosen for the second son of Mr. and Mrs. R. Dayton Nash Jr., 2405 Birch Ln., Rolling Meadows. Born Jan. 12, he is a new brother for David, who is 4. Grandparents of the two boys are the senior R. D. Nashes of Nashville, Tenn., and the George Reuthers of Chicago. Brian's birthweight was 9 pounds ½ ounce.

Eric John Niese was born to Mr. and Mrs. Walter Niese Jr. on Jan. 12, adding a third child to the home at 522 Ridgewood Rd., Elk Grove Village. The others are Steven, 6, and Amy, 4. Eric weighed 6 pounds 10 ounces. His grandparents, all Park Ridge residents, are Mrs. Charlotte Brunger, Erwin Brunger and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Niese Sr.

Natalie Ruth Francek is the name given to the first-born for Mr. and Mrs. Michael C. Francek, 707 E. Falcon Dr., Arlington Heights. The baby arrived Jan. 13 and weighed 7 pounds 2½ ounces. Her grandparents are Mrs. Charles Francek, Mount Prospect, and the Samuel Russells, Atlanta, Ga.

NORTHWEST COMMUNITY

Tracey Ann Schaeffer, first-born for Mr. and Mrs. Howard C. Schaeffer Jr., 234 Firestone Dr., Hoffman Estates, arrived Jan. 23. She weighed 8 pounds 7 ounces. The senior H. C. Schaeffers of Chicago and Mrs. A. Pacific of Hoffman Estates are her grandparents.

Chad Warner Bradish was born Jan. 25 to Mr. and Mrs. William Bradish Jr. of Hanover Park. He is a grandson for Mount Prospect residents Mr. and Mrs. William Bradish and for the Vernon Warners of Springfield, Ill. Chad weighed 6 pounds 11½ ounces.

Michael Joseph McGovern's birth was recorded Jan. 22 for Mr. and Mrs. William R. McGovern, 1004 N. Ridge, Arlington Heights. He has a brother Billy who is 17 months old. Grandparents of the 8 pound 7 ounce newcomer are the Joseph Seiberts of Chicago and the William McGovern of Milwaukee.

Scott Gregory Smoron is the third child in the family of Dr. and Mrs. Gregory M. Smoron, 109 S. Weller Ln., Mount Prospect. Born Jan. 25 at 7 pounds 9 ounces, he is a brother for Michael, 5, and Paige, 18 months old. The Michael Smorons, Chicago, and the Joseph Connors, Minooka, Ill., are their grandparents.

It's Fashion

Kenneth Jay Lane believes strongly in necklaces for the coming season. He likes them high to fill in an open neckline or to be worn just below a high neckline, long over the shirtwaist or high turtle top. Good necklace combinations of gold and silver, or silver alone, are other favorites.

Colors move into two intensities in the spring collection by Herbert and Beth Levine. There are muted ones and vivid ones. The muted include pale gray, beige, blue and green. The vivid include yellow, orange, electric blue and green, turquoise and dusty rose.

For the resort and spring seasons, Pat Sandler will put American women into the clothes they've been waiting for — classic, casual and contemporary. His favorite theme is the layered look, both day and night.

Pressing Knits

To press knits use a steam iron or a clean, damp cloth and dry iron. In either method never let the iron rest on the knitwear. Hold the iron away from the fabric and let the steam do the pressing.

The Biggest Fine Art Sale since the Mona Lisa went for eight coppers back in 1503!

We're kidding, of course, about the original price paid for da Vinci's Mona Lisa. No one really knows, for sure. But, we're not kidding about our sale.

We're just simply overstocked. And, with many new collections on the way in, we must clear our inventories.

Right now, you can purchase fine art from the world's largest gallery inventory at savings from 20%, 30%, 40% and 50%. Every painting will carry special tags, so you can easily browse for these clearance values... on well-known artists as well as the newest, young, up-coming stars. And, we have two special bonuses for you.

1. Clip the lady out of this ad—bring her in with you—and we'll give you a beautiful, full color reproduction of da Vinci's Mona Lisa with any purchase, absolutely free.

2. With the purchase of any Kurt Moser painting, 16x20 size or larger, you will receive an original, hand colored etching, signed by Kurt Moser. An $85.00 value, absolutely Free.

Lorain Belcher

Mary Noonan

Nancy Breen

Patricia Doran

The engagement of Lorain Kay Belcher to Robert Garry Adams, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Jack Adams of Arlington Heights, is announced by her mother, Mrs. Loren Belcher, Cape Girardeau, Miss. Wedding plans are indefinite.

Kay is a junior at Southeast Missouri State College, Cape Girardeau, majoring in elementary education. Robert, who earned a B.S. degree in business administration in 1970 from the same college, is currently serving aboard the U.S.S. Neptune, homeported in Norfolk, Va.

Mary M. Noonan and John G. Block are planning a Sept. 2 wedding. The couple's engagement and approaching marriage are announced by Miss Noonan's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Noonan, 16 E. Forest Lane, Palatine. Her fiancé is the son of the John F. Blocks, Skokie.

Mary, a graduate of Sacred Heart of Mary High School and the University of Portland, is with Kemper Insurance, Long Grove. John, also a graduate of the University of Portland, is with Block Electric Co., Niles.

Mr. and Mrs. David Breen, Forest Hills, N.Y. have announced the engagement of their daughter, Nancy Ellen Breen and Donald William Coey, son of Mrs. Mabel Coey, Mount Prospect, and David Coey, Boulder, Colo. An August wedding is planned.

The bride-elect received her B.A. from St. John's University and her M.A. from Ohio State University. She is now an instructor of English at the University of Hawaii. Her fiancé graduated from Duquesne University and is presently a captain in the United States Air Force, stationed at Hickam Air Force Base, Honolulu.

Former Mount Prospect residents Mr. and Mrs. James E. Doran who now reside in Long Grove are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Patricia Jamie to Robert Alan Stark. Robert is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William W. Stark, Fontana on Lake Geneva, Wis.

A '68 graduate of Prospect High School, Patricia is a senior at Northwestern University and a member of Kappa Alpha Theta Sorority. In the fall she will attend Stanford Law School. Her fiancé, a '70 graduate of Northwestern and a member of Phi Delta Theta Fraternity, recently completed his active military service.

Kathleen Ganter

Pamela Jacobs

Kathleen Ganter, 5 Glenbrook Drive, Prospect Heights, is engaged to John Tufano, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dominic Tufano, 989 Beechwood Road, Buffalo Grove, according to an announcement by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Ganter Jr. No wedding date has been set.

Both Kathleen and John are '71 graduates of Wheeling High School. John is in the U.S. Marine Corp., stationed at Camp Pendleton, California.

An Oct. 1 wedding is planned by Pamela A. Jacobs and Thomas L. Wuich. The couple's engagement and approaching marriage are announced by Pam's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bruno Jacobs, 826 S. Highland Ave., Arlington Heights. Tom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Wuich, 306 S. Wheeling Ave., Wheeling.

Pam, a '67 graduate of Arlington High School, attended Northern Illinois University, De Kalb, and is employed as a secretary at Culligan International, Northbrook. Tom is a '70 graduate of Northern Illinois with a B.S. in business management. He is affiliated with Theta Chi Fraternity.

Sandra Marti Now A Bride

Sandra Marti of Arlington Heights and Alan C. Westergaard of Inverness are newlyweds making their home in Arlington Heights following their November wedding and a honeymoon in New Orleans.

Sandra, daughter of the Peter Martis, 915 N. Highland, and Alan, son of the Carl Westergaards, 273 Dover Circle, were married in South Church, Mount Prospect.

Attending Sandra were Miss Mary Cloonan, Chicago, as maid of honor, and Mrs. William Terbell, Arlington Heights, Mrs. Richard Nieman, Northbrook, and Mrs. Donald Gerken, Carbondale, as bridesmaids.

Don Gerken, Carbondale, was the groom's best man, and William Terbell and James Blake, Arlington Heights, Bruce Fichte, Mount Prospect, and Richard Westergaard, New York City, brother of the groom, were ushers.

A reception for the couple was held at Itasca Country Club.

Both Sandra and Alan are graduates of Arlington High School. The new Mrs. Westergaard also studied at a junior college and is now an assistant buyer with Carson Pirie Scott & Co., Chicago. Alan is a graduate of Purdue University and is with Stewart Warner Corp.

Dear Dorothy: A friend says she keeps a dish of activated charcoal in the piano to take care of excess moisture and keep the strings from rusting. Have you ever heard of this use?—Mrs. Ronald B.

Activated charcoal would absorb any mustiness that might be present, but I hardly think it would take care of a very humid condition. When there is much humidity in a room and a valuable piano or organ is to be considered, many people have an electric dehumidifier rod installed to take care of such situations. This rod is specifically made for this purpose and can be installed by any good piano technician.

Dear Dorothy: My cousin who has been living in Paris for some time tells me she uses only a bit of water in the eggs when scrambling them—and that they are much more tender than when using the usual cream or milk.—Zelda C.

(Mrs. Ritz welcomes questions and hints. If a personal reply is required, please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Write to Dorothy in care of Suburban Living, Paddock Publications, Box 230, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006.)

'Have A Heart' Bridge Tuesday

Dear Dorothy: I find that if I am going to soft boil eggs for a short period, say three minutes, I don't have to put cream of tartar in the water in an aluminum pan so tarnish won't form. However, when hard boiling eggs, which naturally takes considerably longer, I put a pinch of cream of tartar in so I won't have a scrubbing job on the aluminum.—Hazel M.

It took a little while to learn this routine but it's the method used around here, too. Thanks for bringing it up.

Dear Dorothy: Because of something in the column I had a spray disinfectant on hand when our basement flooded. The odor was pretty awful when my husband went down to clean up the mess. Using the disinfectant spray on the area made it possible for him to get through the job.—Mrs. Ted Smith.

Tuesday, Feb. 8, is the date Northwest Suburban area Gamma Pils and their friends will gather for the annual Gamma Phi Beta "Have A Heart" bridge party. The festivities begin at 8 p.m. in Southminster United Presbyterian Church, Arlington Heights.

Dessert and coffee will be served and prizes will go to top scorers.

Samuel Kirk School for Trainable Mentally Handicapped and Multiple Handicapped Children will benefit from the bridge event. Proceeds will go toward the purchase of gym equipment for the new school in Palatine.

Tickets may be purchased through any Gamma Phi Beta alumnae or by contacting Mrs. Robert Fawcett, party chairman, at 541-2835.

Art Critique Class Rescheduled

Last Thursday's snow postponed Countryside Gallery's critique class directed by Barbara Houskeeper. It has been rescheduled for tonight, 7 o'clock, in Countryside's new home, 414 N. Vail in Arlington Heights.

Miodrag Mihalovic, Ruthe Karlin and Marcia Kaplan, all Chicago artists, will be guests at the critique. Also to attend the class will be John Doyle, James Pink and Joseph Burlini, local artists, and Michael Wyman, a Chicago gallery owner.

The primary objective of the class is to give the working artist, beginning or experienced, a place to have his work critically judged so that he may ultimately be able to objectively review his own work.

The class is also intended as a forum for professional artists who enjoy discussing art with students and other professionals.

Miodrag Mihalovic is a painter; Ruthe Karlin a photographer; and Marcia Kaplan a sculptress. John Doyle works both in graphics and resin sculpture as does James Pink. Joseph Burlini is a sculptor. Together they illustrate the multi-media approach of the critique class.

Pair Home For 50th Wedding

Edward and Esther Brockmann, who grew up, married and raised their family of eight children in Arlington Heights, will be returning to the area to celebrate their golden wedding anniversary.

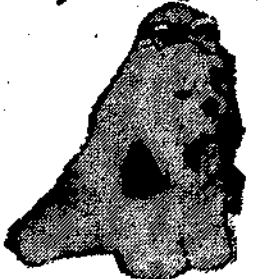

Residents of Elkhorn, Wis., the couple will be honored Sunday, Feb. 13, at an open house from 3 to 8 p.m. in Palatine American Legion Post.

Edward was born in Arlington Heights, the son of the Ferdinand Brockmanns, and Esther moved to Arlington Heights from Crystal Lake as a small child. Both Edward and Esther attended St. Peter Lutheran School in Arlington Heights. The pair were married Feb. 11, 1922 on the Brockmann family farm on Rand Road. Edward is a veteran of World War I.

The couple moved to Wisconsin in 1944. Their six sons and a daughter are also residents of Wisconsin. Another daughter, Mrs. Frances Antone, lives in Palatine. The couple also has 20 grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Sugar 'n Spice

AND EVERYTHING NICE ABOUT FOOD

Rice Menu Maker

A versatile accompaniment for meat, fish or poultry

- 1 cup chopped onion
- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 1 cup Uncle Ben's Converted Rice
- 2 1/2 cups chicken broth
- 1/2 cup raisins
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1 cup green peas, fresh, defrosted frozen or canned, drained
- 1/2 cup grated Parmesan cheese

Cook onion in butter until tender, not brown. Stir in rice, chicken broth, raisins and salt. Bring to boil. Cover tightly and cook over low heat until liquid is absorbed, about 25 minutes. Add peas 5 minutes before end of cooking time. Stir in cheese. Serve with Glazed Meat Balls en Brochette, Broiled Lamb Chops, or Curry Fried Chicken.

Glazed Meat Balls En Brochette

- 2 pounds ground beef
- 1 egg
- 1/4 cup fine corn flake crumbs
- 1/4 cup finely chopped onion
- 2 tablespoons lemon juice
- 1 tablespoon dried parsley flakes
- 2 teaspoons salt
- 1/4 cup honey
- 2 tablespoons prepared mustard

Combine beef, egg, crumbs, onion, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, parsley and salt; mix well. Shape into 18 balls. Place 3 balls on a 6 or 7-inch skewer for each serving. Combine honey, mustard and remaining 1 tablespoon lemon juice; bring to boil. Broil meat balls about 3 inches from heat until cooked to desired doneness, 12 to 15 minutes, turning once. Brush with honey mixture several times during cooking. Serve with Rice Menu Maker. Makes 6 servings.

Broiled Lamb Chops

- 6 lamb shoulder chops, 3/4-inch thick
- 1/4 cup cooking oil
- 1/4 cup catsup
- 1/4 cup lemon juice
- 2 tablespoons sugar
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1 clove garlic, sliced

Place chops in plastic bag. Combine remaining ingredients; mix well. Pour into bag over chops; seal bag securely; place in refrigerator or shallow baking dish. Marinate chops in refrigerator at least 2 hours, turning bag several times. Broil 4 to 5 inches from heat until cooked to desired doneness, 10 to 12 minutes, turning once. Serve with Rice Menu Maker. Makes 6 servings.

Curry Fried Chicken

- 1 broiler-fryer chicken (3 lbs.), cut up
- 1/2 cup flour
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon curry powder
- 1/4 teaspoon ginger
- 1/4 cup butter or margarine
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- 1 tablespoon water

Dredge chicken pieces in mixture of flour, salt, curry powder and ginger. In large skillet, brown chicken on both sides in butter over moderate heat. Add lemon juice and water. Cover and cook until chicken is fork tender, about 45 minutes. Uncover and allow chicken to crisp. Serve with Rice Menu Maker. Makes 6 servings.

RICE: The Menu Maker

Sole Supreme on Pacific Rice

An economical entree with gourmet flavor

- 2 pounds sole fillets, fresh or defrosted frozen (Approx. 6 fillets)
- 2 1/2 teaspoons salt
- 1/2 cup butter or margarine
- 2 tablespoons lemon juice
- 2 cups thinly sliced celery
- 1/4 cup chopped onion
- 3 cups Uncle Ben's Quick Rice
- 2 1/2 cups water
- 1/2 cup chopped ripe olives
- 1 tablespoon dried parsley flakes
- Paprika
- 1/2 cup milk
- 1 egg, beaten
- 1 tablespoon flour

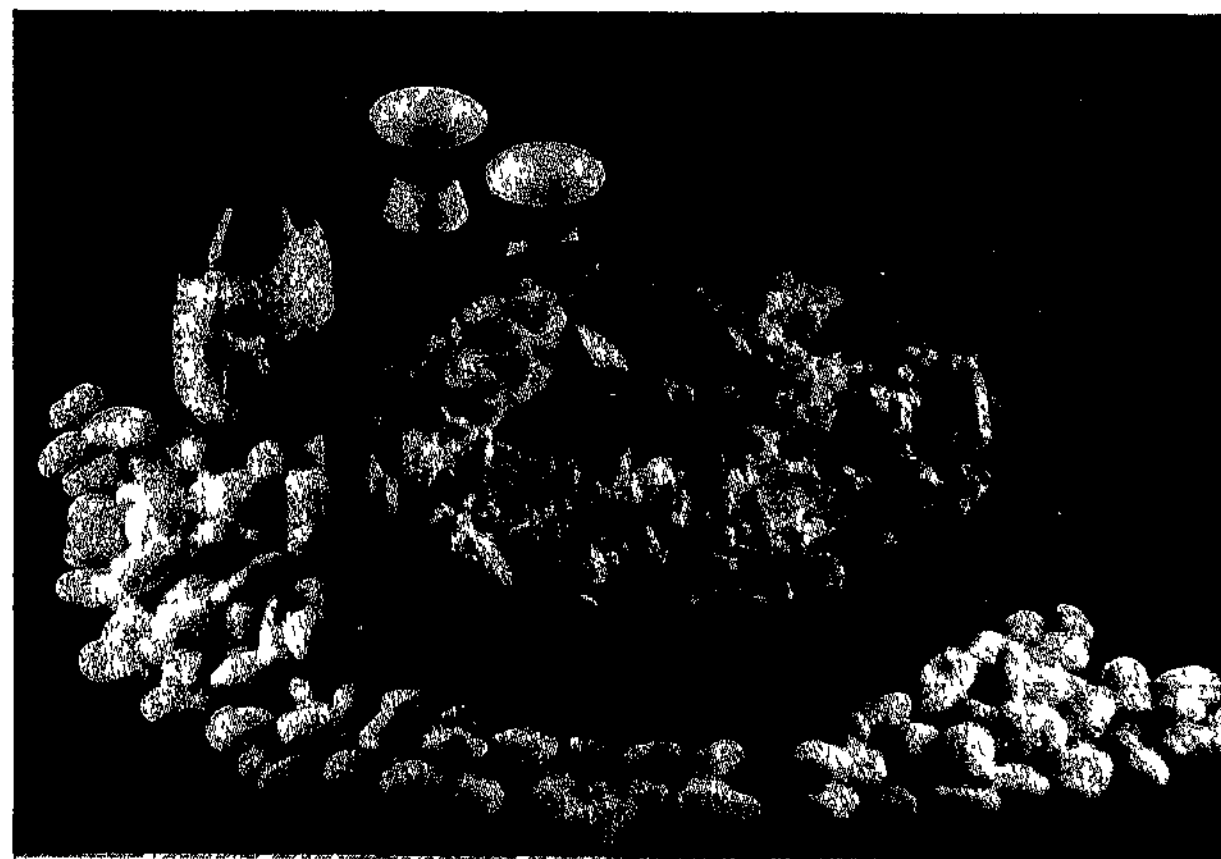

Sprinkle fillets with 1 teaspoon salt and roll up. If small, roll two fillets together to make a serving. Melt 1/4 cup butter in skillet over moderate heat. Arrange fish rolls in pan, open end underneath. Drizzle lemon juice over fish. Cover; cook slowly until fish flakes easily with a fork, about 15 minutes. Spoon juices over fish several times during cooking. To prepare rice; Cook celery and onion in remaining 1/4 cup butter in heavy saucepan over moderate heat until onion is tender, not brown. Add rice, water, 1/4 cup olives, parsley flakes and 1 teaspoon salt; mix and bring to a boil. Reduce heat; cover and cook 5 minutes. Remove fish from pan; arrange on rice in heated serving dish. Sprinkle fish rolls with paprika; keep warm. Measure liquid remaining in pan and add water as needed to make 3/4 cup; return to pan. Combine milk, egg, flour and remaining 1/2 teaspoon salt; mix well. Stir into liquid in pan. Cook over very low heat until thickened, stirring constantly. Stir in remaining 1/4 cup olives. Serve sauce with sole and rice. Makes 6 servings.

Sukiyaki Supper

Cook meat and rice separately, then layer in serving dish

- 2 pounds round steak
- 3 tablespoons cooking oil
- 2 cups sliced onion
- 1 can (10 1/2 oz.) condensed beef broth
- 1/4 cup soy sauce
- 1 can (1 lb.) bean sprouts, drained
- 2 cups diagonally sliced celery
- 1 cup coarsely chopped green pepper
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 cup water
- 1/4 cup cornstarch
- 1 1/2 cups Uncle Ben's Converted Rice
- 1 package (10 oz.) frozen chopped spinach, defrosted

Cut meat (slices easiest if partially frozen) into very thin slices. Brown meat in hot oil over high heat in large skillet or wok adding a small amount of meat at a time. Add onion; stir. Add beef broth, soy sauce and sugar; cover and cook slowly until meat is tender, about 30 minutes. Add bean sprouts, celery, green pepper and salt; stir. Blend water and cornstarch; stir into meat mixture. Cook stirring carefully until vegetables are hot but still crisp and sauce is thickened and clear, about 5 minutes. While meat is cooking, cook rice as directed on package label. Stir in spinach; heat thoroughly. To serve, layer meat and rice mixture into serving dish or spoon meat mixture over rice. Makes 8 to 10 servings.

Curried Tuna in Noodle Cups

Easy Cookery With Curry

Take tender tuna and turn it into a taste-tempting treat. All you need is pineapple from Hawaii, curry powder from India, almonds from Spain or California, and fresh whole milk, butter, flour, celery, salt and pepper from the good old U.S.A.

Of course, you can gather all these items in one easy and inexpensive trip to your local grocery store.

You'll have all the nutrition and goodness of milk and butter, the taste and protein of tuna, the sweetness of pineapple, the crunch of almonds, the unique flavor of curry and much more. Together they make a creamy exotic dish that's served in clever little cups of crispy noodles.

Even the noodle cups are unusual. They're made of oriental chow mein noodles held together with egg white and baked into perfect, tasty nests for your curried tuna treat. Use them as crunchy containers for other creamed dishes too.

Colorful mugs of refreshing milk make this a complete and deliciously different meal.

CURRIED TUNA IN NOODLE CUPS

- 1/4 cup (1/2 stick) butter
- 1/2 teaspoon curry powder
- 1/4 cup regular all-purpose flour
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- Dash of pepper
- 2 cups milk
- 2 cans (7-oz. each) tuna, drained and flaked
- 1 can (13 1/2 oz.) pineapple chunks, drained
- 3 cups chopped celery
- 1/2 cup toasted slivered almonds

In a 3-quart sauce pan melt butter with curry powder; stir in flour, salt and pepper. Remove from heat; gradually stir in milk. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until thickened. Cook 2 additional minutes. Add tuna, pineapple, celery and almonds. Heat to serving temperature, stirring occasionally. Serve in Noodle Cups. Makes 8 servings.

NOODLE CUPS

- 2 cans (3-oz. each) chow mein

noodles

3 egg whites, slightly beaten

In a bowl thoroughly combine noodles and egg whites. With back of spoon press mixture firmly into bottom and sides of 8 buttered custard cups, 6-oz. each. Bake in a preheated 325-degree oven for 15 minutes. Loosen around edges; allow to cool in cup on wire rack 5 minutes. Remove to wire rack to cool completely. Makes 8 cups.

Baking pan and reheat in a preheated 450 To crisp Noodle Cups: Place on a degree oven 2-3 minutes.

Franfare

by Fran Heckart

If you're an average homemaker, chances are you'll be serving ground beef at least once next week. The merits of the meat are many. It's versatile, relatively inexpensive and often, preferred by many children over steak.

Generally, there are three different classifications of ground beef, namely, ground round, ground chuck and ground hamburger.

The first is usually the heel of the round and the leanest of the three. Ground chuck, cut from the lean meat around the neck or chuck of the carcass, is not quite so lean as ground round.

Ground hamburger is made from bits and pieces left over from the entire carcass with usually around 20 per cent fat content. Because of the high fat content, it won't freeze as well as the chuck or round steak. The high fat content hastens rancidity.

ALL TYPES of ground meat must be handled with care to maintain quality. Take it home right away and put it in the coldest part of your refrigerator — usually near the ice cube compartment or in a special meat keeper. Freeze the meat if you're not going to use it within the next day or two. Hamburger or ground beef can be frozen at zero degrees for two to three months with little loss in quality.

It is generally recommended to repackage ground beef before refrigerating or freezing. Meat stores in a freezer should be wrapped tightly in moisture-resistant material, such as aluminum foil or freezer paper.

Improper wrapping or punctures in a package may cause freezer burn — the drying out of the surface tissues of the meat. It's not harmful, but does make the dehydrated area tough and tasteless when cooked. Proper, air-tight wrapping may darken the surface of ground beef, but this doesn't change the wholesomeness of the meat. The meat will regain its bright red color when exposed to the air again.

GROUND MEAT that you plan to refrigerate should be wrapped loosely so that the air can circulate around it freely. Juices draining to the bottom of the package will then partially dry, retarding bacterial growth. If you prefer to refrigerate the meat in the original, transparent store-wrap, it's smart to loosen a corner of the package for this reason.

Thawing ground beef properly is also important to its wholesomeness. When possible, defrost frozen ground beef in the refrigerator.

If you must defrost it faster, put the meat in a watertight wrapper in cold water or in a closed double paper bag at room temperature. These methods help keep the surface of the meat cool while defrosting which deters the growth of bacteria.

NEW FROM HENRI'S ...and only from Henri's REAL SOUR CREAM DRESSINGS in bottles

You'll never know how good salad can be until you add the fresh, rich taste of real sour cream.

Henri's new sour cream dressings turn any salad into something wild, wonderful, and deliciously different. Do wonders for vegetables, meat, and fish, too.

Henri's and only Henri's, puts real sour cream dressings in bottles. There are seven very special kinds:

Chive, Thousand Island, Smoky Bits, Bleu Cheese, Green Goddess, Cole Slaw, and Tomato Horseradish.

That's right, Tomato Horseradish...ripe red tomatoes, hot horseradish blended with real sour cream. Makes salads dress. Adds a lively lift to meat or fish.

Don't just sit there with your mouth watering. Clip the coupon, take it to your grocer, and save 7¢ on any of Henri's new sour cream dressings.

Once upon a time stew was considered a peasant dish. Today a good stew served with crisp bread and a crunchy salad with tangy dressing is an everyman's dish. A Sailors' Steak Stew, for example, is a hearty meal for all ages.

SAILORS' STEAK STEW

¼ cup butter or margarine
 3 large onions, sliced
 3 lbs. roundsteak, cut into
 1 inch cubes
 3 tablespoons Angostura
 aromatic bitters
 6 peppercorns
 6 medium potatoes, peeled and sliced ½-inch thick
 2 cups light beer
 Salt and pepper
 Heat butter and sauté onions until transparent. Brush meat cubes thoroughly with bitters. Add meat to onions and stir over high heat until cubes are brown. Add peppercorns and potatoes.
 Add beer. Cover and simmer, gently stirring occasionally for 1½ hours or until meat is tender. No thickening is required in this stew as during cooking the potatoes will disintegrate into stew, making it thicker without the addition of flour.
 Add salt and pepper to taste. During cooking it may be necessary to add more beer from time to time to prevent sticking. Makes 6 servings.

Mrs. Carl J. Nuss

Baking Bread Is Part Of Her Lifestyle

by LOIS SEILER

Happiness is the fragrance of home-made bread wafting from the kitchen on a cold winter's day.

However, in the Carl J. Nuss household this aroma fills the house all year long. Magdalena Nuss has been baking bread all her married life and it is simply part of her weekly routine.

Even though she works full time as payroll and personnel director for Industrial Molded Products Co. in Paintine, Magdalena manages to find time to bake on weekends.

Magdalena uses a bread recipe that makes five loaves. She freezes the bread and uses it as needed, baking more when the supply is low. And after all these years she has become an expert at knowing exactly how the dough should feel and look.

For variation, Magdalena occasionally sprinkles the top of the loaves with poppy seeds or sesame seed. And she has substituted rye flour for half of the white to make rye bread.

When properly made, the bread has a nice, crispy crust and light and even texture. It is delicious eaten fresh and warm and makes especially good toast. To store in the freezer, Magdalena wraps the bread in plastic bags or foil.

The bread makes an excellent accompaniment for one of Magdalena and Carl Nuss' favorite dinners — Hungarian Paprikash — sometimes called goulash.

Magdalena makes this with beef stew simmering in water well seasoned with paprika and onions. Tender and flavorful, the paprikash is served over rice, noodles or dumplings.

"Pork, veal or chicken may be substituted for the beef," said this good cook, "and you may even add sauerkraut when using pork."

MAGDALENA'S PARENTS came from Hungary, and this versatile dinner was served at least once a week in their home.

"We eat it out of soup bowls as the gravy is a thin consistency," she said. A tossed salad and the homemade bread is all that's needed to accompany this dinner.

Another authentic Hungarian recipe that Magdalena acquired from her mother is for Inbren Sauce.

The basic sauce consists of flour browned in bacon grease seasoned with onion and parsley. To this may be added a combination of green beans and cooked potatoes, or carrots and peas or cabbage and potatoes. Any of these vegetable combinations are an excellent accompaniment for breaded pork tenderloin, broiled lamb chops or roast pork.

When making the Inbren Sauce with carrots and peas, chicken may be added along with a little chicken broth and sour cream.

"This is virtually a meal-in-one, but can be served with noodles, rice or dumplings or just a salad," Magdalena remarked.

The important flavor in all these dishes is the one acquired from the browned flour, onion and parsley. In fact, just flour browned in bacon grease adds a distinctive and delicious flavor to cooked spinach.

Along with cooking, Magdalena enjoys sewing and she is a past matron of the Order of Eastern Star, Chapter 992 of Arlington Heights.

Residents of Palatine for 30 years, Carl and Magdalena Nuss have two married children and six grandchildren.

HOMEMADE WHITE BREAD

- ½ cup Carnation nonfat dry milk
- 4 cups hot water
- ¼ cup Crisco
- 2 tablespoons salt
- 4 tablespoons sugar
- ½ cup warm milk
- 2 tablespoons (2 packages) dry yeast
- 7 to 8 cups all-purpose flour, sifted

Into a very large bowl, put in the dry milk, hot water, Crisco, salt and sugar. Mix until Crisco is dissolved. Cool until slightly warm, 115 degrees.

Combine the warm milk and dry yeast in a cup. Stir until yeast is dissolved and add to first mixture. Mix in 4 cups flour until well-blended. Then beat 150 strokes by hand. (This eliminates too much kneading.) Then work 2 cups more flour into the dough.

Turn out onto a floured board and knead it, adding one to two cups more flour until dough is soft, smooth and elastic. (Do not add too much flour or you will have a stiff dough, and bread will be dry.)

Put back in bowl, cover and let rise until double, about 1½ hours. Punch down and let rise again until double, about a half hour. Put out on floured board and divide into five parts. Form into balls. Cover and let rest for 15 minutes. Shape into loaves and put into five greased loaf pans, 4 by 8½ inches.

Let rise again until dough is to the top of the pan, approximately a half hour. Do not let over-rise or a coarse, dry bread will develop.

Place in a pre-heated 400-degree oven and bake for 15 minutes. Reduce heat to 375 degrees and bake an additional 25 minutes. (After a half hour of baking, change position of bread in oven so that the loaves will brown evenly. Do quickly so oven doesn't cool off.) Remove immediately from pans and put on wire racks to cool.

For variation, the tops of the loaves may be moistened with water and sprinkled with sesame seeds or poppy seeds just before putting the bread in the oven. To make rye bread, substitute 4 cups rye flour for the first 4 cups you put into the dough.

HUNGARIAN PAPRIKASH

- 2 tablespoons margarine
- 2 large onions, sliced
- 4 tablespoons paprika
- 2 cups water
- 1½ pounds stewing beef, cut in 1½-inch cubes

Saute onions in margarine until golden brown. Add remaining ingredients and simmer, covered, for two hours or until meat is tender. Serve in soup bowls over rice, noodles or dumplings. Serves 4.

Pork, veal or chicken may be substituted for the beef, if desired. Two cups canned sauerkraut may be cooked with the pork.

INBREN SAUCE

- 2 tablespoons bacon grease
- 2 tablespoons flour
- 1 small onion, chopped
- 2 tablespoons parsley leaves
- 1 can green beans plus liquid or ½ pound fresh beans, cooked
- 2 medium-size cooked, cubed potatoes

Slowly brown flour in bacon grease until it turns a light tan. Watch carefully as it scorches easily. Add the onion and parsley and saute a few minutes. Add remaining ingredients and salt to taste. Cook until mixture has thickened. Serves 3 to 4.

Carrots and peas or cabbage and potatoes may be substituted for the above vegetables. The sauce recipe may be doubled and used with cooked chicken and carrots and peas. A little chicken broth should be added and ¼ cup sour cream stirred in just before serving.

MRS. CARL NUSS of Palatine has been baking bread all her life and now it is simply part of her weekend schedule. Mrs. Nuss bakes five loaves at a time and freezes the extra bread. When the supply is low, she simply bakes another batch.

From Generations Past

Southern Specialties With Yams

Many of our best recipes, like many of our best antiques, have come out of our grandmother's or great grandmother's homes. And our recipe for the Louisiana Yam and Pork Chop Dinner — along with all the antiques in our illustration of it — is no exception.

This recipe is a traditional Southern dish that has been handed down for generations. It is colorful, attractive and full of flavor and nutrition, thanks in large measure to Louisiana yams. . . that Southern specialty grown around the bayous for over 250 years and enjoyed by families all over the country for almost as long.

The kitchen implements in the picture are all circa the 1800's. The American primitive lemon squeezer with its black iron frame; the salt box, white with blue decorations and an old fashioned hinge top; the potato masher; and the measuring box for dry foods; all were found in American kitchens in grandmother's and great grandmother's day.

And more than likely delicious dishes like the Louisiana Yam and Pork Chop Dinner or Candied Yams with Grapes were being whipped up for the family's eating pleasure. That tradition, thankfully, has been preserved.

LOUISIANA YAM AND PORK CHOP DINNER

- 8 (1½-inch thick) pork chops
- Monosodium glutamate (optional)
- Salt and pepper

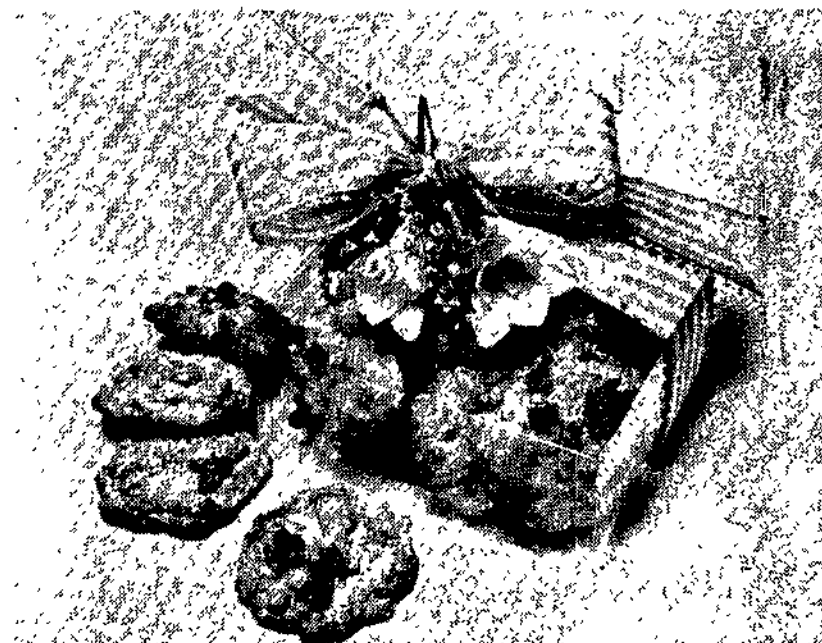

- ½ cup molasses
- 1 cup water
- 2 tablespoons lemon juice
- 1 teaspoon soy sauce
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 1/8 teaspoon pepper
- ½ teaspoon oregano
- ¼ teaspoon thyme
- 4 medium Louisiana yams, cooked, peeled and sliced or 2 cans (16 ounces each) Louisiana yams, drained and sliced

Place pork chops in large skillet; season with monosodium glutamate, salt and pepper. Saute until lightly browned on both sides. Mix together 1/3 cup of the molasses, water, lemon juice, soy sauce, ½ teaspoon salt, 1/8 teaspoon pepper, oregano and thyme. Reserve 1/3 cup sauce; pour remaining sauce over chops. Cover and simmer 45 to 60 minutes or until desired doneness. Remove chops from skillet and place on broiler pan. Top each chop with sliced yams. Add remaining molasses to reserved sauce. Broil chops until browned, brushing yams frequently with molasses mixture. Makes 8 servings.

CANDIED YAMS WITH GRAPES

- ¼ to 1/3 cup firmly-packed dark brown sugar
- 1 tablespoon cornstarch
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ½ teaspoon grated lemon peel
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- 1 cup water
- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 6 medium Louisiana yams, cooked, peeled and halved lengthwise or 3 cans (16 ounces each) Louisiana yams, drained
- 1 cup halved purple grapes (about ½ pound)

Mix together sugar, cornstarch, salt and lemon peel in large skillet. Stir in lemon juice and water. Cook, stirring constantly, until sauce boils ½ minute. Stir in butter until melted. Add yams and grapes. Cover and cook over low heat 10 minutes, turning yams once. Serve with ham garnished with clusters of grapes and parsley, if desired. Makes 6 servings.

French Macaroons

Save A Tradition

No matter how much a busy housewife may rely on convenience foods, there's one area where the old traditions are still followed — and that's baking a batch of cookies "from scratch." There's a lot of satisfaction in the making, just as there's a lot of good taste in the eating. And to see the happy smiles on the faces of the cookie eaters is a generous reward for the extra effort.

A good cookie recipe is often the start of a reputation as a good cook. And French Macaroons are the kind of cookie that could easily become a specialty of the house. The macaroons feature cinnamon flavor raisin bran, ground almonds, and a delicious combination of chopped citron, chopped candied orange peel, lemon rind, and other flavorings.

These cookies are special enough to give with pride and make a friendly greeting for a shul-in, a birthday celebrant, or a hostess.

FRENCH MACAROONS

- 1 cup cinnamon flavor

- raisin bran
- 1½ cups unsifted confectioners' sugar
- 1 cup blanched almonds, ground*
- 1 tablespoon chopped citron
- 1 tablespoon chopped candied orange peel
- 1½ teaspoons lemon juice
- ½ teaspoon grated lemon rind
- ¼ teaspoon vanilla
- Dash of salt
- 3 egg whites

*Almonds may be finely ground in electric blender.

In a large bowl, combine cereal, confectioners' sugar, ground almonds, citron, orange peel, lemon juice, lemon rind, vanilla, and salt; mix well. Beat egg whites until soft, rounded peaks will form. Fold in cereal mixture. Drop dough from tablespoon, shaping into mounds, onto greased and floured baking sheets. Bake at 375 degrees for 12 to 15 minutes or until golden brown. Remove from pan and cool on cake racks. Makes about 2 dozen cookies.

HERE'S HOW YOU CAN WIN!

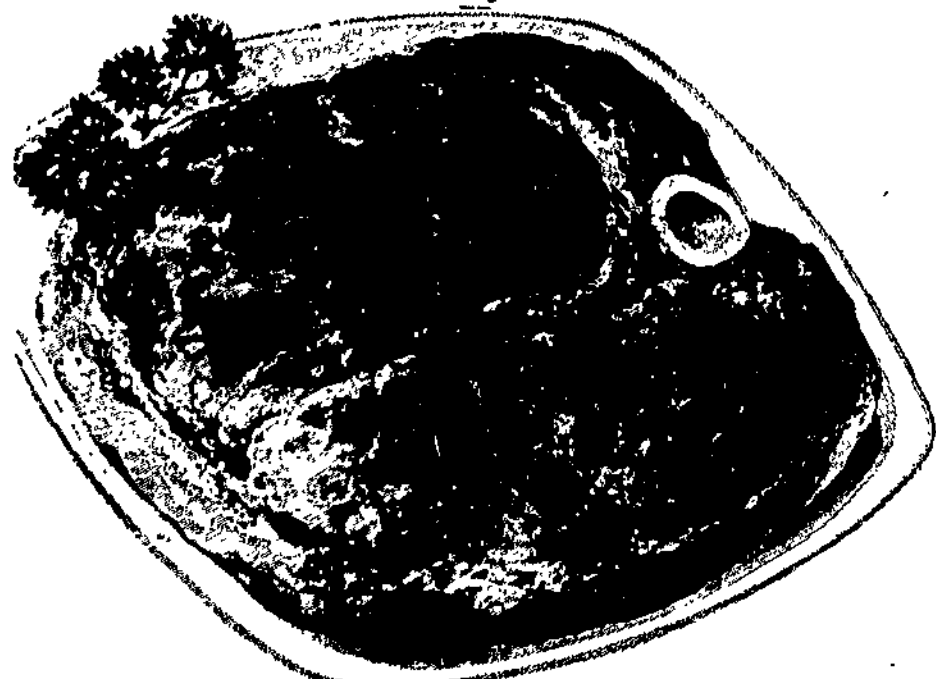

1. Pick up your FREE "RACING SWEEPSTAKES" card at any National. No purchase necessary.
2. Each card has five races with possible qualifying numbers for each race.
3. After each race is run on WGN-TV, check the number of the horse which finishes in first place. Compare this number with the number shown on your card. If these numbers for a particular race match with the number on your card for that race, you have qualified for the weekly Sweepstakes drawing. Check each of the five races. It's as simple as that!
4. Take your qualifying cards to your nearest National and deposit them in the special locked box in the store.

WEEK RS-5 CARDS ARE NOW READY!

Get your Red Sweepstakes Cards now. Qualifying cards may be deposited at any time up until Wed., Feb. 9, 1972. Major prize winners will be announced on television in the stores and all winners will be informed by mail the week following each race. The Reuben H. Donnelly Co., an independent marketing firm, will hold the drawings for all future races.

Curly Noodle Apple Kugel

Warm 'N Wonderful Dessert

Noodles are most obliging. There's hardly a food they won't go with, or under, or beside, or in! They can be simply presented, or become as fancy as you please. And the range of cuisines they grace is wide indeed — from Chinese to Hungarian, Russian to Italian — all make imaginative use of these nutritious menu-belpers.

Like this warm and wonderful treat of a pudding that takes its cue from the homey Middle European kugel. And is even better than the Old World original, thanks to the news in noodles — prettily shaped Prince curly noodles. Because of this new twist, they won't ever stick and wind up in unattractive clumps; the curls stay light and fluffy and separate.

Curly Noodle Apple Kugel couldn't be easier to make. The noodles are all of a uniform size, so it's a cinch to measure them accurately, and they slick right out of the colander. Convenient canned apple slices and golden raisins add their fruity sweetness to the custard, accented by sunny lemon and a bit of vanilla; slivered almonds provide a crisp texture contrast.

A nice dessert choice for a chilly evening, served right from the oven, with a pour-on cream. Makes for good eating cooled, too. Either way, Curly Noodle Apple Kugel provides a neat way to up the day's nutrition quota for the whole family.

CURLY NOODLE APPLE KUGEL

2 cups Prince Curly Egg Noodles, cooked
1 lb. 4 oz. can sliced apples, drained
½ cup slivered almonds
½ cup golden raisins
3 eggs, slightly beaten
½ cup sugar
1½ cups milk
2 teaspoons lemon rind
½ teaspoon lemon extract
½ teaspoon vanilla extract
Drain noodles well. Place noodles, apples, almonds and raisins in buttered 2 quart shallow baking pan. Toss gently. Combine remaining ingredients; mix well. Pour over noodle mixture; mix slightly. Put in pan of hot water and bake in a moderate oven (325 degrees) about ½ hour or until knife inserted in center comes out clean. Serve hot or cold with light cream. Makes 8-10 servings.

Last week we prepared basic crepes for Crepes Neptune, and with 12 thin pancakes of about 8 inches in diameter keeping warm in the oven, here's how to prepare the sauce and the stuffing. Actually, this can be done well in advance of actually cooking the crepes.

For the filling, saute in ¼ cup of butter or margarine 1 cup of sliced fresh mushrooms (or a 4-ounce can of sliced mushrooms, drained), ½ cup chopped green onions, and ¼ cup diced pimientos. Cook for 5 minutes until onions are soft.

Add ½ cup diced lobster meat and 1 cup coarsely cut cooked and deveined shrimp. Reserve.

To make the sauce, make a roux of 3 tablespoons butter or margarine and 3 tablespoons flour. Stir in ½ teaspoon salt and ¼ teaspoon pepper. Heat and stir until smooth about 2 minutes.

Remove from heat and add an 8-ounce bottle of clam juice and ¼ cup dry white wine. Return to heat and cook slowly, stirring constantly. Sauce will thicken, then reach boil stage. Allow to boil gently 1 minute. Remove from heat.

Beat 2 egg yolks with ¼ cup heavy cream. Stir in ½ cup of the heated sauce and stir until well mixed. Put this all into the pan containing remainder of the sauce and cook, stirring constantly, for 2 minutes longer. Again remove from heat. Mix 1 cup of the sauce into your seafood mixture and reserve the rest.

Preheat oven to 400 degrees and prepare the crepes. Butter lightly a shallow ovenproof dish (one which you can bring to the table). On a board lay out each crepe in turn.

SPOON 2 tablespoons (heaping) in the center of each crepe, then pull one side over filling and bring other side over top. Place crepes with folded side up in a single layer in the baking pan.

When all are stuffed and in place, spoon the remaining reserved sauce over the top and sprinkle overall lightly with grated parmesan or sharp cheddar cheese. Bake in the pre-heated oven (400 degrees) for 15 minutes, then serve immediately to 6.

This is an excellent entree for a multi-course dinner or quite enough with a green salad for a supper.

Officials Say Implied Consent Is Unenforceable

by HARRY WEINER

Heralded at the time of its passage early this year as a major means of reducing highway accidents, Illinois' implied consent law is now regarded as unenforceable with present equipment by area law enforcement officials.

And there apparently is some doubt that the necessary equipment will be available by July 1, when the law goes into effect.

Signed into law by Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie in early January, the law permits the state to suspend the license of any driver who refuses to take a breath test to determine blood alcohol content.

But law enforcement officials say the law will be unenforceable with present equipment because it requires use of equipment that makes a permanent record of blood alcohol content. Present breathalyzer equipment requires manual reading of test results.

THE ILLINOIS Police Chiefs Association, an organization composed of 800 municipal police chiefs, last week passed a resolution urging reconsideration of the legislation in order to eliminate the need for new equipment.

"We're 100 per cent in favor of implied consent legislation," said Jacob J. Novak, executive secretary and treasurer of the organization. "However, the bill provides that the instrument required to be used is something that hasn't been made."

Novak said there "isn't any instrument anywhere" that can comply with the law's provision that a mechanical print-out record blood alcohol content.

A spokesman for a Massachusetts firm that makes breathalyzer equipment agreed that the law requires "terribly complicated" equipment.

"I'm sure our equipment can't comply with the law, nor will anyone else's," a spokesman for Keys Scientific Equipment Co., Cambridge, Mass., said. He noted that it would be "almost impossible" to provide such equipment by July.

ILLINOIS STATE Police officials said they were studying equipment that might comply with the law, but admitted that even if the equipment is found, it would take a major expenditure to finance purchase of enough for the agency.

About 110 breathalyzers are needed for the state police, said Trooper Bob Bryant, of the state headquarters in Springfield. Bryant noted that the cost of the equipment, at least $2,500 per unit, would involve expenditure of funds that the agency does not now have available.

Bryant also noted that the equipment required is more complex than that required by other states, all of which have implied consent laws. "There are not many states that have this stringent a requirement," he said.

Bryant called the equipment required "an automatic-type machine," which is tamper-proof. He indicated he too was hopeful new legislation would be introduced.

Municipal police department officials in the Northwest suburbs indicated they were hopeful the necessary equipment would be available by July 1 and have begun studying specifications of the required equipment. Several departments have included requests for funds to buy the equipment in budget requests for the year, and others have indicated they will seek state subsidies.

Besides the mechanical requirements of the law, other aspects have been criticized by the Illinois Police Chiefs Association. Novak said that a provision allowing motorists to request a second test would cause grave problems in enforcing the law.

Motorists not satisfied with a breath test may request another test at the site of their choice, Novak said, thus greatly handicapping law officers. Motorists apparently could request another test at a site 100 or more miles away from where they were stopped, under the law, he said.

Clear Boardwalk Complex Hurdle

The last major hurdle in the way of the proposed Boardwalk Apartment complex was apparently removed this week when the village board's judicial, planning and zoning committee (JPZ) recommended approval of the project.

JPZ committee chairman James O'Brien said the committee approved plans for the project after all objections to it were met. The committee had refused to approve the project last week when Building Comm. Tom Rittenbacher said that drawings of the proposed 144-unit project were incomplete.

To be built behind the Elk Grove Medical-Dental Center, 756 S. Arlington Heights Rd., the complex had received plan commission approval earlier this year but was held up by objections to the plan.

The village board had earlier refused to approve the project until a western access was provided. After the property's owner, Dr. Marvin Schurer, successfully negotiated with the Centex Corp. for purchase of land for a western access, the plan commission approved the project.

Village Atty. Ed Hofert was instructed this week to draw up ordinances for the project for later approval by the village board. The ordinances involve granting various variances for the project.

Village May Reconsider Centex Plans

The Elk Grove Village Board decided this week to reconsider its rejection of Centex Corp.'s revised quadplex plans.

The board last week had confirmed a plan commission recommendation that plans for the 152-unit development be rejected because of inadequate parking, turnaround areas and width of streets. But the board Tuesday night indicated it would reconsider the proposal.

"I think to require 28-foot streets in that area is unfair when we have 24-foot streets in the village," Trustee James O'Brien said after proposing that Centex be allowed to construct 24-foot streets in the development.

The plan commission had rejected Centex' 20-foot wide streets, urging that all streets in the village be at least 28 feet wide.

BOARD MEMBERS indicated they would contact the plan commission to discuss reducing the requirement for Centex development behind Alexian Brothers Medical Center.

Trustee George Spees noted that Centex got caught in an unusual situation in its plans for the development, known as "Parcel C" in the planned unit development site west of Arlington Heights Road and north of Biesterfeld Road.

Centex revised its plans for the area after nearby homeowners protested the quadplex plans. The homeowners objected to the plans primarily because of their low cost in comparison to other homes in the area.

After Centex revised the plans, homeowners expressed support for the new plans at a plan commission hearing Dec. 16. The revised plans, which showed a probable $5,000 per unit increase in selling price, were taken under advisement by the commission at the time.

The revised plans involved a change in building design through use of mansard roofs and brick exteriors. The redesigned units' selling price was estimated at slightly under $30,000, compared to the $23,900 to $24,900 price of quadplex units in Centex' "Parcel E" nearby.

The revised plans, which apparently caused the problems cited by the plan commission, involved removing three proposed dead-end streets in the northwest corner of the development in favor of one crescent-shaped street.

Park District Slates Lake Geneva Ski Trip

The Elk Grove Park District is sponsoring a ski trip to the Playboy Club in Lake Geneva, Wis., Friday evening.

The park district bus will leave at 5:30 p.m. and return to the village about midnight. Cost of the trip is $9 for transportation, towels and rental of equipment or $7 without rental of equipment.

Persons interested should sign up by noon Friday in the park district office, 499 Biesterfeld Rd.

Staph Cases Bring Back Disinfectant

An outbreak of staph infection at Northwest Community Hospital in Arlington Heights has resulted in a return to the use of hexachlorophene to bathe newborn infants.

The outbreak of infection several weeks ago involved two babies, one of whom died. The incident occurred not long after the hospital stopped using hexachlorophene, a disinfectant the U.S. Food and Drug Administration has warned may cause brain damage if used to bathe infants.

"We went off hexachlorophene about a month before the warning was issued," Jack Ryon, public relations director at Northwest, said. "We are back on it now because we had an infection problem. We discovered one case and took care of the baby, but a baby who was next to it went undetected and when the parents brought him back a week later, it was too late."

AFTER THE TWO cases, Ryon said, the second floor at the hospital, which contains the maternity ward and nursery, was sterilized room by room, and the hospital returned to the use of hexachlorophene.

Ryon added the dangers of hexachlorophene cited by the FDA "are only probabilities" based on experiments with animals, and no actual cases of brain damage in infants have been shown.

He said the hospital has a committee of doctors that constantly oversees the hospital operations to minimize the spread of infections.

TWO OTHER AREA hospitals, Alexian Brothers Medical Center in Elk Grove Village and Lutheran General Hospital in Park Ridge, report that they have eliminated or cut back on the use of hexachlorophene and have not so far had an outbreak of infection.

A spokesman at Holy Family Hospital in Des Plaines said they do not use hexachlorophene to bathe infants and have had no outbreak of infection.

At Lutheran General, according to a spokesman, infants are given one bath with the disinfectant before they leave the delivery room. But it is not used after that.

Outbreaks of staph infections in many hospitals across the nation that have discontinued the use of hexachlorophene have been reported in recent days by the National Center for Disease Control. A meeting is planned for this week between FDA officials and representatives of the National Center and the American Academy of Pediatrics to reconsider the FDA warning on the use of the disinfectant.

A professor of pediatrics at the University of California at San Diego said earlier this week the staph outbreaks could be directly tied to the ban on the use of hexachlorophene. He said there is no alternative to the disinfectant in eliminating the infections.

Mental Health Outpost Gains OK

Though a bit apprehensive about space and scheduling, the Schaumburg Township Mental Health Board Tuesday recommended approval of a temporary mental health "outpost" here.

The outpost, to be administered by the Northwest Mental Health Center in Arlington Heights, is being proposed for the township offices, 105 S. Roselle Rd.

The outpost would function principally as a counseling and referral facility. Cases requiring more serious consideration would be transferred to the Arlington Heights center. The proposal was explained at the January Schaumburg Township Board of Auditors meeting by Dr. Eugene Trager, director of the Northwest clinic.

BEFORE APPROVING the proposal, board members were curious to know if there would be enough room in the township offices to conveniently accommodate a mental health facility. It was noted that the offices are presently occupied by the Schaumburg Township Youth Outreach worker, the township staff and the Salvation Army, which has received permission to conduct marriage counseling sessions at the facility.

Mrs. Phyllis Seaver, board member and also a member of the township office staff, assured the board the offices could accommodate the outpost.

She noted that Northwest has suggested sending a staff member to the outpost for 10 to 14 hours a week. Some of this time, Mrs. Seaver said, could be scheduled for Wednesday, when the offices are not occupied by staff. The remainder could be scheduled so there would be no inconvenience or conflicts, she said.

THREE MEMBERS — Mrs. Connie Schoeld, acting chairman; Mrs. Lorna Miller and Mrs. Johnson — questioned if the quality of service would be adequate considering the space, travel and time considerations. The staff member, it was noted, would have to travel from Arlington Heights.

Mrs. Schoeld, who declined to vote, already has described acceptance of the outpost as being tantamount to endorsement of a recent $100,000 state grant request by Northwest Mental Health Clinic.

"Once Northwest is established in the township, the state may decide to allow them special consideration since they are already here," Mrs. Schoeld has said.

Northwest and Elk Grove Village Community Services are competing for state funds to independently provide mental health services to Schaumburg and Elk Grove townships, which were recently declared a separate mental health planning group by the Illinois Department of Public Health. Consequently both agencies have been wooing local governmental bodies for support.

The township auditors refused to endorse either application Deadline for submission was Jan. 22. State funding would begin July 1.

"The state will require the service (at the proposed outpost) to be adequate," board member Herman Hennecke said.

The township auditors will consider the matter at their Feb. 23 meeting.

WITH HEAVY SNOW predicted for the area, many and driveways in an effort to make the last few feet of the trip home a little safer for mom or dad.

Heart Care Unit Could Save Lives

Most of the Northwest suburbs are included in a proposal to provide emergency treatment for heart attack victims.

Suburbs included in the four networks being set up would be the first communities in Illinois to use mobile heart care units.

The networks would be based at Northwest Community Hospital in Arlington Heights, Lutheran General Hospital in Park Ridge, Alexian Brothers Medical Center in Elk Grove Village and Sherman Hospital in Elgin.

The system is expected to stabilize the condition of the patient during the first critical minutes after he suffers a heart attack.

Mrs. Janet Schwettman of Inverness, principal organizer of the plan, has indicated that with proper equipment and emergency treatment, up to half the deaths attributed to heart attacks could be prevented.

The unit based in Arlington Heights, which is expected to be operative this spring, is to include Arlington Heights, Hoffman Estates, Inverness, Palatine, Rolling Meadows and Schaumburg.

HOFFMAN ESTATES, Inverness and Palatine have given favorable responses to participating in such a unit, and Rolling Meadows and Schaumburg have appropriated their share of the cost. Arlington Heights has not yet considered the proposal.

If Mount Prospect indicates an interest in joining the unit, Mrs. Schwettman said, Hoffman Estates and Schaumburg probably would be put into another network that may be formed in Elk Grove Village.

That network also would include Elk Grove Village, Itasca and Roselle.

A third unit, based in Park Ridge, would include that suburb, in addition to Des Plaines, Morton Grove, Niles and O'Hare Airport.

Another unit may be organized in Elgin, including Elgin, Barrington Hills, Carpentersville, West Dundee and East Dundee.

Under the plan, fire department vehicles in each participating community would be in direct contact with doctors at the nearest hospital.

Based on data transmitted to the hospital, the doctors would relay instructions on how to care for the patient pending his arrival at the hospital.

Each vehicle would be equipped with mechanism for applying an electrical shock to the victim's heart to restore his heartbeat.

About 50 communities throughout the nation have similar mobile heart care units.

Single-Family Residences A Thing Of The Past?

Schaumburg is unlikely to see much single-family residential development in the future, members of the village development committee agreed Monday night.

Not all of them were happy over the prospect, however.

Russell Parker, committee member and chairman of the zoning board of appeals, opened a discussion on future housing in the village when he asked committee members for their reaction to a Miller Builders development plan for 141-acres at Roselle and Wise roads. Miller is seeking annexation and zoning for 384 four-unit condominiums, 303 townhouses, 44 single-family homes and a 16-acre commercial site.

Parker said he dislikes the plan because it includes such a small percentage of single-family homes, and because the different types of housing are completely segregated. He would prefer to see condominiums and townhouses mixed, he said, especially since the two types of units are to be included in one homeowners association.

But Parker said his greatest concern is that granting zoning for the multiple housing will open the way for multiple development east of the Miller site, and north of it to the Lancer Park subdivision.

OTHER COMMITTEE members agreed with Parker's assessment, but carried his prediction even further.

There will be little single-family development anywhere in the village, or in any urban areas in the country, they predicted.

Land prices are becoming so high developers cannot afford to build single-family homes, said Harry Mamach, chairman of the plan commission.

If they do build single-family homes, they construct "cracker-boxes," said Herb Agner, committee chairman and village trustee. They simply cannot afford to build substantial homes, because few people can afford to buy them, added Ray Kessel, also a trustee. Both said Schaumburg has avoided this type of housing thus far.

Single family homes elsewhere in the village are not selling and most builders of them "are hurting," Kessel said. The one exception he noted was Campanelli Brothers. He attributed their continued sales to the firm's reputation for "giving people a fair deal."

Even Campanelli is being forced to raise its prices on single-family homes to the point where they soon will be out of reach for most families, Mamach predicted.

Parker claimed the land prices would not be as high as they are if the village refused to zone land for multiple housing. If land were zoned strictly single-family residential, its value would not increase as greatly, and developers would not be forced to build multiple housing to make a profit, he said.

OTHER COMMITTEE members countered Parker's claim by saying landowners would not sell to developers without multiple zoning to increase the value of the property. They would retain undeveloped land as investment property, the committee said.

Agner also pointed out more village services are required in single-family developments. In condominium developments, streets are retained in private ownership, with homeowners' associations holding title. The village does not have responsibility for street maintenance or snow removal, he said.

If the village restricted itself to single-family development it would be forced to levy property taxes to finance the services that would be required, said Agner.

Floros Announces School Board Bid

Leo Floros yesterday officially announced his candidacy for the High School Dist. 214 Board, promising to cut-back administrators and costs if elected.

Floros' current term on the Mount Prospect Dist. 57 School Board expires April 8. He has been "seriously considering" running for one of the three seats to be filled in the Dist. 214 election for several weeks. Leah Cummins, former Dist. 214 board member, is the only other candidate to declare her candidacy.

Another of Floros' main goals would be establishment of unit districts in the Wheeling-Elk Grove township areas, thus dissolving Dist. 214. A unit district includes both high schools and elementary schools in the same district.

"I believe Dist. 214 has become too big and unwieldy. It has a budget in the neighborhood of $25 million and it is almost impossible for lay members of the board to monitor and control a budget of this size," Floros said. "I think the time has come for 214 to lead the way toward a merger of elementary and high school districts in the northwest suburban area."

HIS PLAN would be to consolidate Dist. 214 and its six feeder districts (including Dist. 21, 23, 25, 26, 57 and 59) into three or four unit districts.

"By doing this you would get more state aid, and perhaps, more importantly, you would probably have a more unified and efficient educational program from kindergarten through high school," he said.

In cutting back administrators, Floros said the district could operate efficiently with fewer than the current 100 member administrative staff.

"And I don't think that in an economic climate like this, these administrators should have received average increases of $1,500 as they did last fall," he said.

"Dist. 214 at the central office and in the individual schools is top-heavy with administration and heavy-laden with non-teaching costs," he said.

The Rolling Meadows high school opened this fall. Voters have approved money for a high school in Buffalo Grove, and construction has begun.

"Practicality and efficiency have never been trademarks of Dist. 214. The Rolling Meadows project is another example of that. Not only were we presented with a school with build-in problems, but as is generally the case in 214, the building was far from complete when the doors opened in September. The same thing happened at Wheeling and Hersey," he said.

Floros, 44, lives at 111 N. Emerson St. in Mount Prospect. In April, he will complete four years on the Dist. 57 School Board. The father of two students at Prospect High School, Floros is currently employed with Selx, Seabold and Associates, a Chicago public relations firm.

Armed Robber Gets $45 From Holiday Laundry

An armed robber stole $45 yesterday from Holiday Laundry and Dry Cleaners, 412 W. Northwest Hwy., Mount Prospect. The robbery was the second for the cleaners in a little more than two years.

Mount Prospect Police said they were investigating the robbery but had no suspect at the time.

Harriete Ficht, store manager, said she was alone in the back room of the building when the man came in. She said she walked to the counter to find a man about 35 to 40 years old holding a revolver and demanding the money in the cash register.

She said the man, dressed in a cocoa-colored trench coat, took the money and left, but she didn't see how he got away.

Mrs. Ficht said she told police the robber was 5 feet 10 with dark brown hair.

"I had a premonition when I first saw the man that the store was going to be robbed," Mrs. Ficht said. "I just did not know what the man asked because I didn't know what would happen otherwise."

During an armed robbery Oct. 26, 1970, $185 was stolen from the same cleaners.

Mrs. Ficht said she also was at the store at the time of the first robbery and the holdup this week was not as frightening as the first time. "Maybe I'm just getting used to it," she added.

Jury Weighs Decision On Dr. Middleton

by ROGER CAPELLINI

An eight-man, four-woman jury deliberated the guilt or innocence of Dr. James G. Middleton for more than eight hours yesterday without reaching a verdict.

The case was turned over to the jury at 9:50 a.m. after Criminal Court Judge Robert J. Downing spent 20 minutes giving legal instructions to the jury.

At press time last night the panel had not yet reached a verdict.

Dr. Middleton, 45, of 969 Elmhurst Rd., Des Plaines, has been charged with deviate sexual assault and aggravated battery by a former woman patient. The former CIA agent, deputy sheriff and smoke jumper is alleged to have given the woman a drug and then forced her to submit to a deviate sexual act.

The doctor has flatly denied the charges and has claimed the whole thing is a result of an extortion plot against him.

IF FOUND GUILTY he could be sentenced to 4 to 30 years in prison on the charges of deviate sexual assault and one to 10 years on the battery charge.

Testimony in the trial lasted 10 days and included statements from the alleged victim, six other former women patients, and two of the doctor's former receptionists. All the former patients said injections given them by the doctor caused them to become weak and dizzy. They also said while they were being treated by him they experienced excessive hair growth, a deepening voice, and an increased sexual appetite.

After Dr. Middleton took the stand last week and denied the charges, an anesthesiologist testified he knows of no drug which could produce the intoxicating effects to which the women testified.

At only one point during their deliberations yesterday did the jurors convey any message to the court.

At 1:30 p.m., Judge Downing said the jurors had relayed a note which said, "Can we have witnesses transcripts?" The judge replied on the same sheet of paper, "No. Robert J. Downing."

Faculty Getting A 'Court' Date

The younger generation at Schaumburg High School will step aside Saturday night for their teachers, who will take to the basketball court against the Harlem Diplomats.

The 8 p.m. game will match the high school faculty against the touring team, which styles itself after the Harlem Globetrotters.

Faculty members will not only make up the home team, but other members of the teaching staff will act as cheerleaders and waterboy or girl, for the event.

The game is sponsored by the Schaumburg High School V.I.P. (Very Interested Parents) Club. Tickets for the game cost $1.50. They may be obtained at the high school, 1110 W. Schaumburg Rd., or by calling 882-5206.

Proceeds from the game will be used by the V.I.P.'s to purchase equipment needed by the school. Past events have raised funds for sodding athletic fields at the school.

Court May Speed Hoffman Estates Project

by NANCY COWGER

An order this week by U.S. District Court Judge William Campbell to sell assets of the defunct City Savings and Loan Association of Chicago probably will result in earlier development than anticipated of the Howie-In-The-Hills project.

Hoffman Estates Village Atty. Edward Hofert said Tuesday after talking with attorneys for the savings association receivership, the sell order "might indicate a faster pace of the thing."

"A developer certainly would be anxious to move, possibly faster because he might have money of his own" tied up in the purchase of the land, said Hofert.

Hofert also indicated Judge Campbell's order may not endanger chances of a settlement in circuit and federal court suits involving the Howie project.

The receivers "still believe the possibility of a settlement exists," said Hofert, who is representing the village in the suits.

Hofert is to meet with attorneys representing the receivership, the Teamsters Union Pension fund and the purchasers of bonds for capital improvements to the Howie site to discuss possible settlement terms, he said.

THE CIRCUIT court suit, brought by the Pension Fund, charges the villages perpetrated a fraud on the courts in obtaining approval for a special assessment for streets, sewers and related improvements. It seeks to have the assessment vacated. The case is to resume in court March 13.

The federal court suit, filed by the bond holders, charges improprieties were practiced under the Security Exchange Act of 1934 in the selling of bonds to finance improvements already accomplished.

The suit seeks reimbursement of $300,000 in bonds and punitive damages of $250,000 from former village officials. No court date is set in this action, but Hofert said he has completed research and is ready for trial.

HOWIE-IN-THE-HILLS and another development, Apple Orchard in Bartlett, were declared assets of the City Savings and Loan receivership by Judge Campbell. He originally favored development of the property while it still is in receivership, saying depositors in the savings institution, which went bankrupt, would receive a greater return from their deposits by increasing the land value.

However, many elderly depositors objected, saying development of the land under the receivership would have meant a delay in distribution of the savings institution assets. They already have been waiting eight years since the firm's collapse. They also objected to paying fees to attorneys and receivers for the longer period of time.

About 13,000 persons had investments totaling around $28 million in the institution when it declared bankruptcy.

New Developments To Draw 10,000 Persons To Village

More than 10,000 persons are scheduled to move into Wheeling as residents of new developments which have received village approval.

The Wheeling Plan Commission recently completed a survey of developers, asking for population projections for the various developments.

The total figure for the nine projects surveyed by the commission is 10,265.

The largest projected development is one of the few which have not yet begun construction. Named Tahoe Village, it will be built east of Buffalo Grove Road, south of Buffalo Grove's Cambridge subdivision.

CHESTERFIELD BUILDERS, which is developing the project, has estimated a population total of 2,400 in its rental apartments and the townhouse units which will be sold.

The Mallard Lake apartment project is being built by the Server Co. on property directly south of Tahoe Village.

The project, which surrounds a small piece of property zoned for business at the northeast corner of Hintz and Buffalo Grove roads, will have an estimated population of 1,105.

Lakeside Villas, the Zale Construction Co. project east of Mallard Lake along Hintz Road, is a townhouse project.

The developers have projected the population of Lakeside Villas at 1,450 when completed.

Across the street on the south side of Hintz Road, the Chalet apartment project is under construction. Developer George Manda has estimated the project will have 750 residents.

In north central Wheeling three developments are under way. The Tekton Corp.'s Cedar Run, a quadruminium project with units for sale, is located on the north side of McHenry Road.

The population of Cedar Run is expected to reach 1,277.

FAIRWAY GREENS, the apartment project across the street from Cedar Run, will have a population of 650, developer Harold E. White told the commission.

Also located in the northern section of the village is the new Whipple Tree Village Mobile Home Park which has a projected population of 1,300.

In the southern portion of the village is the Sandpebble Walk condominium project and the Pleasant Run apartment project.

Sandpebble Walk, located on the north side of Palestine Road west of Wheeling Road, will have about 875 residents, according to Miller LePier Inc., the developer.

Pleasant Run, being built on the east side of Wheeling Road by John Glorioso and Associates, has a projected population of 350.

$1,250 Grant To Provide 200 New Reference Books

Approximately 200 new books will enrich the adult reference section of the Wheeling Public Library, thanks to a $1,250 grant.

The grant is part of the library's membership in the North Suburban Library System (NSLS).

The two-part federally funded program is to improve and enrich the depth and scope of library material, as well as increase the number of books available to users.

THE GRANT to member libraries, like that to the NSLS, will be in addition to the amount the libraries have already budgeted for library materials.

Kenneth Swanson, head librarian, felt the grant was greatly needed and its acceptance is going to cause a "big jump in the materials presently on hand."

The Wheeling library will also be adding to its collection of materials through a reciprocal borrowing agreement with the Chicago Public Library. The district ratified the agreement Monday and the program is now in effect.

The agreement enables residents of the Wheeling library district to borrow from the Chicago Library and the Chicago residents to do the same with Wheeling.

TO MAKE USE of the service, library patrons need only present their cards to desk personnel at the Chicago Public Library or one of its branch facilities. The addition of the program brings the number of volumes of library texts available to Wheeling district residents to 3 million.

It is preferred the books borrowed through the reciprocal program be returned to the original library. However, they can be returned to any participating library "should it be necessary."

"Talking Books" are actually records of someone reading the books. They may be requested from the library, and if they are not on hand they can be ordered from other libraries.

Anyone interested in acquiring these books can contact the Wheeling Public Library at 537-4011.

Effect Of Current Flood Plan Queried

The Wheeling Zoning Board of appeals has questioned the effect of current flood control programs on the application of the village flood plain map.

The board has written a letter to village manager George Passolt asking the manager to find out how the new flood control basins alter the existing flood plains.

Warns Against Variation For Wickes

Don't Allow 'Sea Of Signs': Zoner

A Wheeling zoning board member has warned that a sign variation requested by the Wickes Corp. could lead to Dundee Road becoming "a sea of signs."

Zoning board Commissioner Ed Slepicka wrote a minority report to the village board opposing a variation to allow a 40-foot-tall sign at the furniture store planned by Wickes.

The commissioner said he was not objecting to other zoning variations requested by the Wickes Corp. The firm is seeking variations for retail sales as well as sign and light pole and parking variations.

The variation requests for the store are scheduled to be considered at the Wheeling Village Board meeting Monday. The village board already approved subdividing the Wickes' property into two separate parcels.

IN HIS REPORT, Slepicka said he objected to the village allowing a 372-square-foot double-face pylon sign on the property. The variation asks the village to allow the sign to start at 36 feet from the ground and extend upward 48 feet above the ground.

Slepicka points out in his report that village ordinances normally limit the height of such a sign to 24 feet.

"In the past, requests for sign-height variations on Dundee Road have resulted in recommendations by the zoning board of appeals that the requests be denied," Slepicka wrote to the village board.

"In one particular instance," he said, "a petitioner asked for a variation which would allow his sign to be as tall as his neighbor's. It was discovered that his neighbor's sign was not constructed according to the village code and was contrary to the design submitted. The petitioner's request for a variation was denied and the zoning board initiated action that resulted in a reduction in the height of the non-conforming sign," Slepicka said.

"The village board of trustees should be commended for its past efforts in upholding the sign-height ordinance on Dundee Road," the zoning board commissioner said.

HE SAID he felt the village board's efforts "have enabled a person to travel within the village limits, the length of Dundee Road and not get the feeling the street consists entirely of signs as is the case in other communities."

"If the village board sees fit to grant the requested variation it will only be a matter of time until this condition on Dundee Road will cease to exist," Slepicka said.

"As soon as one oversized sign is permitted" Slepicka said, "a precedent will be set and the village will have difficulty denying other requests for a height variation."

The commissioner said he did not feel his position on the sign was in conflict with his vote to approve the request for a variation to allow a 148-foot tall light pole on the property.

Slepicka said he felt the disadvantages of the light pole variation were offset by the advantages of the light it will provide in the development's parking lot.

He also said the light was not as large as the sign and also noted that it would be set back farther from the street than the sign was.

Trust And Savings Gets Phone Threat

Wheeling police spent Tuesday afternoon at the Wheeling Trust and Savings Bank after an anonymous phone caller threatened that the bank would be robbed at 5 p.m. Tuesday.

The call was made to the bank at 12:21 p.m. Tuesday by an unidentified woman.

Police who were at the stakeout said, despite the call there were no unusual events at the bank Tuesday.

Library Dist. To Name 2 Trustees

The Wheeling Public Library District will fill two trustee positions in an election April 11.

The board seats are currently held by Richard Roman, a recent appointee, and Charlotte Dologopol, a trustee for the last eight years. The terms of the two trustees expire May 1.

Roman and Loni Milz, a Wheeling housewife, have announced their intentions of running for the board.

"At the current time we have no other names of anyone interested in running for the offices," said Kenneth Swanson, head librarian.

"Should anyone be interested in running for the trusteeships, they can contact me at the library and I will see they get the proper forms," he added.

Interested parties must obtain a petition, which must be signed by 50 registered voters in the district. The petition must then be filed with the secretary of the board of trustees by March 1. Petition forms will be available Friday.

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

March 6 and 7 were picked Numbers 1 and 2 in the national draft lottery to determine the order of call next year for an estimated 2 million men born in 1953.

The National Disease Center in Atlanta reported Hong Kong flu outbreaks in all 50 states and Puerto Rico.

President Nixon criticized Congress for inaction in the 7-month West Coast dock strike as Republican leaders began efforts to pry emergency arbitration legislation loose for House floor action.

Rep. Lee Aspin, D-Wis., contended South Vietnamese sabotaged the chance for a neutral inspection last summer of North Vietnamese camps holding U.S. prisoners of war and urged the administration to insist that Saigon cooperate with a possible second try.

The stringent security surrounding Sirhan Sirhan, the assassin of Sen. Robert Kennedy, has been relaxed for the first time in nearly three years on San Quentin's death row, prison officials disclosed.

The World

A crowd of more than 25,000 demonstrators stormed the British Embassy in Dublin, setting it on fire with gasoline bombs and flares in violent protest to the "Bloody Sunday" shootings by British troops of 13 civilians in Northern Ireland.

A Bangladesh army spokesman said as many as 100 police and soldiers have been killed or wounded in fighting at the non-Bengali enclave of Mirpur. He blamed the resistance on the heavily armed Pakistani Army holdouts.

The State

Circuit Court Judge Philip Romiti denied all motions to quash indictments against State's Atty. Edward Hanrahan and others accused of conspiracy to obstruct justice in the Black Panther deaths investigation.

Using a tape recorder, Daniel Walker, Democratic candidate for the nomination as governor, held the first of what he has labelled "stimulated debates" with his opponent, Lt. Gov. Paul Simon.

Mayor Daley, the city of Chicago, and individual aldermen were added as defendants in the federal court case involving $28 million in Model Cities funds. A District Court Judge, however, refused to rule on a motion by the American Civil Liberties Union to require the Chicago Housing Authority to build public housing, regardless of any city council action.

The War

Three thousand South Vietnamese soldiers drove into Cambodia in pursuit of remnants of a 400-man Communist force battered by air strikes near the border, military spokesmen said. The U.S. command said American warplanes attacked missile bases in North Vietnam seven times.

Implied Consent Unenforceable

by HARRY WEINER

Heralded at the time of its passage early this year as a major means of reducing highway accidents, Illinois' implied consent law is now regarded as unenforceable with present equipment by area law enforcement officials.

And there apparently is some doubt that the necessary equipment will be available by July 1, when the law goes into effect.

Signed into law by Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie in early January, the law permits the state to suspend the license of any driver who refuses to take a breath test to determine blood alcohol content.

But law enforcement officials say the law will be unenforceable with present equipment because it requires use of equipment that makes a permanent record of blood alcohol content. Present breathalyzer equipment requires manual reading of test results.

THE ILLINOIS Police Chiefs Association, an organization composed of 800 municipal police chiefs, last week passed a resolution urging reconsideration of the legislation in order to eliminate the need for new equipment.

"We're 100 per cent in favor of implied consent legislation," said Jacob J. Novak, executive secretary and treasurer of the organization. "However, the bill provides that the instrument required to be used is something that hasn't been made."

Novak said there "isn't any instrument anywhere" that can comply with the law's provision that a mechanical print-out record blood alcohol content.

A spokesman for a Massachusetts firm that makes breathalyzer equipment agreed that the law requires "terribly complicated" equipment.

"I'm sure our equipment can't comply with the law, nor will anyone else's," a spokesman for Keys Scientific Equipment Co., Cambridge, Mass., said. He noted that it would be "almost impossible" to provide such equipment by July.

ILLINOIS STATE Police officials said they were studying equipment that might comply with the law, but admitted that even if the equipment is found, it would take a major expenditure to finance purchase of enough for the agency.

About 110 breathalyzers are needed for the state police, said Trooper Bob Bryant, of the state headquarters in Springfield. Bryant noted that the cost of the equipment, at least $2,500 per unit, would involve expenditure of funds that the agency does not now have available.

Bryant also noted that the equipment required is more complex than that required by other states, all of which have implied consent laws. "There are not many states that have this stringent a requirement," he said.

Bryant called the equipment required "an automatic-type machine," which is tamper-proof. He indicated he too was hopeful new legislation would be introduced.

Municipal police department officials in the Northwest suburbs indicated they were hopeful the necessary equipment would be available by July 1 and have begun studying specifications of the required equipment. Several departments have included requests for funds to buy the equipment in budget requests for the year, and others have indicated they will seek state subsidies.

Besides the mechanical requirements of the law, other aspects have been criticized by the Illinois Police Chiefs Association. Novak said that a provision allowing motorists to request a second test would cause grave problems in enforcing the law.

Motorists not satisfied with a breath test may request another test at the site of their choice, Novak said, thus greatly handicapping law officers. Motorists apparently could request another test at a site 100 or more miles away from where they were stopped, under the law, he said.

Willow Grove Boys Eligible For Pack

Boys who live in the attendance area of the Willow Grove School in Buffalo Grove may join Cub Scout pack 279, sponsored by the Long Grove Church.

The boys or their parents are asked to phone Lance Jensen, the packmaster, at 541-1251.

At a recent meeting of the pack, Richard Sussman received his gold arrow toward his bear badge.

Jury Weighs Decision On Dr. Middleton

by ROGER CAPETTINI

An eight-man, four-woman jury deliberated the guilt or innocence of Dr. James G. Middleton for more than eight hours yesterday without reaching a verdict.

The case was turned over to the jury at 9:50 a.m. after Criminal Court Judge Robert J. Downing spent 20 minutes giving legal instructions to the jury.

At press time last night the panel had not yet reached a verdict.

Dr. Middleton, 45, of 969 Elmhurst Rd., Des Plaines, has been charged with deviate sexual assault and aggravated battery by a former woman patient. The former CIA agent, deputy sheriff and smoke jumper is alleged to have given the woman a drug and then forced her to submit to a deviate sexual act.

The doctor has flatly denied the charges and has claimed the whole thing is a result of an extortion plot against him.

IF FOUND GUILTY he could be sentenced to 4 to 20 years in prison on the charges of deviate sexual assault and one to 10 years on the battery charge.

Testimony in the trial lasted 10 days and included statements from the alleged victim, six other former women patients, and two of the doctor's former receptionists. All the former patients said injections given them by the doctor caused them to become weak and dizzy. They also said while they were being treated by him they experienced excessive hair growth, a deepening voice, and an increased sexual appetite.

After Dr. Middleton took the stand last week and denied the charges, an anesthesiologist testified he knows of no drug which could produce the intoxicating effects to which the women testified.

At only one point during their deliberations yesterday did the jurors convey any message to the court.

At 1:30 p.m., Judge Downing said the jurors had relayed a note which said, "Can we have witnesses transcripts?" The judge replied on the same sheet of paper, "No. Robert J. Downing."

Final Lakeside Plans To Be Eyed

Final plans for the Lakeside Villas townhouse project in Western Wheeling will be considered by the Wheeling Plan Commission at a Feb. 10 meeting.

At a commission meeting last week it was discussed that the developer is proposing changes from the preliminary plan — including building more units with garages, increasing the number of bedrooms in the units and reducing the total number of units from 245 to 242.

Commission members said that a decision on whether the changes would substantially alter the development from the original preliminary plan would have to be made by the village attorney.

Cold Weather Workers Find It Rough

by DOUG RAY

On days when it is colder in the Northwest suburbs than Anchorage, Alaska, hearty outdoorsmen brave the environs to earn their daily bread.

Men like Melvin Wille, who has been a heavy equipment operator since 1959, and Cliff Hemstock, a surveyor, seldom let the biting cold slow them down.

Wille, an Arlington Heights public works employee at the village landfill, rolls out of bed each work day to face an eight-hour struggle against Arctic-like temperatures during winter months. He comes to work armed with a vacuum bottle filled with hot coffee and after a few cups, mounts a bulldozer at the landfill.

"It's rough on the cold days, believe me," Wille said, "but it takes getting used to."

Wille and other equipment operators at the landfill are using bulldozers without cabs this week and their only warmth comes from heat generated by the roaring earth movers.

Wille, who lives in Arlington Heights, is protected somewhat from the frigid temperatures by a thermal suit.

"But that doesn't really keep the cold out," he said. "You can only stay out there for two hours" in extreme cold, he added, "and then you're numb all over."

"When you grab a lever and your fingers won't straighten out, it's time to come in to thaw out," he said. He thaws out in a small shack at the landfill site.

MEN WHO WORK outdoors all year seem to build up an immunity to severe colds which strike via the penetrating dampness of the winter cold.

"I only have about one cold a year," Wille said, but he quickly tapped on the wood-lined doorway. "I better knock on wood though," he laughed.

While riding an open bulldozer is a test of man's susceptibility to cold, the winter-plight of the surveyor must be even more trying. Wille cuts the chilling winds atop an earth mover and Cliff Hemstock of Hoffman Estates stands in the median strip of Arlington Heights Road as cars pass by.

He takes a crouched stance behind the tripod, attempting to be as comfortable as possible despite the sub-zero wind-chilled weather.

"Accuracy is less when it's not comfortable," Hemstock said.

The use of his hands is essential and he doesn't wear gloves. "My hands are pretty well shot at the end of the day," he said.

HE HAS HAD only one slight case of frostbite "but that was enough," he said. On the most bitter winter days Hemstock and the rest of the surveying crew take shelter at intervals in a panelled truck equipped with a heater.

But there is always something to be done by the surveying crew no matter how cold it becomes.

"If it's too bad to survey, we cut down trees. We can cut down trees in 40 below," Hemstock said.

"I usually take the cold pretty well," he said, "dressed only in a jacket and work suit."

It is a robust lot who compete with the winter for dominance several months each year. And the men enjoy their work and say they wouldn't want to do anything else.

It's like Hemstock said. "I tried working indoors but it drove me up the wall."

Newsletter - Winter Edition Ready

Wheeling residents will receive the Village of Wheeling newsletter this week.

Items of interest in the winter edition include a reminder of the Feb. 15 vehicle sticker deadline and information on the Feb. 19 Diamond Anniversary dance planned by the Wheeling Fire Department.

A summary of the recent public relations commission survey was also included in the newsletter along with information on voter registration, and a report on the progress of the Omnibus Hotline.

Plans for sidewalk repair and replacement, an explanation of how to vote by absentee ballot in upcoming elections, and information on Wheeling Park District and Wheeling Public Library District are included.

Information on a "trauma school" attended by local firemen, a new animal warden hired by the village, work on establishing a local environmental control commission and a warning that fire lane parking bans are being enforced is also included.

Plans for installing a sidewalk on the north side of Dundee Road and the new policy on village ambulance service are explained.

'Dolly' Tryouts Open

Tryouts have begun for the musical "Hello Dolly" which will be presented by the Adlai E. Stevenson High School music department on April 21, 22 and 23.

More than 150 students are expected to participate in the show which is under the direction of William Misik, music department chairman.

Zoning Hearings Set

The Wheeling Zoning Board of Appeals will hold two public hearings Tuesday evening.

At 8 p.m. the board will hold a hearing for the annual updating of the Wheeling zoning map. The map is changed to reflect zoning changes granted by the village board during the year.

At 8:30 p.m. the board will consider zoning to allow the building at 516 N. Milwaukee Av. to be used as the new teen center operated by the Youth Services Bureau.

Will Buy Vehicle Sticker

Man Protesting Arlington Road Conditions Relents

The man who started the latest campaign to get Arlington Heights Road fixed by refusing to buy a village vehicle sticker said yesterday he now "plans" on buying one.

But the citizens group that was spawned because of J. Joseph Klodner's threatened boycott still plans to press for the repairs.

Klodner, of 14 Regent Ct., wrote a letter to Buffalo Grove Village Pres. Gary Armstrong in December and said he would not buy a 1972 vehicle sticker until the road was repaired.

Klodner's action sparked a new controversy about repairing the Cook County section of the road. A citizens' group was formed and threatened to picket the deeply rutted road if village action was not forthcoming.

The group also attended village board meetings in force and as a result, the trustees renewed their efforts to find money to repair the road.

RAY MAHONEY, spokesman for the citizens group, said that members of the group will question board members about progress toward repairs at Tuesday's meeting.

Mahoney also added that the group will wait until the Tuesday meeting before taking any other action. If the village board does not come up with "concrete plans" by then, "we'll go ahead on our own" and try to get the road closed by taking the matter to state officials and the governor's office, Mahoney said.

Mahoney acknowledged that the village has "made some progress" on the road project, but added that the group isn't going to disband.

"We're going to see it through," he said.

According to a proposal currently under consideration, the village will use state Motor Fuel Tax funds to fix the road and try to recover some of the total cost — estimated to be between $100,000 and $200,000 — from the Village of Arlington Heights and Wheeling Township.

Those two governmental agencies have jurisdiction of smaller parts of the road. Also, the Cook County Highway Department has offered to contribute $80,000 toward the repair project.

A report on the progress of the repair project is expected to be made at Tuesday's village board meeting.

KLODNER SAID yesterday the reason he refused to buy the sticker in the first place was to "get action" from the village to repair the road. He believes that his threatened boycott got results.

Since December, the village has concentrated on finding ways to fix the road and hired a special consultant to help with the project, although some residents do not agree that the present plan is the best solution to the problem.

The road has been rutted for over two years because the governmental agencies could never agree on who should do what amount of work.

Last fall, the Lake County part of the road from the county line to Rte. 83 was repaired under an agreement with the Lake County Highway Department. The highway department fixed the road with the understanding that Buffalo Grove would repay the county when money becomes available.

ICICLES SHOW THAT winter is still in the Northwest predicting six more weeks of cold and chill that result in these conditions.

$1,250 Grant To Provide 200 New Reference Books

Approximately 200 new books will enrich the adult reference section of the Wheeling Public Library, thanks to a $1,250 grant.

The grant is part of the library's membership in the North Suburban Library System (NSLS).

The two-part federally funded program is to improve and enrich the depth and scope of library material, as well as increase the number of books available to users.

THE GRANT to member libraries, like that to the NSLS, will be in addition to the amount the libraries have already budgeted for library materials.

Kenneth Swanson, head librarian, felt the grant was greatly needed and its acceptance is going to cause a "big jump in the materials presently on hand."

The Wheeling library will also be adding to its collection of materials through a reciprocal borrowing agreement with the Chicago Public Library. The district ratified the agreement Monday and the program is now in effect.

The agreement enables residents of the Wheeling library district to borrow from the Chicago Library and the Chicago residents to do the same with Wheeling.

TO MAKE USE of the service, library patrons need only present their cards to desk personnel at the Chicago Public Library or one of its branch facilities. The addition of the program brings the number of volumes of library texts available to Wheeling district residents to 3 million.

It is preferred the books borrowed through the reciprocal program be returned to the original library. However, they can be returned to any participating library "should it be necessary."

"Talking Books" are actually records of someone reading the books. They may be requested from the library, and if they are not on hand they can be ordered from other libraries.

Anyone interested in acquiring these books can contact the Wheeling Public Library at 537-4011.

Library 'Self-Survey' Being Planned

The Wheeling Public Library District is developing a self-survey to determine why residents do or do not use the library.

Kenneth Swanson, head librarian, said the survey is in the planning stages, and he will try to have a concrete proposal to present to the board at its next meeting.

"We hope to have this thing finished by the Feb. 15 meeting and get it out to the residents so they can send it back in to us," he said. "We have presented two of these surveys already and they have been turned down. This one should work."

Swanson said the survey must be short but yet it must be complete.

"We are trying to put all the questions on the back of a post card and hope that the people will send it back," he added, "and this is where our problem lies."

"If the survey is too long people will not read it," said Swanson, "or if it is too hard to mail back they will throw it away. We are trying to keep it simple."

The survey is going to be used in policy and program planning for the library staff. It will be sent to users and non-users of the library to learn their opinions of the library.

Swanson said, "We have to know what people like and what they need. We want to make this library for everyone and we want to know why those who aren't coming, aren't coming."

If the survey is accepted at the Feb. 15 library board meeting it could be in the mail as early as March 1. Swanson feels this must be done in order to complete the survey in this fiscal year.

The library serves Wheeling and the Cook County section of Buffalo Grove.

Police Auxiliary Dance Is Feb. 12

Bob Peter's orchestra will provide the music for the Buffalo Grove Police Auxiliary's annual dance, Feb. 12.

The dance will be held at St. Mary's Hall beginning at 8:30 p.m. Tickets will be on sale at the dance or may be purchased next week from ladies of the auxiliary who will be selling them door-to-door.

Price of the tickets will be one dollar and door prizes will be presented at the dance. All proceeds from the event go to buy equipment for the police department.

Hearing, Vision Tests Scheduled

Registration or free hearing and vision tests will be held from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Wednesday at Anne Sullivan Elementary School, 700 N. Schoenbeck Rd., for preschool children in Prospect Heights School Dist. 23.

Tom Rich, assistant district superintendent, said parents would be given appointments to have their children tested from Feb. 15-18.

The testing equipment is provided by Suburban Low Incidence Development of Exemplary Service, an organization which provides a free testing service in cooperation with local school districts.

Library Dist. To Name 2 Trustees

The Wheeling Public Library District will fill two trustee positions in an election April 11.

The board seats are currently held by Richard Roman, a recent appointee, and Charlotte Dologopol, a trustee for the last eight years. The terms of the two trustees expire May 1.

Roman and Loni Milz, a Wheeling housewife, have announced their intentions of running for the board.

"At the current time we have no other names of anyone interested in running for the offices," said Kenneth Swanson, head librarian.

"Should anyone be interested in running for the trusteeships, they can contact me at the library and I will see they get the proper forms," he added.

Interested parties must obtain a petition, which must be signed by 50 registered voters in the district. The petition must then be filed with the secretary of the board of trustees by March 1. Petition forms will be available Friday.

The Nation

March 6 and 7 were picked Numbers 1 and 2 in the national draft lottery to determine the order of call next year for an estimated 2 million men born in 1953.

The National Disease Center in Atlanta reported Hong Kong flu outbreaks in all 50 states and Puerto Rico.

President Nixon criticized Congress for inaction in the 7-month West Coast dock strike as Republican leaders began efforts to pry emergency arbitration legislation loose for House floor action.

Rep. Lee Aspin, D-Wis., contended South Vietnamese sabotaged the chance for a neutral inspection last summer of North Vietnamese camps holding U.S. prisoners of war and urged the administration to insist that Saigon cooperate with a possible second try.

The stringent security surrounding Sirhan Sirhan, the assassin of Sen. Robert Kennedy, has been relaxed for the first time in nearly three years on San Quentin's death row, prison officials disclosed.

The World

A crowd of more than 25,000 demonstrators stormed the British Embassy in Dublin, setting it on fire with gasoline bombs and flares in violent protest to the "Bloody Sunday" shootings by British troops of 13 civilians in Northern Ireland.

A Bangladesh army spokesman said as many as 100 police and soldiers have been killed or wounded in fighting at the non-Bengali enclave of Mirpur. He blamed the resistance on the heavily armed Pakistani Army holdouts.

The State

Circuit Court Judge Philip Romiti denied all motions to quash indictments against State's Atty. Edward Hanrahan and others accused of conspiracy to obstruct justice in the Black Panther deaths investigation.

Using a tape recorder, Daniel Walker, Democratic candidate for the nomination as governor, held the first of what he has labelled "simulated debates" with his opponent, Lt. Gov. Paul Simon.

Mayor Daley, the city of Chicago, and individual aldermen were added as defendants in the federal court case involving $26 million in Model Cities funds. A District Court Judge, however, refused to rule on a motion by the American Civil Liberties Union to require the Chicago Housing Authority to build public housing, regardless of any city council action.

The War

Three thousand South Vietnamese soldiers drove into Cambodia in pursuit of remnants of a 400-man Communist force battered by air strikes near the border, military spokesmen said. The U.S. command said American warplanes attacked missile bases in North Vietnam seven times.

Implied Consent Unenforceable

by HARRY WEINER

Heralded at the time of its passage early this year as a major means of reducing highway accidents, Illinois' implied consent law is now regarded as unenforceable with present equipment by area law enforcement officials.

And there apparently is some doubt that the necessary equipment will be available by July 1, when the law goes into effect.

Signed into law by Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie in early January, the law permits the state to suspend the license of any driver who refuses to take a breath test to determine blood alcohol content.

But law enforcement officials say the law will be unenforceable with present equipment because it requires use of equipment that makes a permanent record of blood alcohol content. Present breathalyzer equipment requires manual reading of test results.

THE ILLINOIS Police Chiefs Association, an organization composed of 800 municipal police chiefs, last week passed a resolution urging reconsideration of the legislation in order to eliminate the need for new equipment.

"We're 100 per cent in favor of implied consent legislation," said Jacob J. Novak, executive secretary and treasurer of the organization. "However, the bill provides that the instrument required to be used is something that hasn't been made."

Novak said there "isn't any instrument anywhere" that can comply with the law's provision that a mechanical print-out record blood alcohol content.

A spokesman for a Massachusetts firm that makes breathalyzer equipment agreed that the law requires "terribly complicated" equipment.

"I'm sure our equipment can't comply with the law, nor will anyone else's," a spokesman for Keys Scientific Equipment Co., Cambridge, Mass., said. He noted that it would be "almost impossible" to provide such equipment by July.

ILLINOIS STATE Police officials said they were studying equipment that might comply with the law, but admitted that even if the equipment is found, it would take a major expenditure to finance purchase of enough for the agency.

About 110 breathalyzers are needed for the state police, said Trooper Bob Bryant, of the state headquarters in Springfield. Bryant noted that the cost of the equipment, at least $2,500 per unit, would involve expenditure of funds that the agency does not now have available.

Bryant also noted that the equipment required is more complex than that required by other states, all of which have implied consent laws. "There are not many states that have this stringent a requirement," he said.

Bryant called the equipment required "an automatic-type machine," which is tamper-proof. He indicated he too was hopeful new legislation would be introduced.

Municipal police department officials in the Northwest suburbs indicated they were hopeful the necessary equipment would be available by July 1 and have begun studying specifications of the required equipment. Several departments have included requests for funds to buy the equipment in budget requests for the year, and others have indicated they will seek state subsidies.

Besides the mechanical requirements of the law, other aspects have been criticized by the Illinois Police Chiefs Association. Novak said that a provision allowing motorists to request a second test would cause grave problems in enforcing the law.

Motorists not satisfied with a breath test may request another test at the site of their choice, Novak said, thus greatly handicapping law officers. Motorists apparently could request another test at a site 100 or more miles away from where they were stopped, under the law, he said.

Jury Weighs Decision On Dr. Middleton

by ROGER CAPETTINI

An eight-man, four-woman jury deliberated the guilt or innocence of Dr. James G. Middleton for more than eight hours yesterday without reaching a verdict.

The case was turned over to the jury at 9:50 a.m. after Criminal Court Judge Robert J. Downing spent 20 minutes giving legal instructions to the jury.

At press time last night the panel had not yet reached a verdict.

Dr. Middleton, 45, of 969 Elmhurst Rd., Des Plaines, has been charged with deviate sexual assault and aggravated battery by a former woman patient. The former CIA agent, deputy sheriff and smoke jumper is alleged to have given the woman a drug and then forced her to submit to a deviate sexual act.

The doctor has flatly denied the charges and has claimed the whole thing is a result of an extortion plot against him.

IF FOUND GUILTY he could be sentenced to 4 to 20 years in prison on the charges of deviate sexual assault and one to 10 years on the battery charge.

Testimony in the trial lasted 10 days and included statements from the alleged victim, six other former women patients, and two of the doctor's former receptionists. All the former patients said injections given them by the doctor caused them to become weak and dizzy. They also said while they were being treated by him they experienced excessive hair growth, a deepening voice, and an increased sexual appetite.

After Dr. Middleton took the stand last week and denied the charges, an anesthesiologist testified he knows of no drug which could produce the intoxicating effects to which the women testified.

At only one point during their deliberations yesterday did the jurors convey any message to the court.

At 1:30 p.m., Judge Downing said the jurors had relayed a note which said, "Can we have witnesses transcripts?" The judge replied on the same sheet of paper, "No. Robert J. Downing."

Final Lakeside Plans To Be Eyed

Final plans for the Lakeside Villas townhouse project in Western Wheeling "will be considered by the Wheeling Plan Commission at a Feb. 10 meeting."

At a commission meeting last week it was discussed that the developer is proposing changes from the preliminary plan — including building more units with garages, increasing the number of bedrooms in the units and reducing the total number of units from 245 to 242.

Commission members said that a decision on whether the changes would substantially alter the development from the original preliminary plan would have to be made by the village attorney.

Cold Weather Workers Find It Rough

by DOUG RAY

On days when it is colder in the Northwest suburbs than Anchorage, Alaska, hearty outdoorsmen brave the environs to earn their daily bread.

Men like Melvin Wille, who has been a heavy equipment operator since 1939, and Cliff Hemstock, a surveyor, seldom let the biting cold slow them down.

Wille, an Arlington Heights public works employee at the village landfill, rolls out of bed each work day to face an eight-hour struggle against Arctic-like temperatures during winter months. He comes to work armed with a vacuum bottle filled with hot coffee and after a few cups, mounts a bulldozer at the landfill.

"It's rough on the cold days, believe me," Wille said, "but it takes getting used to."

Wille and other equipment operators at the landfill are using bulldozers without cabs this week and their only warmth comes from heat generated by the roaring earth movers.

Wille, who lives in Arlington Heights, is protected somewhat from the frigid temperatures by a thermal suit.

"But that doesn't really keep the cold out," he said. "You can only stay out there for two hours" in extreme cold, he added, "and then you're numb all over."

"When you grab a lever and your fingers won't straighten out, it's time to come in to thaw out," he said. He thaws out in a small shack at the landfill site.

MEN WHO WORK outdoors all year seem to build up an immunity to severe colds which strike via the penetrating dampness of the winter cold.

"I only have about one cold a year," Wille said, but he quickly tapped on the wood-lined doorway. "I better knock on wood though," he laughed.

While riding an open bulldozer is a test of man's susceptibility to cold, the winter-plight of the surveyor must be even more trying. Wille cuts the chilling winds atop an earth mover and Cliff Hemstock of Hoffman Estates stands in the median strip of Arlington Heights Road as cars pass by.

He takes a crouched stance behind the tripod, attempting to be as comfortable as possible despite the sub-zero wind-chilled weather.

"Accuracy is less when it's not comfortable," Hemstock said.

The use of his hands is essential and he doesn't wear gloves.

"My hands are pretty well shot at the end of the day," he said.

HE HAS HAD only one slight case of frostbite "but that was enough," he said. On the most bitter winter days Hemstock and the rest of the surveying crew take shelter at intervals in a panelled truck equipped with a heater.

But there is always something to be done by the surveying crew no matter how cold it becomes.

"If it's too bad to survey, we cut down trees. We can cut down trees in 40 below," Hemstock said.

"I usually take the cold pretty well," he said, "dressed only in a jacket and work suit."

It is a robust lot who compete with the winter for dominance several months each year. And the men enjoy their work and say they wouldn't want to do anything else.

It's like Hemstock said. "I tried working indoors but it drove me up the wall."

Zoning Hearings Set

The Wheeling Zoning Board of Appeals will hold two public hearings Tuesday evening.

At 8 p.m. the board will hold a hearing for the annual updating of the Wheeling zoning map. The map is changed to reflect zoning changes granted by the village board during the year.

planned by the Wheeling Fire Department.

A summary of the recent public relations commission survey was also included in the newsletter along with information on voter registration, and a report on the progress of the Omnibus Hotline.

Plans for sidewalk repair and replacement, an explanation of how to vote by absentee ballot in upcoming elections, and information on Wheeling Park District and Wheeling Public Library District are included.

Information on a "trauma school" attended by local firemen, a new animal warden hired by the village, work on establishing a local environmental control commission and a warning that fire lane parking bans are being enforced is also included.

Plans for installing a sidewalk on the north side of Dundee Road and the new policy on village ambulance service are explained.

'Dolly' Tryouts Open

Tryouts have begun for the musical "Hello Dolly" which will be presented by the Adlai E. Stevenson High School music department on April 21, 22 and 23.

More than 150 students are expected to participate in the show which is under the direction of William Misik, music department chairman.

New Stop Signs Draw Complaints From Motorists

by DOUG RAY

Stop signs installed Tuesday at Winston Drive and Palatine Road have triggered a barrage of complaints from drivers experiencing traffic tie-ups there.

Palatine police received 25 to 30 complaints yesterday, most of them grievances about rush hour traffic backing up at the busy intersection. Police referred the complaints to the Illinois Division of Highways which installed the signs to slow speeding traffic at the potentially dangerous intersection.

Carl Kowalski, the highway department's area operating engineer, said the signs are necessary until "something better can be done" this spring. Kowalski said the highway department will provide additional lanes of pavement "when the weather clears." He added that nothing could be done at this time other than installing stop signs.

The stop signs were installed, Kowalski said, "after extensive discussions" with Palatine officials who sanctioned the project. He said temporary traffic signals would not solve the problems.

A Palatine police spokesman said officers will attempt to keep traffic flowing during rush hours as policemen will be directing traffic. He said traffic was backed up about a half mile at the intersection yesterday.

A resident of the Winston Park subdivision who lives just north of the intersection said she thought the stop signs offer "little improvement" for motorists.

"It seems more confusing than before," she said.

VILLAGE MGR. Burton Braun acknowledged he began receiving complaints almost as soon as the stop signs were erected, but he said traffic volumes have increased to a level that an interim solution was needed. Braun said the stop signs are necessary until the entire intersection can be rebuilt.

The state plans major improvements at the intersection, but approval of the project has been stalled until at least 1973. The improvements call for widening of Palatine Road to four lanes from about Rohlwing Road to Rte. 53. Palatine Road presently narrows from four lanes to two when it meets Winston Drive.

Braun said the Palatine Road - Winston Drive intersection, when improved, will resemble the Kennicott intersection located less than two miles east in Arlington Heights. The plans require relocation of families who now live in homes which will be condemned by the state. The state will pay for the major improvements with Palatine providing the traffic signal at a cost of $75,000.

The final plans for widening the road were agreed upon after numerous sessions between state highway officials and Winston Park subdivision residents. Original plans included widening Palatine Road from Rohlwing to Hicks but the plans were dropped because of objections from Winston Park residents.

ALMOST AS SOON as stop signs were installed at the intersection of Winston Drive and Palatine Road in Palatine Tuesday, motorists began registering complaints with the state highway department and the village. A woman who called during rush hour to cross the intersection.

New Students Teacher Plan Begins

by JOANN VAN WYE

Twenty students from Northern Illinois University are enrolled in a new student teaching program introduced in Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 15 this week.

The new program is designed to offer the students a variety of experiences they would not receive in the traditional student teaching experience.

Instead of the traditional nine-week student teaching experience under one teacher, the students will be in the district for 18 weeks and be exposed to several teachers, supervisors and administrators, said Marion Omiatek, assistant superintendent of instruction.

During the first nine weeks the students will be assigned to a building instead of a teacher. The students have been divided into groups of five and assigned to Central Road School in Rolling Meadows and Lincoln, Stuart Paddock and Hunting Ridge schools in Palatine.

The students will spend half the day in a classroom setting and the other half in seminars conducted by instructors from Northern and district personnel.

ALL OF THE student teachers will teach all subjects at all grade levels during the first nine weeks to give them greater exposure to the total educational process, said Omiatek.

The seminars also will explain the various resources in the district, retirement funds, salary negotiations and other subjects usually not included in courses offered on the campus.

At the end of the first nine weeks the students will be assigned to a particular teacher and class to work with for the remaining nine weeks. The student teachers will be able to select the grade level at which they would like to teach and also request a particular teacher to whom they would like to be assigned.

Arthur Ferguson, Northern's supervisor of student teaching, explained the students would receive 17 credit hours for the work they do in the district. Nine of the credit hours will be for student teaching and eight will be for the first nine weeks, which will replace three educational theory courses on problems, philosophy and tests and measurements traditionally taught on the campus.

By teaching the theory courses in seminars within the district, the students will be able to put into practice what they are

Plan Study Of Noise Pollution Here

The Palatine Environmental Board last night unanimously decided to begin a study of noise pollution in the village.

The board's action was prompted mainly by a petition submitted by a Harper College student last week to the village board.

The 85 persons who signed the document, about half from Palatine, called for "immediate action" to reduce the amount of noise in the village.

Following an informal poll of ECB members, chairman Tom Sammons instructed Environmental Health Director Richard Dawson to borrow necessary decibel reading equipment from a Park Ridge firm "to see what we are dealing with."

Trucks are expected to be the immediate focus of the noise reading at this time, but the board indicated another study would be made next summer to measure such noises as outdoor concerts and construction work.

SAMMONS SUGGESTED that, "if we can't borrow the equipment for measuring the noise, we should ask the village board if we can rent it or do something so we know where we stand."

Another board member, Martha Loss, said, "We don't have a tremendous noise problem in the village, but it is not going to get any better."

Another member suggested that the board set priorities among ecological and personal discomfort caused by noise.

Dawson responded: "What's the difference?"

Board member Tom Ahern, a village trustee, commented that, "The railroad has been here for 100 years and the Wood Street Apartments have been here for two years."

"All of a sudden, the people there say they are bothered by the trains. Well, if noise bothers them they should never have moved into the Wood Street Apartments."

He suggested that the village pass "good laws" and enforce them rather than "filling our ordinance book with a lot of ordinances that we really have no intention of enforcing."

U.S. Food Stamps On Sale In Area

by KURT BAER

An Arlington Heights currency exchange has begun selling federal food stamps through a program established in 1965 by the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Last week, the Arlington Heights Currency Exchange, 6 W. Campbell St., Arlington Heights, began selling the food stamps to eligible persons.

It is one of three currency exchanges in the area which now sell food stamps. Others are the Dundee Currency Exchange in Wheeling and the Des Plaines Currency Exchange in Des Plaines.

"We've only had a dozen people come in so far. But I don't think many people know we're selling the stamps," said Mrs. Ira Staller who, with her husband, owns and operates the currency exchange.

"IN THE PAST, people have asked for food stamps and I've had to turn them away," she said.

The stamps are issued through the U. S. Department of Agriculture and are used by eligible welfare recipients to buy food at selected supermarkets.

Under the program, which was started in 1965, a recipient pays for part of the stamps he receives himself and is awarded a fixed value of additional stamps as a bonus.

For example, a man may be authorized by the welfare department to buy $70 worth of food stamps per month for his family. He presents an authorization card to the teller at the currency exchange which specifies that he must pay $70 and then receive an additional $30 worth of bonus stamps.

The amount of the bonus will vary depending on the family's size, income and food budget.

Mrs. Staller said that in the one week the Arlington Heights exchange has been selling food stamps both elderly persons and men who are out of work have been in to buy stamps.

"IT'S A CONVENIENCE more than anything else. People now don't have to travel to Chicago to buy stamps," she said.

There are 350 currency exchanges in Cook County now selling food stamps, according to E. J. McBride, director of the food stamp program for the Cook County Department of Public Aid.

He said all of the exchanges in the county purchase their stamps from the government through the Lincoln National Bank in Chicago.

This rule is peculiar to the Chicago area, he said, and was put into effect to protect the government's interest in the event a currency exchange is robbed.

"If an exchange is held up, the government won't be stuck with the loss. It is up to the currency exchange to collect from its insurance agent," McBride said.

THE RULE MAKES it difficult, according to McBride, to get more currency exchanges to participate in the food stamp program.

"We don't make any money off the transaction. We do it as a service, just as every year we hand out hundreds of income tax forms," Mrs. Staller said.

Although he said he did not have any statistics for just the Northwest suburbs, McBride said that in Cook County as a whole $10.3 million worth of food stamps were given out last October, the latest month for which figures are available.

Of this total, welfare recipients paid $5.8 million and were given an additional $4.5 million worth of bonus stamps, he said.

Essentially, there are two kinds of welfare assistance used to determine eligibility for the food stamps.

PERSONS RECEIVING state public aid checks such as aid to dependent children and old age assistance can participate in the program voluntarily, according to McBride.

General assistance recipients, whose checks come from the county, are automatically assigned to the program, he said.

Persons or families on Social Security may also be eligible to buy food stamps if their income and other liquid assets fall within certain guidelines, McBride said.

Jury Weighs Decision On Dr. Middleton

by ROGER CAPELLINI

An eight-man, four-woman jury deliberated the guilt or innocence of Dr. James G. Middleton for more than eight hours yesterday without reaching a verdict.

The case was turned over to the jury at 9:50 a.m. after Criminal Court Judge Robert J. Downing spent 20 minutes giving legal instructions to the jury.

At press time last night the panel had not yet reached a verdict.

Dr. Middleton, 45, of 960 Elmhurst Rd., Des Plaines, has been charged with deviate sexual assault and aggravated battery by a former woman patient. The former CIA agent, deputy sheriff and smoke jumper is alleged to have given the woman a drug and then forced her to submit to a deviate sexual act.

The doctor has flatly denied the charges and has claimed the whole thing is a result of an extortion plot against him.

IF FOUND GUILTY he could be sentenced to 4 to 20 years in prison on the charges of deviate sexual assault and one to 10 years on the battery charge.

Testimony in the trial lasted 10 days and included statements from the alleged victim, six other former women patients, and two of the doctor's former receptionists. All the former patients said injections given them by the doctor caused them to become weak and dizzy. They also said while they were being treated by him they experienced excessive hair growth, a deepening voice, and an increased sexual appetite.

After Dr. Middleton took the stand last week and denied the charges, an anesthesiologist testified he knows of no drug which could produce the intoxicating effects to which the women testified.

At only one point during their deliberations yesterday did the jurors convey any message to the court.

At 1:30 p.m., Judge Downing said the jurors had relayed a note which said, "Can we have witnesses transcripts?" The judge replied on the same sheet of paper, "No. Robert J. Downing."

Mini Courses Added At St. Colette

Mini courses have been added to the curriculum at St. Colette School in Rolling Meadows this semester.

Faculty members and parents are offering students in grades three through eight, the choice of several courses. The mini courses include creative art and drama, cooking and sewing, building model airplanes, typing, individual science projects, basic bridge, foreign languages and a study of the stock market.

The courses will be held on Friday afternoons for the next two months.

Sister Donna, principal, said at the end of the two weeks the programs would be evaluated with a view to extending and enlarging the mini courses.

The purpose of the program is to offer students more choices and the opportunity to study in areas which are not ordinarily available to them in the usual curriculum.

District Begins New Student Teacher Program

by JOANN VAN WYE

Twenty students from Northern Illinois University are enrolled in a new student teaching program introduced in Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 15 this week.

The new program is designed to offer the students a variety of experiences they would not receive in the traditional student teaching experience.

Instead of the traditional nine-week student teaching experience under one teacher, the students will be in the district for 18 weeks and be exposed to several teachers, supervisors and administrators, said Marion Omiatek, assistant superintendent of instruction.

During the first nine weeks the students will be assigned to a building instead of a teacher. The students have been divided into groups of five and assigned to Central Road School in Rolling Meadows and Lincoln, Stuart Paddock and Hunting Ridge schools in Palatine.

The students will spend half the day in a classroom setting and the other half in seminars conducted by instructors from Northern and district personnel.

ALL OF THE student teachers will teach all subjects at all grade levels during the first nine weeks to give them greater exposure to the total educational process, said Omiatek.

The seminars also will explain the various resources in the district, retirement funds, salary negotiations and other subjects usually not included in courses offered on the campus.

At the end of the first nine weeks the students will be assigned to a particular teacher and class to work with for the remaining nine weeks. The student teachers will be able to select the grade level at which they would like to teach and also request a particular teacher to whom they would like to be assigned.

Arthur Ferguson, Northern's supervisor of student teaching, explained the students would receive 17 credit hours for the work they do in the district. Nine of the credit hours will be for student teaching and eight will be for the first nine weeks, which will replace three educational theory courses on problems, philosophy and tests and measurements traditionally taught on the campus.

By teaching the theory courses in seminars within the district, the students will be able to put into practice what they are

Garbage, Trash Have It Recycled

Garbage.

Or, if you prefer, trash.

Whatever you call it, the object of this Saturday's fifth ecology day in Rolling Meadows is to collect as much recyclable waste material as possible.

The ecology days have become a regular monthly city project. The fifth, on Feb. 5, will be run the same as those in the past, except the hours will be extended.

From 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. residents can bring recyclable bottles, cans and paper to the collection point at the city garage, 3200 Central Rd.

Cans should be separated by metal composition and rinsed. Newspapers should be bundled. Glass bottles should be separated by color and rinsed.

Youth groups that help collect and sort the trash share proceeds earned from the sale of the material to recycling plants.

GEORGY WHITE, who refers to herself as a "river rat," told students at Willow Bend School in Rolling Meadows about her experiences on the Colorado River this week. She showed the students a film and then answered their questions. Miss White conducts between six and eight raft trips down the river each season.

ANOTHER PRODUCT OF AUTOMATION ... Rolling Meadows patrolman Marvin Hamman displays a radar speed gun which is used to detect speeding motorists. Rolling Meadows, Arlington Heights and several other Northwest suburban police departments employ the portable device in their traffic control programs. See story on page 3.

Staph Cases Bring Back Disinfectant

An outbreak of staph infection at Northwest Community Hospital in Arlington Heights has resulted in a return to the use of hexachlorophene to bathe newborn infants.

The outbreak of infection several weeks ago involved two babies, one of whom died. The incident occurred not long after the hospital stopped using hexachlorophene, a disinfectant the U.S. Food and Drug Administration has warned may cause brain damage if used to bathe infants.

"We went off hexachlorophene about a month before the warning was issued," Jack Ryon, public relations director at Northwest, said. "We are back on it now because we had an infection problem. We discovered one case and took care of the baby, but a baby who was next to it went undetected and when the parents brought him back a week later, it was too late."

AFTER THE TWO cases, Ryon said, the second floor at the hospital, which contains the maternity ward and nursery, was sterilized room by room, and the hospital returned to the use of hexachlorophene.

Ryon added the dangers of hexachlorophene cited by the FDA "are only probabilities" based on experiments with animals, and no actual cases of brain damage in infants have been shown.

He said the hospital has a committee of doctors that constantly oversees the hospital operations to minimize the spread of infections.

TWO OTHER AREA hospitals, Alexian Brothers Medical Center in Elk Grove Village and Lutheran General Hospital in Park Ridge, report that they have eliminated or cut back on the use of hexachlorophene and have not so far had an outbreak of infection.

A spokesman at Holy Family Hospital in Des Plaines said they do not use hexachlorophene to bathe infants and have had no outbreak of infection.

At Lutheran General, according to a spokesman, infants are given one bath with the disinfectant before they leave the delivery room. But it is not used after that.

Outbreaks of staph infections in many hospitals across the nation that have discontinued the use of hexachlorophene have been reported in recent days by the National Center for Disease Control. A meeting is planned for this week between FDA officials and representatives of the National Center and the American Academy of Pediatrics to reconsider the FDA warning on the use of the disinfectant.

A professor of pediatrics at the University of California at San Diego said earlier this week the staph outbreaks could be directly tied to the ban on the use of hexachlorophene. He said there is no alternative to the disinfectant in eliminating the infections.

He's 'Tired' Of Court Action

It's been quite a week for John Thompson, a 24-year-old Iowan who ran afoul of the law in Rolling Meadows.

By the time the weekend arrives, Thompson will have stolen two auto tires from an apartment building here, been arrested, been arraigned in County Court, pleaded guilty, been sentenced and served his three-day sentence in the House of Correction.

Thompson was arrested Monday and charged with burglarizing a storage bin in the Algonquin Park apartments, 4965 Wilke Rd.

He was arrested in the process of stealing two tires valued at $100 each.

On Tuesday, Thompson went to court in Arlington Heights and pleaded guilty to a misdemeanor charge of theft. He had been arrested on felony charges of burglary.

The court sentenced him to three days in the House of Correction, which he began serving Tuesday.

Thrift Shop Slated

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

March 6 and 7 were picked Numbers 1 and 2 in the national draft lottery to determine the order of call next year for an estimated 2 million men born in 1953.

The National Disease Center in Atlanta reported Hong Kong flu outbreaks in all 50 states and Puerto Rico.

President Nixon criticized Congress for inaction in the 7-month West Coast dock strike as Republican leaders began efforts to pry emergency arbitration legislation loose for House floor action.

Rep. Lee Aspin, D-Wis., contended South Vietnamese sabotaged the chance for a neutral inspection last summer of North Vietnamese camps holding U.S. prisoners of war and urged the administration to insist that Saigon cooperate with a possible second try.

The stringent security surrounding Sirhan Sirhan, the assassin of Sen. Robert Kennedy, has been relaxed for the first time in nearly three years on San Quentin's death row, prison officials disclosed.

The World

A crowd of more than 25,000 demonstrators stormed the British Embassy in Dublin, setting it on fire with gasoline bombs and flares in violent protest to the "Bloody Sunday" shootings by British troops of 13 civilians in Northern Ireland.

A Bangladesh army spokesman said as many as 100 police and soldiers have been killed or wounded in fighting at the non-Bengali enclave of Mirpur. He blamed the resistance on the heavily armed Pakistani Army holdouts.

The State

Circuit Court Judge Philip Romiti denied all motions to quash indictments against State's Atty. Edward Hanrahan and others accused of conspiracy to obstruct justice in the Black Panther deaths investigation.

Using a tape recorder, Daniel Walker, Democratic candidate for the nomination as governor, held the first of what he has labelled "simulated debates" with his opponent, Lt. Gov. Paul Simon.

Mayor Daley, the city of Chicago, and individual aldermen were added as defendants in the federal court case involving $25 million in Model Cities funds. A District Court Judge, however, refused to rule on a motion by the American Civil Liberties Union to require the Chicago Housing Authority to build public housing, regardless of any city council action.

The War

Three thousand South Vietnamese soldiers drove into Cambodia in pursuit of remnants of a 400-man Communist force battered by air strikes near the border, military spokesmen said. The U.S. command said American warplanes attacked missile bases in North Vietnam seven times.

Implied Consent Law Unenforceable

by HARRY WEINER

Heralded at the time of its passage early this year as a major means of reducing highway accidents, Illinois' implied consent law is now regarded as unenforceable with present equipment by area law enforcement officials.

And there apparently is some doubt that the necessary equipment will be available by July 1, when the law goes into effect.

Signed into law by Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie in early January, the law permits the state to suspend the license of any driver who refuses to take a breath test to determine blood alcohol content.

But law enforcement officials say the law will be unenforceable with present equipment because it requires use of equipment that makes a permanent record of blood alcohol content. Present breathalyzer equipment requires manual reading of test results.

THE ILLINOIS Police Chiefs Association, an organization composed of 800 municipal police chiefs, last week passed a resolution urging reconsideration of the legislation in order to eliminate the need for new equipment.

"We're 100 per cent in favor of implied consent legislation," said Jacob J. Novak, executive secretary and treasurer of the organization. "However, the bill provides that the instrument required to be used is something that hasn't been made."

Novak said there "isn't any instrument anywhere" that can comply with the law's provision that a mechanical print-out record blood alcohol content.

A spokesman for a Massachusetts firm that makes breathalyzer equipment agreed that the law requires "terribly complicated" equipment.

"I'm sure our equipment can't comply with the law, nor will anyone else's," a spokesman for Keys Scientific Equipment Co., Cambridge, Mass., said. He noted that it would be "almost impossible" to provide such equipment by July.

ILLINOIS STATE Police officials said they were studying equipment that might comply with the law, but admitted that even if the equipment is found, it would take a major expenditure to finance purchase of enough for the agency.

About 110 breathalyzers are needed for the state police, said Trooper Bob Bryant, of the state headquarters in Springfield. Bryant noted that the cost of the equipment, at least $2,500 per unit, would involve expenditure of funds that the agency does not now have available.

Bryant also noted that the equipment required is more complex than that required by other states, all of which have implied consent laws. "There are not many states that have this stringent a requirement," he said.

Bryant called the equipment required "an automatic-type machine," which is tamper-proof. He indicated he too was hopeful new legislation would be introduced.

Municipal police department officials in the Northwest suburbs indicated they were hopeful the necessary equipment would be available by July 1 and have begun studying specifications of the required equipment. Several departments have included requests for funds to buy the equipment in budget requests for the year, and others have indicated they will seek state subsidies.

Besides the mechanical requirements of the law, other aspects have been criticized by the Illinois Police Chiefs Association. Novak said that a provision allowing motorists to request a second test would cause grave problems in enforcing the law.

Motorists not satisfied with a breath test may request another test at the site of their choice, Novak said, thus greatly handicapping law officers. Motorists apparently could request another test at a site 100 or more miles away from where they were stopped, under the law, he said.

U.S. Food Stamps On Sale In Area

by KURT BAER

An Arlington Heights currency exchange has begun selling federal food stamps through a program established in 1965 by the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Last week, the Arlington Heights Currency Exchange, 6 W. Campbell St., Arlington Heights, began selling the food stamps to eligible persons.

It is one of three currency exchanges in the area which now sell food stamps. Others are the Dundee Currency Exchange in Wheeling and the Des Plaines Currency Exchange in Des Plaines.

"We've only had a dozen people come in so far. But I don't think many people know we're selling the stamps," said Mrs. Ira Staller who, with her husband, owns and operates the currency exchange.

"IN THE PAST, people have asked for food stamps and I've had to turn them away," she said.

The stamps are issued through the U. S. Department of Agriculture and are used by eligible welfare recipients to buy food at selected supermarkets.

Under the program, which was started in 1965, a recipient pays for part of the stamps he receives himself and is awarded a fixed value of additional stamps as a bonus.

For example, a man may be authorized by the welfare department to buy $70 worth of food stamps per month for his family. He presents an authorization card to the teller at the currency exchange which specifies that he must pay $70 and then receive an additional $30 worth of bonus stamps.

"If an exchange is held up, the government won't be stuck with the loss. It is up to the currency exchange to collect from its insurance agent," McBride said.

THE RULE MAKES it difficult, according to McBride, to get more currency exchanges to participate in the food stamp program.

"We don't make any money off the transaction. We do it as a service, just as every year we hand out hundreds of income tax forms," Mrs. Staller said.

New Student Teacher Plan Is Started

learning immediately and it will be much more meaningful, said Ferguson. He said previously students had often taken the theory courses several months before student teaching.

OTHER ADVANTAGES of the new program, according to Ferguson, are a greater utilization of both university and district personnel in teaching the seminars, upgrading the local school faculties through exposure to university instructors and student teachers, giving student teachers a greater variety of experiences and offering more teachers the opportunity of working with student teachers.

Ferguson said the student teachers would also have an advantage in job-hunting because they would have taught all subjects at all grade levels and would be able to step into any classroom.

"We're offering experiences some teachers with 20 years of teaching behind them have not had," said Ferguson.

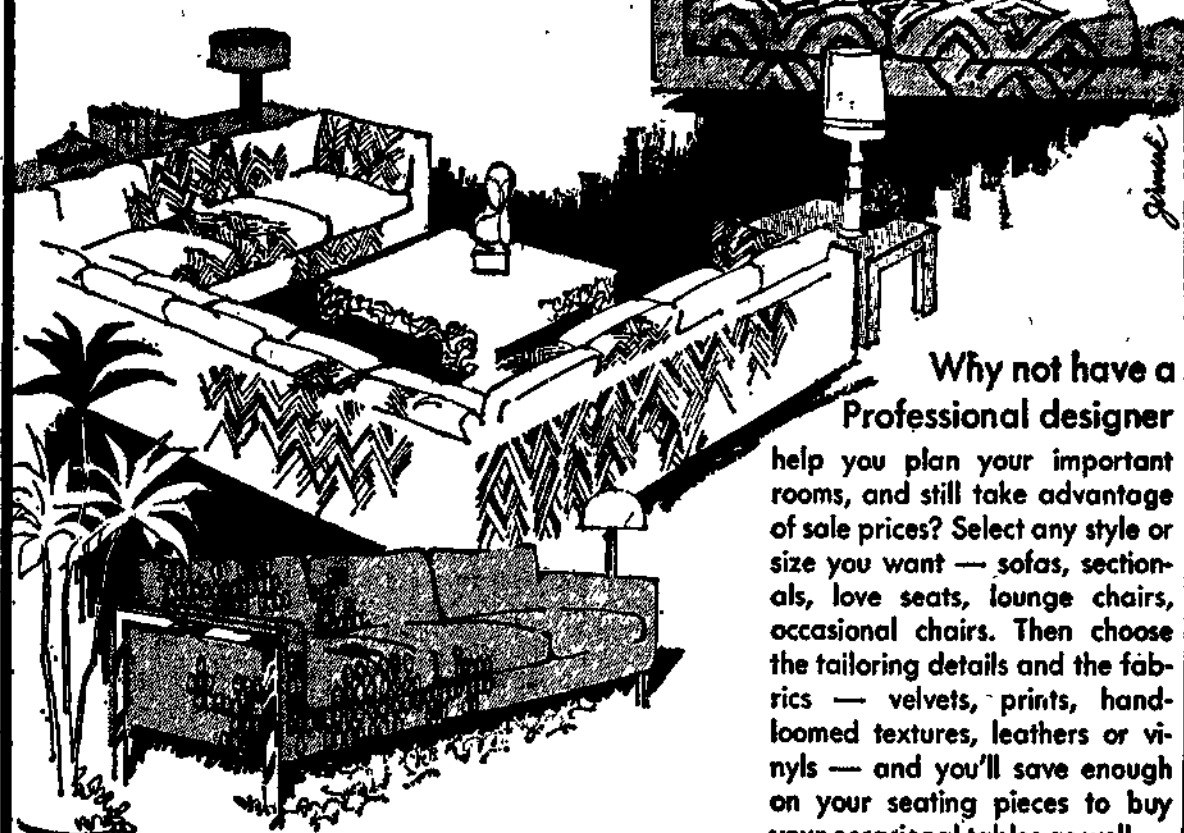

The students play a major role in structuring the course. Originally the program was planned so the students would meet in seminar eight times every two weeks and have the other two periods off as released time. The idea was to substitute contact time for reading time, said Ferguson.

However, this may be changed because the students are now in the process of deciding how often they want to meet, whether they want to meet in small or large groups or both and what areas they would like to see stressed in the seminars. There also is discussion of using the released time to visit other school districts using special programs.

DURING THE second nine weeks the seminars will be held only once every two weeks, according to Ferguson. These seminars will be used to discuss particular problems the students are having in their classes.

A similar student teaching program was started by Northern in Arlington Heights Dist. 25 last year. Ferguson said the evaluations of the program have been very good.

Officials Say Implied Consent Is Unenforceable

by HARRY WEINER

Heralded at the time of its passage early this year as a major means of reducing highway accidents, Illinois' implied consent law is now regarded as unenforceable with present equipment by area law enforcement officials.

And there apparently is some doubt that the necessary equipment will be available by July 1, when the law goes into effect.

Signed into law by Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie in early January, the law permits the state to suspend the license of any driver who refuses to take a breath test to determine blood alcohol content.

But law enforcement officials say the law will be unenforceable with present equipment because it requires use of equipment that makes a permanent record of blood alcohol content. Present breathalyzer equipment requires manual reading of test results.

THE ILLINOIS Police Chiefs Association, an organization composed of 800 municipal police chiefs, last week passed a resolution urging reconsideration of the legislation in order to eliminate the need for new equipment.

"We're 100 per cent in favor of implied consent legislation," said Jacob J. Novak, executive secretary and treasurer of the organization. "However, the bill provides that the instrument required to be used is something that hasn't been made."

Novak said there "isn't any instrument anywhere" that can comply with the law's provision that a mechanical print-out record blood alcohol content.

A spokesman for a Massachusetts firm that makes breathalyzer equipment agreed that the law requires "terribly complicated" equipment.

"I'm sure our equipment can't comply with the law, nor will anyone else's," a spokesman for Keys Scientific Equipment Co., Cambridge, Mass., said. He noted that it would be "almost impossible" to provide such equipment by July.

ILLINOIS STATE Police officials said they were studying equipment that might comply with the law, but admitted that even if the equipment is found, it would take a major expenditure to finance purchase of enough for the agency.

About 110 breathalyzers are needed for the state police, said Trooper Bob Bryant, of the state headquarters in Springfield. Bryant noted that the cost of the equipment, at least $2,500 per unit, would involve expenditure of funds that the agency does not now have available.

Bryant also noted that the equipment required is more complex than that required by other states, all of which have implied consent laws. "There are not

Relief For Senior Citizens

by KAREN RUGEN

Last of a series

"We're trying to find relief for the senior citizen," said Mount Prospect Mayor Robert Teichert. "We shouldn't have to drive anyone out of the community."

"But we have to talk in terms of well-being to the total community. We're faced with a dilemma and wrestling with it now. We're not sure what we can do in fairness to others."

Teichert, during his 1968 mayoral campaign, pledged to help the senior citizen living in a village primarily concerned with new streets, schools and playgrounds. At that time, few realized that more than 3,000 elderly lived in Mount Prospect.

Today things are different. Now senior citizens have two recreation centers, sponsored by the Mount Prospect Park District and Community Presbyterian Church. High School Dist. 214 offers free passes to school cultural and athletic events and free tuition for adult education classes for those 65 and over. The Scandia House, a local smorgasbord restaurant, offers them cut rates for dinner one night a week. And village vehicle stickers are half-price for residents 65 and over.

But more could be done.

ACCORDING TO delegates to the 1971 White House Conference on Aging, senior citizens need assistance in areas including housing, recreation and transportation. That assistance should come partially from federal and local governments, they say.

Housing is a pressing problem for all senior citizens, poor or not, according to Joseph Grittani, local resident and delegate to the White House conference. It's hard for older people to maintain their homes, and those who have to move in with children are often unhappy, according to Grittani, president of the board of directors of the Extensioneers, a local senior citizens' group.

The Cook County Housing Authority (CCHA), supported entirely by federal funds, has an answer to the housing problem. CCHA builds low-rent housing for senior citizens in the county. Niles, Skokie and Park Ridge are among suburbs that already have it. Des Plaines, Arlington Heights and Morton Grove are among those who hope to get it.

"Sometimes there is initial concern about the program, but once it's fully explained it is enthusiastically received," said Victor Walchirk, CCHA executive director. "Our buildings are equal or superior to those built by a private developer."

THE BUILDING, usually containing about 127 units, varies from eight to 10 stories of all masonry construction. Each of the unfurnished 500-square-foot apartments contain a separate bedroom, a kitchen, living room and dining alcove.

Made to accommodate specific needs of the elderly, bathrooms have "grab

Move To Stop William Street Bridge Fails

The most recent in a series of attempts to stop construction of the proposed William Street bridge failed Tuesday night.

The Mount Prospect Village Board refused to take action on a petition by 52 William Street residents that the bridge not be built. The $130,000 bridge is now in the design stage and will be built this year.

Mayor Robert D. Teichert told the petitioners that the village's plans "call for as many bridges as possible." He said the ideal situation would be a bridge over Weller Creek at every street.

Robert Klovstad of 810 S. William St., spokesman for an angry group of about 20 residents who were at the board meeting, stressed increased through traffic and safety hazards to the children as reasons why the bridge should not be built.

KLOVSTAD ARGUED that with a bridge William Street would become the only straight, direct route between Prospect Avenue and Golf Road. He said he feared traffic from Mount Prospect and Elmhurst roads would use William Street as an alternative.

"It's not the local residents that are going to use it (the bridge)," he said.

Teichert disagreed. He said that previous engineering studies have shown that very little through traffic will be diverted. But, William Street residents going to Lions Park, Teichert said, would opened for occupants in 1968, has been so well received that residents indicate they would like to have more housing for the elderly built.

Collect Papers For Recycling In Area

Old newspapers will be collected for recycling once a month by the PTAs of Betsy Ross-Anne Sullivan Elementary Schools and MacArthur Junior High School.

Jo Ellen Clawes, Ross-Sullivan PTA publicity chairman, said the money realized from sale of the papers will be used to purchase equipment, library books and supplies.

Papers will be collected by a truck parked between the Ross-Sullivan school complex on Schoenbeck Road from Feb. 23 through March 1, March 29 through April 5 and May 31 through June 7.

Armed Robber Gets $45 From Holiday Laundry

An armed robber stole $45 yesterday from Holiday Laundry and Dry Cleaners, 412 W. Northwest Hwy., Mount Prospect. The robbery was the second for the cleaners in a little more than two years. Mount Prospect Police said they were investigating the robbery but had no suspect at the time.

Harriete Ficht, store manager, said she was alone in the back room of the building when the man came in. She said she walked to the counter to find a man about 35 to 40 years old holding a revolver and demanding the money in the cash register.

She said the man, dressed in a cocoa-colored trench coat, took the money and left, but she didn't see how he got away.

Mrs. Wicht said she told police the robber was 5 feet 10 with dark brown hair.

"I had a premonition when I first saw the man that the store was going to be robbed," Mrs. Ficht said. "I just did what the man asked because I didn't know what would happen otherwise."

During an armed robbery Oct. 26, 1970, $185 was stolen from the same cleaners.

Mrs. Ficht said she also was at the store at the time of the first robbery and the holdup this week was not as frightening as the first time. "Maybe I'm just getting used to it," she added.

Hearing, Vision Tests Scheduled

Registration or free hearing and vision tests will be held from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Wednesday at Anne Sullivan Elementary School, 700 N. Schoenbeck Rd., for preschool children in Prospect Heights School Dist. 23.

Tom Rich, assistant district superintendent, said parents would be given appointments to have their children tested from Feb. 15-18.

400 Skaters Enjoy Good Ice Conditions

More than 400 Prospect Heights residents took advantage of the good skating conditions at the skating and ice hockey rinks by Lions Park pool on Camp McDonald Road last weekend, said Ron Greenberg, Prospect Heights Park District director.

"The hockey rink is in just about perfect shape, and the hockey clinic has already had six sessions on techniques," he said.

Greenberg said he is looking for more employees for maintenance and supervision of the rinks. He said workers must be at least 16 years old.

Hospital Staph Outbreak Brings Back Hexachlorophene

An outbreak of staph infection at Northwest Community Hospital in Arlington Heights has resulted in a return to the use of hexachlorophene to bathe newborn infants.

The outbreak of infection several weeks ago involved two babies, one of whom died. The incident occurred not long after the hospital stopped using hexachlorophene, a disinfectant the U.S. Food and Drug Administration has warned may cause brain damage if used to bathe infants.

"We went off hexachlorophene about a month before the warning was issued," Jack Ryon, public relations director at Northwest, said. "We are back on it now because we had an infection problem. We discovered one case and took care of the baby, but a baby who was next to it went undetected and when the parents brought him back a week later, it was too late."

AFTER THE TWO cases, Ryon said, the second floor at the hospital, which contains the maternity ward and nursery, was sterilized room by room, and the hospital returned to the use of hexachlorophene.

Ryon added the dangers of hexachlorophene cited by the FDA "are only probabilities" based on experiments with animals, and no actual cases of brain damage in infants have been shown.

"You can see the dangers of not using hexachlorophene," he said. "The infection problem is under control now and anything that can be done to alleviate the problem of hexachlorophene is being done."

He said the hospital has a committee of doctors that constantly oversees the hospital operations to minimize the spread of infections.

TWO OTHER AREA hospitals, Alexian Brothers Medical Center in Elk Grove Village and Lutheran General Hospital in Park Ridge, report that they have eliminated or cut back on the use of hexachlorophene and have not so far had an outbreak of infection.

A spokesman at Holy Family Hospital in Des Plaines said they do not use hexachlorophene to bathe infants and have had no outbreak of infection.

At Lutheran General, according to a spokesman, infants are given one bath with the disinfectant before they leave the delivery room. But it is not used after that.

Outbreaks of staph infections in many hospitals across the nation that have discontinued the use of hexachlorophene have been reported in recent days by the National Center for Disease Control. A meeting is planned for this week between FDA officials and representatives of the National Center and the American Academy of Pediatrics to reconsider the FDA warning on the use of the disinfectant.

A professor of pediatrics at the University of California at San Diego said earlier this week the staph outbreaks could be directly tied to the ban on the use of hexachlorophene. He said there is no alternative to the disinfectant in eliminating the infections.

bars" to hold onto while bathing. Elevators and wheelchair ramps are also part of the buildings that include a first-floor community room, arts and crafts and sitting rooms plus a library and lounge with TV set. Parking is also available.

Rents, determined by annual income, are no more than 25 per cent of that income. Average rent is about $41 a month, with some as high as $65. A resident must be at least 62 years old and have a maximum annual income of $4,500 for a single person and $5,000 for a couple. Assets must total no more than $15,000.

To get such housing, a community must sign an agreement with the CCHA. A survey is then made to determine actual need and an application is sent to the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD). HUD, if it approves the application, will provide all funds for the building. A site is selected by village and CCHA officials for its "closeness to shopping, transportation, and medical facilities," according to Walchirk.

ONCE INITIAL planning begins, it takes 2½ to 3 years before occupancy. It is illegal to discriminate, but a community can set up a priority system for selection of renters. In Niles, local elderly are given priority, followed by parents of local residents. Usually the buildings are filled up with those two groups, according to Walchirk.

Currently, Mount Prospect is studying the need for low-income housing, including needs of the elderly. Walchirk came here 1½ years ago to talk about housing to village officials.

"But at that time there was no impetus for having a study," Teichert said. "Now there is, since we know senior citizens are individuals who have said they want it and need it."

ALSO UNDER STUDY by officials is a bus system for the village. According to a recent chamber of commerce survey, such a system should include aid to senior citizens, with 85 per cent of respondents favoring half-fare rates for the elderly. The fire and police committee will study the need further to find out just what kind of transportation system would be effective.

Senior citizens already know what kind they would like.

"We want a bus down Main Street," said Elizabeth Meyer, 68, director of the Extensioners. "One like the CTA (Chicago Transit Authority) where it would stop every two or three blocks. And they should do it like they do in Chicago, where you flash your Social Security card and get fare at half-rate."

Anton Dvylis, 78, senior citizen member of the Mount Prospect Community Services and Mental Health Commission, feels the village could sponsor a mini-bus and charge seniors what it costs to operate it. He said the mini-buses should run near the apartment areas and to Randhurst "so seniors could go shopping and visit friends."

But Dvylis has even a greater dream. "I'd like to see one good senior citizen center in Mount Prospect that everybody could go to. It would have rooms for hobbies including woodshops, painting, singing and dancing."

Such a center exists in Milwaukee, Wis. The center was built several years ago and is a facility of the Milwaukee County Park Department.

ALTHOUGH SENIOR citizens now have two small centers, they still hope the village will someday provide funds for that one large building. Several years ago members of the Extensioners approached the village board with the suggestion.

"We need one building — a place where seniors can get away from their homes and their children," said Mrs. Meyer.

But so far, no steps have been taken. As recognition of their needs, the board appropriated $1,000 to senior citizens but the money was never actually given out.

Village Mgr. Robert Eppley is currently preparing a new budget, but said he has no definite plans to include money for a senior citizens' building or programs. "If there is money for them in the budget, it would be along token lines," he said.

Dvylis still has hopes for his group.

"The town has built a center for the youth and kids have destroyed it," he said. "We are a peaceful group. Someday the village will get to senior citizens."

Archbishop To Attend Church Anniversary

His Eminence Archbishop John of Chicago will attend the upcoming Holy Resurrection Orthodox Church anniversary banquet, set for 2 p.m. Sunday at the Community Presbyterian Church, 407 N. Main St. in Mount Prospect.

Archbishop John is the head of the Chicago Archdiocese of the Orthodox Church of America.

Also on Sunday Archbishop John will serve pontifical mass at 10 a.m. in Prospect High School, 801 W. Kensington Rd., Mount Prospect. The congregation has no building of its own and holds most of its services at Prospect High.

Reservations for the banquet, at $5 per adult and $2.50 for children under 15, can be made by calling either Karen Chuma at 894-0469 or Sandra Dorf at 394-4918.

The congregation was formed two years ago by four area couples. In September 1970 Father Lukashonak was assigned to the parish. Currently Holy Resurrection is the only Orthodox congregation with services entirely in English.

A building fund has been initiated and a committee assigned to research the area for future building plans.

Jury Weighs Decision On Dr. Middleton

by ROGER CAPETTINI

An eight-man, four-woman jury deliberated the guilt or innocence of Dr. James G. Middleton for more than eight hours yesterday without reaching a verdict.

The case was turned over to the jury at 9:50 a.m. after Criminal Court Judge Robert J. Downing spent 20 minutes giving legal instructions to the jury.

At press time last night the panel had not yet reached a verdict.

Dr. Middleton, 45, of 969 Elmhurst Rd., Des Plaines, has been charged with deviate sexual assault and aggravated battery by a former woman patient. The former CIA agent, deputy sheriff and smoke jumper is alleged to have given the woman a drug and then forced her to submit to a deviate sexual act.

The doctor has flatly denied the charges and has claimed the whole thing is a result of an extortion plot against him.

IF FOUND GUILTY he could be sentenced to 4 to 20 years in prison on the charges of deviate sexual assault and one to 10 years on the battery charge.

Testimony in the trial lasted 10 days and included statements from the alleged victim, six other former women patients, and two of the doctor's former receptionists. All the former patients said injections given them by the doctor caused them to become weak and dizzy. They also said while they were being treated by him they experienced excessive hair growth, a deepening voice, and an increased sexual appetite.

After Dr. Middleton took the stand last week and denied the charges, an anesthesiologist testified he knows of no drug which could produce the intoxicating effects to which the women testified.

At only one point during their deliberations yesterday did the jurors convey any message to the court.

At 1:30 p.m., Judge Downing said the jurors had relayed a note which said, "Can we have witnesses transcripts?" The judge replied on the same sheet of paper, "No. Robert J. Downing."

Implied Consent Law Unenforceable

many states that have this stringent a requirement," he said.

Bryant called the equipment required "an automatic-type machine," which is tamper-proof. He indicated he too was hopeful new legislation would be introduced.

Municipal police department officials in the Northwest suburbs indicated they were hopeful the necessary equipment would be available by July 1 and have begun studying specifications of the required equipment. Several departments have included requests for funds to buy the equipment in budget requests for the year, and others have indicated they will seek state subsidies.

ing motorists to request a second test would cause grave problems in enforcing the law.

Motorists not satisfied with a breath test may request another test at the site of their choice, Novak said, thus greatly handicapping law officers. Motorists apparently could request another test at a site 100 or more miles away from where they were stopped, under the law, he said.

Floros Announces School Board Bid

Leo Floros yesterday officially announced his candidacy for the High School Dist. 214 Board, promising to cut-back administrators and costs if elected.

Floros' current term on the Mount Prospect Dist. 57 School Board expires April 8. He has been "seriously considering" running for one of the three seats to be filled in the Dist. 214 election for several weeks. Leah Cummins, former Dist. 214 board member, is the only other candidate to declare her candidacy.

Another of Floros' main goals would be establishment of unit districts in the Wheeling-Elk Grove township areas, thus dissolving Dist. 214. A unit district includes both high schools and elementary schools in the same district.

"I believe Dist. 214 has become too big and unwieldy. It has a budget in the neighborhood of $25 million and it is almost impossible for lay members of the board to monitor and control a budget of this size," Floros said. "I think the time has come for 214 to lead the way toward a merger of elementary and high school districts in the northwest suburban area."

His plan would be to consolidate Dist. 214 and its six feeder districts (including Dists. 21, 23, 25, 26, 57 and 59) into three or four unit districts.

"By doing this you would get more state aid, and perhaps, more importantly, you would probably have a more unified and efficient educational program from kindergarten through high school," he said.

In cutting back administrators, Floros said the district could operate efficiently with fewer than the current 100 member administrative staff.

"And I don't think that in an economic climate like this, these administrators should have received average increases of $1,500 as they did last fall," he said.

"Dist. 214 at the central office and in the individual schools is top-heavy with administration and heavy-laden with non-teaching costs," he said.

The Rolling Meadows high school opened this fall. Voters have approved money for a high school in Buffalo Grove, and construction has begun.

"Practicality and efficiency have never been trademarks of Dist. 214. The Rolling Meadows project is another example of that. Not only were we presented with a school with build-in problems, but as is generally the case in 214, the building was far from complete when the doors opened in September. The same thing happened at Wheeling and Hersey," he said.

Floros, 44, lives at 211 N. Emerson St. in Mount Prospect. In April, he will complete four years on the Dist. 57 School Board. The father of two students at Prospect High School, Floros is currently employed with Selz, Seabold and Associates, a Chicago public relations firm.

certainly use the bridge.

"Our comprehensive plan indicates that bridges must be built," Teichert said. "But the people really have said we like to use other streets but don't use ours. We run into this problem every time we try to complete the program."

Klovstad said he thought it was unfair of Teichert to attribute such an attitude to the residents.

"They're concerned about cut-through," he said.

The residents previously have sent a letter of protest and a copy of the petition to John Guilfoyle, chief engineer for the Illinois Division of Waterways. But Guilfoyle last week said he had never received the registered letter.

ANOTHER POINT made by Klovstad that a park will eventually be developed on an 11-acre site off William Street, south of the creek, was questioned by Trustee Richard H. Monroe. Monroe said the site could be used for a school one day, since that was the intent of the Dist. 57 School Board when they bought the land.

"I don't know if it is an obvious development as a park," Monroe said. He added that should through traffic prove a problem, the village could simply put in four-way stop signs at each intersection.

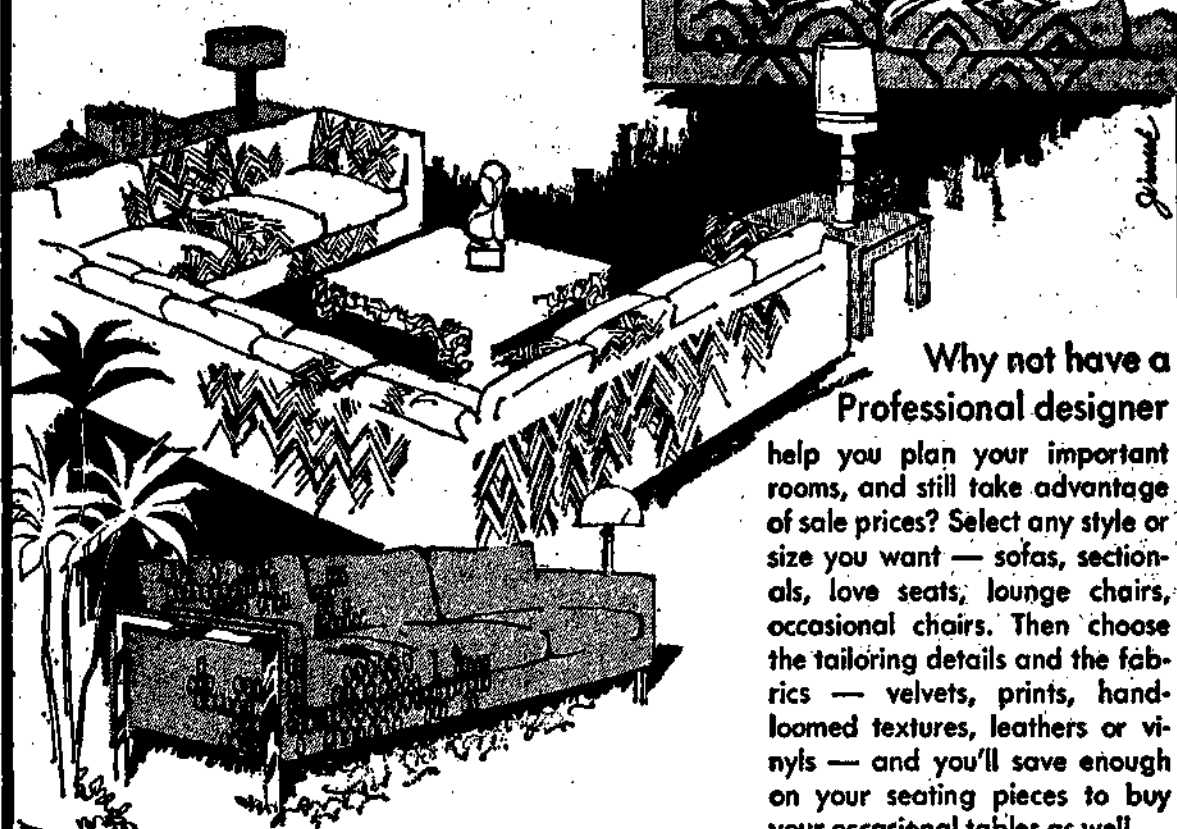

Teichert said the purpose behind the five-bridge plan, to which the village board is committed (two have already been built) is to spread the traffic burden evenly throughout the village's internal streets. It would be unfair, he said, to single out just one or two streets to put in bridges.

"We can't just do that which won't upset anyone," Teichert said.

Another speaker from the audience questioned the necessity of having a bridge at both William and School streets as planned. They would be two blocks apart.

Since there was no motion made by a board member, the present policy of building the bridge went unchanged.

Federal Food Stamps Are Now Being Sold In Village

by KURT BAER

An Arlington Heights currency exchange has begun selling federal food stamps through a program established in 1965 by the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Last week, the Arlington Heights Currency Exchange, 6 W. Campbell St., Arlington Heights, began selling the food stamps to eligible persons.

It is one of three currency exchanges in the area which now sell food stamps. Others are the Dundee Currency Exchange in Wheeling and the Des Plaines Currency Exchange in Des Plaines.

"We've only had a dozen people come in so far. But I don't think many people know we're selling the stamps," said Mrs. Ira Staller who, with her husband, owns and operates the currency exchange.

"IN THE PAST, people have asked for food stamps and I've had to turn them away," she said.

The stamps are issued through the U. S. Department of Agriculture and are used by eligible welfare recipients to buy food at selected supermarkets.

Under the program, which was started in 1965, a recipient pays for part of the stamps he receives himself and is awarded a fixed value of additional stamps as a bonus.

For example, a man may be authorized by the welfare department to buy $70 worth of food stamps per month for his family. He presents an authorization card to the teller at the currency exchange which specifies that he must pay $70 and then receive an additional $30 worth of bonus stamps.

The amount of the bonus will vary depending on the family's size, income and food budget.

Mrs. Staller said that in the one week the Arlington Heights exchange has been selling food stamps both elderly persons and men who are out of work have been in to buy stamps.

"IT'S A CONVENIENCE more than anything else. People now don't have to travel to Chicago to buy stamps," she said.

There are 350 currency exchanges in Cook County now selling food stamps, according to E. J. McBride, director of the food stamp program for the Cook County Department of Public Aid.

He said all of the exchanges in the county purchase their stamps from the government through the Lincoln National Bank in Chicago.

This rule is peculiar to the Chicago area, he said, and was put into effect to protect the government's interest in the event a currency exchange is robbed.

"If an exchange is held up, the government won't be stuck with the loss. It is up to the currency exchange to collect from its insurance agent," McBride said.

THE RULE MAKES it difficult, according to McBride, to get more currency exchanges to participate in the food stamp program.

"We don't make any money off the transaction. We do it as a service, just as every year we hand out hundreds of income tax forms," Mrs. Staller said.

Although he said he did not have any statistics for just the Northwest suburbs, McBride said that in Cook County as a whole $10.3 million worth of food stamps were given out last October, the latest month for which figures are available.

Of this total, welfare recipients paid $5.8 million and were given an additional $4.5 million worth of bonus stamps, he said.

Essentially, there are two kinds of welfare assistance used to determine eligibility for the food stamps.

PERSONS RECEIVING state public aid checks, such as aid to dependent children and old age assistance can participate in the program voluntarily, according to McBride.

General assistance recipients, whose checks come from the county, are automatically assigned to the program, he said.

Persons or families on Social Security may also be eligible to buy food stamps if their income and other liquid assets fall within certain guidelines, McBride said.

Hopefuls Await School Caucus Decision

by CINDY TEW

Nervous candidates took turns waiting outside the board room for a chance to present themselves to the committee.

"I hear this is like the Spanish Inquisition," one candidate said.

"There's just no way to prepare myself. I don't have any idea of what they're going to ask me," said another candidate while rubbing his hands together.

The candidates were waiting for the School Dist. 25 caucus screening committee to ask their views of education and their qualifications as prospective board members Saturday at the district administration building.

Caucus delegates will slate two candidates for the April board election on Wednesday. The terms of board members James Penn and Clayton Sauers expire in April.

THE SCREENING committee, made up of eight members of the nominating committee, drew up a set of 12 questions on which to rate each of eight candidates, and another 10 to 12 questions for miscellaneous information.

Each interview took 45 minutes, after which rating cards were marked, and comments made. The ratings, which are on a one to five scale, will be averaged and sent to all members of the nominating committee who will vote for the slate next Wednesday.

In an effort to be as fair as possible, each candidate will have five minutes to speak before the balloting.

The nominating committee process was not always the means used to find persons willing and qualified to serve on the school board. Before 1954, Dist. 25 School Board hopefuls had only to file a petition, and more likely than not, they were elected.

"As I recall, no one wanted to be on the board," said Roger Burke, who served as a board member from 1956 to 1962. "Retiring board members would seek out people and ask them to run."

Things came to a head in the 1954 election, according to George W. Sullivan, first nominating committee chairman, when there was a "knock down, drag out political battle for the board."

AMID POLITICS and lack of general enthusiasm for the nonpaying school board positions, the 1954 board of education initiated action which led to the formation of the Nominating Committee for Candidates for the School Board of Education of School Dist. 25, commonly called the school board caucus.

Besides taking the election out of a purely political arena, the caucus takes the financial burden out of campaigns. Should a caucus candidate be challenged, the caucus members become campaign workers.

All school board members elected in the past 18 years have had caucus endorsement. Only three independents have even tried for a board position.

"I think the nominating committee system is the best approach to obtaining well-qualified school board members," said James Penn, president of the board. "But if any citizen feels the system is wrong or not working for some reason he has the right to appear on the ballot, and let his views be known."

Thomas Mead, chairman of the nominating committee this year, feels the make up of the committee is such that more people are represented by it than any other village organization.

"ALMOST ANYONE interested in the schools has the option of being involved with the nominating committee process," Mead said. "People in business are represented by the Chamber of Commerce, people interested in schools are represented by PTAs, even people who are interested in people are represented through the human relations council."

Two representatives from each member organization, of which there are currently 32, have a voting voice in the caucus. Member organizations must be non-political, non-religious and either civic or educational in interest, according to the caucus by-laws.

The present setup makes it possible for 104 people to vote on the caucus slate. On Wednesday, however, only 75 people will be qualified to vote, since one qualification for representatives is that they attend at least one of the two meetings prior to voting for a slate.

A list of delegate duties, including the necessity of attending one meeting prior to voting, was written into the by-laws during an intensive scrutiny of the by-laws last year. More pressure has to be put on delegates because of what Mead calls growing apathy.

"DUE MOSTLY to an uninterested and passive attitude on the part of several organizations, we had the names of only 64 delegates, out of a possible 104, at the time of the first meeting," Mead said.

"The schools will only be as good as the board," Mead said. "I think we need a better public relations program by the school district to make people more aware of what's happening."

Staph Cases Bring Back Disinfectant

An outbreak of staph infection at Northwest Community Hospital in Arlington Heights has resulted in a return to the use of hexachlorophene to bathe newborn infants.

The outbreak of infection several weeks ago involved two babies, one of whom died. The incident occurred not long after the hospital stopped using hexachlorophene, a disinfectant the U.S. Food and Drug Administration has warned may cause brain damage if used to bathe infants.

"We went off hexachlorophene about a month before the warning was issued," Jack Ryan, public relations director at Northwest, said. "We are back on it now because we had an infection problem. We discovered one case and took care of the baby, but a baby who was next to it went undetected and when the parents brought him back a week later, it was too late."

AFTER THE TWO cases, Ryan said, the second floor at the hospital, which contains the maternity ward and nursery, was sterilized room by room, and the hospital returned to the use of hexachlorophene.

THE DIST. 25 NOMINATING COMMITTEE has been meeting with eight prospective candidates for the district board of education. The committee, comprised of eight members of the nominating caucus, rated each of the interviews on a scale from one to five. Each candidate was asked 12 questions about his reasons for seeking a spot on the school board. The committee will vote on final nominations next Wednesday. There are two vacancies on the school board.

phone cited by the FDA "are only probabilities" based on experiments with animals, and no actual cases of brain damage in infants have been shown.

He said the hospital has a committee of doctors that constantly oversees the hospital operations to minimize the spread of infections.

TWO OTHER AREA hospitals, Alexian Brothers Medical Center in Elk Grove Village and Lutheran General Hospital in Park Ridge, report that they have eliminated or cut back on the use of hexachlorophene and have not so far had an outbreak of infection.

A spokesman at Holy Family Hospital in Des Plaines said they do not use hexachlorophene to bathe infants and have had no outbreak of infection.

At Lutheran General, according to a spokesman, infants are given one bath with the disinfectant before they leave the delivery room. But it is not used after that.

Outbreaks of staph infections in many hospitals across the nation that have discontinued the use of hexachlorophene have been reported in recent days by the National Center for Disease Control. A meeting is planned for this week between FDA officials and representatives of the National Center and the American Academy of Pediatrics to reconsider the FDA warning on the use of the disinfectant.

A professor of pediatrics at the University of California at San Diego said earlier this week the staph outbreaks could be directly tied to the ban on the use of hexachlorophene. He said there is no alternative to the disinfectant in eliminating the infections.

Floros Announces School Board Bid

Leo Floros yesterday officially announced his candidacy for the High School Dist. 214 Board, promising to cut-back administrators and costs if elected.

Floros' current term on the Mount Prospect Dist. 57 School Board expires April 8. He has been "seriously considering" running for one of the three seats to be filled in the Dist. 214 election for several weeks. Leah Cummins, former Dist. 214 board member, is the only other candidate to declare her candidacy.

Another of Floros' main goals would be establishment of unit districts in the Wheeling-Elk Grove township areas, thus dissolving Dist. 214. A unit district includes both high schools and elementary schools in the same district.

"I believe Dist. 214 has become too big and unwieldy. It has a budget in the neighborhood of $35 million and it is almost impossible for lay members of the board to monitor and control a budget of this size," Floros said. "I think the time has come for 214 to lead the way toward a merger of elementary and high school districts in the northwest suburban area."

His plan would be to consolidate Dist. 214 and its six feeder districts (including Dist. 21, 23, 25, 26, 57 and 59) into three or four unit districts.

"By doing this you would get more state aid, and perhaps, more importantly, you would probably have a more unified, and efficient educational program from kindergarten through high school," he said.

In cutting back administrators, Floros said the district could operate efficiently with fewer than the current 100 member administrative staff.

"And I don't think that in an economic climate like this, these administrators should have received average increases of $1,500 as they did last fall," he said.

"Dist. 214 at the central office and in the individual schools is top-heavy with administration and heavy-laden with non-teaching costs," he said.

The Rolling Meadows high school opened this fall. Voters have approved money for a high school in Buffalo Grove, and construction has begun.

"Practically and efficiency have never been trademarks of Dist. 214. The Rolling Meadows project is another example of that. Not only were we presented with a school with build-in problems, but as is generally the case in 214, the building was far from complete when the doors opened in September. The same thing happened at Wheeling and Hersey," he said.

Middleton's Fate Up To Jury

by ROGER CAPETTINI

An eight-man, four-woman jury deliberated the guilt or innocence of Dr. James G. Middleton for more than eight hours yesterday without reaching a verdict.

The case was turned over to the jury at 9:50 a.m. after Criminal Court Judge Robert J. Downing spent 20 minutes giving legal instructions to the jury.

At press time last night the panel had not yet reached a verdict.

Dr. Middleton, 45, of 969 Elmhurst Rd., Des Plaines, has been charged with deviate sexual assault and aggravated battery by a former woman patient. The former CIA agent, deputy sheriff and smoke jumper is alleged to have given the woman a drug and then forced her to submit to a deviate sexual act.

If FOUND GUILTY he could be sentenced to 4 to 20 years in prison on the charges of deviate sexual assault and one to 10 years on the battery charge.

Testimony in the trial lasted 10 days and included statements from the alleged victim, six other former women patients, and two of the doctor's former receptionists. All the former patients said injections given them by the doctor caused them to become weak and dizzy. They also said while they were being treated by him they experienced excessive hair growth, a deepening voice, and an increased sexual appetite.

After Dr. Middleton took the stand last week and denied the charges, an anesthesiologist testified he knows of no drug which could produce the intoxicating effects to which the women testified.

At only one point during their deliberations yesterday did the jurors convey any message to the court.

At 1:30 p.m., Judge Downing said the jurors had relayed a note which said, "Can we have witnesses transcripts?" The judge replied on the same sheet of paper, "No. Robert J. Downing."

Lecture Slated On Science, Scriptures

A guest lecturer will discuss subjects related to science and the scriptures during February at the Evangelical Free Church, 1331 N. Belmont, Arlington Heights.

Russell Mixer, professor of zoology at Wheaton College, has titled the four-part series "Science and the Bible." Mixer earned his Ph.D. from the University of Illinois and has recently edited a book about Christian thought.

While Mixer is lecturing in the adult sanctuary class, Joe Bayly of the David C. Cook Publishing Co. will be speaking in the young adult bible classes about death and dying. Bayly will speak on Feb. 6 and 13.

Both classes are held from 10 a.m. to 10:55 a.m. and all interested people are invited to attend.

Jazz Band Will Play In Festival

The Wheeling High School Jazz Ensemble Saturday will participate in the 13th annual Oak Lawn Jazz Festival. The festival will take place at Oak Lawn Community High School and is considered to be the largest one-day music festival in the United States.

Preparations are being made to host some 90 bands with most of the high school buildings being used for the music makers.

A majority of the bands are from Illinois high schools with the remainder representing junior high schools.

The daytime competition will yield eight finalist jazz groups, who will compete in the evening for the "Best of Festival" award.

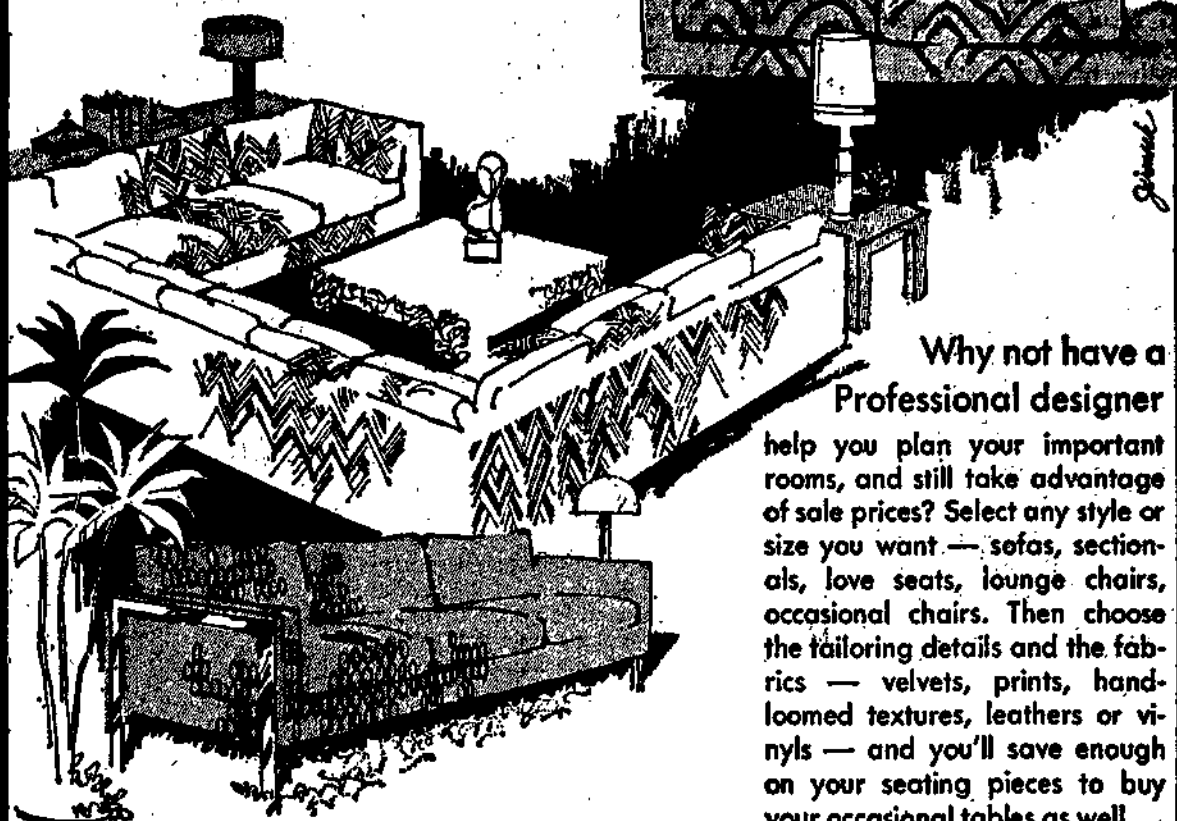

Valentine's Day Dinner Set By Legion

Howlett Rips Oakton Board On Cemetery-Campus Site

by VICKI HAMENDE

State Auditor Michael Howlett, Democratic candidate for Illinois Secretary of State, yesterday criticized Oakton Community College for filing suit to condemn land adjacent to a cemetery in Niles for a permanent campus.

In another development in the campus controversy, Oakton Trustee LeRoy Wauck said Tuesday the board's site committee should "continue to pursue other sites" in case the college loses its condemnation suit against the Chicago Catholic Archdiocese to purchase a 105-acre portion of Maryhill Cemetery.

In a statement protesting condemnation of part of Maryhill, Howlett said, "As the state official charged with administration of the Illinois Cemetery Care Act, I am disturbed."

HOWLETT ADDED, "I am a friend of the junior college system. I have supported the growth of junior colleges throughout my service in public office. But, I do not believe the legislature intended to give junior colleges powers of eminent domain for use against a quasi-public entity," he said.

"Cemeteries have special and constitutional and legislative recognition because of their work. If it were not performed, the functions would fall back on the state and the local government," Howlett said.

"The fact that part of a cemetery may be vacant has no bearing. At a given time, some portion of any cemetery may be vacant, just as part of a college campus may not have buildings on it," Howlett said.

"Maryhill has been dedicated and platted. Lots in it have been sold. Burials have been made. All parts of it deserve protection, whether in use or vacant," he said.

"Other property is available within the school district at lower cost and apparently with more acreage. The Maryhill property apparently is preferred because of its more central location.

"In Illinois, I've seen many community colleges which require their students to travel a far greater distance than any student would travel in the relatively small Oakton district," he said.

"Community junior colleges are a blessing and a boon to the educational structure of Illinois. It would be unfortunate if creation of a permanent campus for Oakton would be delayed or defeated over the argument of how central the location should be. The young people for whom these schools are organized would be the only losers," he added.

"I HOPE THE school board authorities will find another more suitable site for the new Oakton junior college campus," Howlett concluded.

At Tuesday night's board of trustees meeting, Wauck voiced concern over the fact that Oakton is asking taxpayers to agree to pay about one third of the cost of a permanent campus in a March 4 bond issue referendum when, "We may not have a site for a permanent campus."

Oakton's attorneys last week filed a condemnation suit to obtain the Maryhill site from the archdiocese. Archdiocesan attorneys have a month to respond to the suit. If, at the end of the month, the archdiocese still refuses to sell the land, the case will go to the courts.

Wauck said court proceedings could last for months.

"We have a very unwilling seller. Taking so much time to acquire a site will hurt the college. We shouldn't stop looking for another site," Wauck added.

"We have accused the archdiocese of inflexibility. Are we now acting the same way? Are we acting sufficiently prudent in this matter?" Wauck asked Oakton's trustees.

Board Pres. Milton Falkoff told Wauck the board would not know whether the archdiocese is an "unwilling seller" until its attorneys have answered the condemnation petition. "Their answer may be quite different from what they've said publicly," Falkoff said.

STEPHEN LOSKA, chairman of the site committee, told Wauck he has been conducting "constant reviews of other site possibilities." The committee studied 23 sites in Maine and Niles townships for two years before selecting the Maryhill site.

Trustee Raymond Hartstein, site committee member, said since the referendum will come before the condemnation court proceedings, "All of the board's efforts

Shooting Death Is Ruled Accidental By Coroner Jury

A Cook County coroner's jury returned a verdict of accidental death Wednesday in the fatal shooting of a Palatine youth in a Des Plaines home Nov. 16.

The six-man jury said the death of Walter J. Moroko, 17, of 221 S. Forest Ave., Palatine, was due to the accidental discharge of a shotgun in the home of one of his friends, Peter Rotter, 18, of 81 W. Dulles Rd., Des Plaines.

Philip Springer, 37, 460 N. McArthur Dr., Palatine, the youth who was holding the gun when it discharged into Moroko's mouth yesterday testified he didn't know why the gun fired.

Springer said he jokingly had tried to place a shell in the gun but it didn't fit. He said he put the shell on the floor and was closing the bolt when the gun accidentally fired. He said the fatal shell must have been in the gun before he picked it up.

Patrolman James Pickell repeated part of the testimony he gave at an earlier hearing Jan. 20. He said the gun that fired the fatal shell was mechanically deficient, according to a report from the Chicago Police Department crime laboratory.

PICKELL SAID the lab reported the sawed-off barrel was taped to the gunstock and the gun could be fired without pulling the trigger by pushing the bolt of the weapon.

Sergeant Peter Senteff testified in his opinion a shell could have been in the gun without it being seen. After the shooting, he said, the expended shell was stuck in the gun chamber and had to be pried out. Senteff added the safety on the gun was not functioning properly.

The Moroko youth was found lying in a pool of blood shortly after 8:30 Nov. 16, according to police reports at the time. Nine youths and no adults were in the home at the time of the shooting, according to police.

At the Jan. 20 hearing, Assistant Chief Deputy Coroner George Parker revealed Moroko was highly intoxicated at the time of his death.

Circuit Judge Robert J. Downing ordered the jury sequestered overnight in the House of Correction and said the jurors will resume deliberations at 9:30 a.m. today.

The 45-year-old Des Plaines physician is on trial on charges of deviate sexual assault and aggravated battery. The charges were brought by Lynn Nelson, 24, former patient who has sued the doctor for $1.2 million.

The case was turned over to the eight-

Scouting News

After a flag ceremony by the webelos, the meeting of Cub Pack 148 was called to order by cubmaster Al Lundquist Jan. 28 at Orchard Place School.

A rope-knot tying demonstration was presented by Webelos den members Roland Weis, Jim Kowalczyk, and Dan Kaulback.

New bobcat induction was given to Scott Hackbarth and Mike Lindmoler. Advancement awards were presented next to the following scouts: Mark Bartos - wolf badge, gold arrow and bear book. Mike DeCarlo - wolf badge, gold and silver arrow and assistant denner bar. Everett Musselman - wolf badge, gold and silver arrow. Jeff Palenski - wolf badge, gold and three silver arrows and bear book. David St. Germain - wolf badge, gold and two silver arrows and assistant denner bars.

The following boys received bear badges: Don Cunningham, who also received gold and silver arrow and denner bars; Bill Ingerbritson, a gold arrow; Jack Quillin, also denner bar; Eric Wilkins, also gold arrow and assistant denner bar. Denner bars were given to Mike Hackbarth, Mike Hayes, and Tim Rapinchuk and assistant denner to Tim Novak and Mike Strickland.

A bear book was given to Ken Hicken, a one-year pin to Dino Metropoulos and a gold arrow to Danny Zurlo. Webelos awards were announced for Tom Adrahtas - athlete and citizen, Ron Boeck - athlete, Ken Grewe - athlete and naturalist, Joey Hruban - engineer, Jon Schulz - artist and engineer. A two-year pin was given to Roland Weis and Roland was advanced to Boy Scouts.

A Boy Scout book was given to Dwight Bohne and Jeff Brzezinski was welcomed into webelos. Den five had a skit about knights of yore and a smile contest was held with the winners being Tim Rapinchuk, 8-year-old, Matt Camper, 9-year-old, and Mike Novak, 10-year-old division. Pinewood car kits were passed out to each boy to be assembled for the March pack pinewood derby.

Among the announcements were the annual blue and gold dinner to be held Feb. 25 at Orchard Place School. Pack activity plans were scheduled Jan. 29 at South Park and Feb. 6 a Bulls basketball game with a bus ride to the Chicago Stadium. Cub Scout Bill McAvoy closed the meeting with a trumpet solo of taps. Refreshments were served.

The latest meeting of Pack 14 was held Jan. 28 at Forest School. The highlight of the evening was the Pinewood Derby. Den 2 presented the opening ceremony.

Two new boys and their parents were welcomed into the pack. David Eglund and Jeff Smith received their Bobcat pins after saying the Cub Scout promise.

Cubmaster - Richard Anderson presented recruiter patches to Joseph Libretti and Jeff Higgins for encouraging a new boy to join Cub Scouts. Pack 14 also received a special award for having a larger enrollment this year over last year.

Jack Newman and his parents were called forward and Jack received his arrow of light award from webelos leaders, Dick Grzebeniak and Paul Finn. He received a vulture kit from the Pack and was taken into Boy Scout Troop 25 by the scoutmaster.

Other awards were as follows: Den 1 - Greg Wolfinger, wolf badge; Den 5 - John Peterson, denner; Doug Balut, assistant denner; Webelos - Marvin Meister, aquanaut, naturalist, engineer and athlete; Greg Finn - naturalist, athlete.

It was announced that the Jan. 15 trip to the Graceland Nursing Home was successful. A good turnout of boys attended despite the cold weather. Baskets of fruit were given to the residents of the nursing home and songs presented. The visit was much appreciated by the older people of the nursing home.

The winners of the pinewood derby were Tom Preibisch, first place; Mike Miller, second place; and Randy Trost, third place. The winners in each den were Den 1, Greg Wolfinger; Den 2, Jeff Higgins; Den 4, Rich Geist; Den 5, Doug Balut; and webelos, Jeff Triphahn. The winner of the den chiefs race was Wally Geist Jr., webelos den chief.

Jeff Higgins was the winner of the best craftsmanship award, and Greg Wolfinger won the most classic design award.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Preibisch, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Ellison, and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wolfinger were thanked for their help in setting up the races and securing the trophies. Wally Geist Sr. was the director of the race, and he and his wife, Jan, also constructed the plaques given the winners of the races. Also present for the evening were Mr. and Mrs. Bob Enders, former members of the pack. Enders served as the official starter for the races.

Den 2 presented the closing ceremony and refreshments were served afterward

Toastmasters To Meet

Low-Income Housing Study Needed

Members of the Des Plaines City Council are expected to vote Monday night whether to face questions raised about the need for low-income housing here or to instruct a proposed municipal housing commission in effect to ignore the issue.

The council's health and welfare committee has been toying with a proposal to set up the commission since it urged rejection in November of a plan to have the city encourage development of low-income housing.

At that time the council panel said the Concerned Metropolitan Citizens Committee failed to prove its case for new policies encouraging such housing. However, the committee did urge establishment of a commission to look into the housing situation here.

Since then, Ald. Robert Sherwood (2nd), health and welfare chairman, has announced that he's against low-income housing and doesn't want it studied. His idea is to form a do-nothing commission with a limited assignment that would be unable to accomplish much.

We hope city council will face up

Minority Group Distribution OK'd

River Trails School Dist. 26, which enrolls 139 students of minority groups, has taken "caution to make sure ethnic groups were placed in every school..." according to a report filed with State Supt. Michael Bakalis.

Dist. 26 officials filed the report after Bakalis required districts throughout the state to make known their integration policies. According to the report, Dist. 26 3,136 students include 57 Negroes, 17 Orientals, 65 Spanish Americans and one American Indian.

Sixty-five of those students attend River Road School in Des Plaines. The school houses students from Maryville Academy, a home for dependent children, which in 1969 said it could no longer afford to educate its own children. As a result, Dist. 26 has taken over the responsibility and leases a part of the academy for the school.

"The River Road School has a higher expenditure level per student than any other school in Dist. 26," according to the report. "Classes are smaller and most of the students fit into a special education category. As soon as they are able and with no distinction to race, creed or color, these students are integrated into the other district schools. We plan to continue this plan of integration."

to the questions that have been raised about housing here, questions that won't go away if the city takes Ald. Sherwood's head-in-the-sand approach.

Mayor Herbert Behrel and several other council members have said they feel the matter should be studied. We agree. The city council should give low-income housing the same consideration it gives to other issues by gathering facts, listening to opinions and making a well-informed decision.

By rejecting the CMCC proposal for a "lack of information," the city council has obligated itself to seek out enough information to judge low-income housing.

Ald. Sherwood wants the commission to study substandard housing, investigate possible sites for senior citizen housing and look into the need for a local housing authority. It should not, he said, study the need for low-income housing here.

To set up a housing commission that would ignore the question of low-income housing to us seems ridiculous - somewhat akin to forming a traffic commission that pays no attention to congested intersections or an environmental control commission that cares nothing about pollution.

Facts are needed. The commission should take a look at substandard housing, as Sherwood has proposed. But already, there is evidence that such housing exists here. The commission should make recommendations as to the city's proper course in dealing with substandard housing conditions.

The panel should determine if there are low-income families here in need of better housing. It should also evaluate subsidized housing programs and decide which ones, if any, are needed and appropriate for Des Plaines.

The commission should also decide whether a city that has attracted and benefited from industry has an obligation to encourage housing that industrial workers can afford. This seemed to be the crux of the CMCC's arguments supporting its unsuccessful proposal.

Sherwood, who is running for the state legislature, wants the commission to investigate sites for senior-citizen housing, but he is well aware that one site here already has been approved by federal authorities. The city is not expected to apply for any more low-income housing programs for the elderly in the near future.

As for his proposal that the commission look into the need for a local housing authority, we feel compelled to ask the question: Why examine the need for a housing authority when you don't want to examine the need for housing?

We urge the city council to give full consideration to all aspects of the housing issue by setting up a commission that is instructed to do a proper job.

"Ms." is on the stands. Heralded as the "new magazine for women," the red-covered issue (complete with a drawing of an eight-armed woman, typing, ironing, driving, cooking, etc.) was made available to a waiting public this week.

One of the single females in our office rushed right out to buy "Ms." and returned to the office amid snickers, guffaws and chauvinistic comments. It was truly interesting to see how the males reacted to this innocent magazine.

The first comment was "Is there a male foldout?" — that from the chauvinist who sits kitty-corner from the female. There followed a lot of "let me see" and "it's probably a bunch of garbage," etc.

THE CHIAUVINIST who sits next to her launched into his "women are different from men because of their floating ribs which wiggle because of the gravitational pull of the moon" or something like that.

It was truly an incredible afternoon. Apparently "Ms." is an ego-threatening magazine for men. They seem to envision plots and schemes written on every page that will unite women in the overthrow of males.

Actually it's nothing like that at all — as you will find if you pick up a copy (and I'm not advocating that as a "must do").

Of course I bought a copy. If nothing else I had to let my readers know what the controversy is all about.

"Ms." is aimed at women just as "Playboy" is aimed at men — but hardly in exactly the same manner. Whereas "Playboy" has some very good articles, funny jokes, what might be considered sexist layouts and its infamous foldout, "Ms." has some very good, thought-provoking articles.

NOTE I SAID "some very good . . ." It would depend on how much you are involved with the liberation movement as to how many articles you'll find to be "good."

I'm about 80 per cent into woman's lib, yet I consider myself to be rational and intelligent when it comes to the rights movement. I'm not particularly militant or vocal but rather fairly well versed on legislation, day care, equal this and that, and all the other things the movement becomes involved in.

I was unmoved by the article "Desexing the English Language" which advocated changing the common gender from "he" to "they" or "him" to "them." That's one of the least of women's problems as far as I'm concerned.

I WAS VERY interested in several other articles however. "Rating The Candidates" gave an insight on how various presidential candidates have voted on issues which directly affect women. It judged each candidate on his (or her) record and their statements regarding women. "Why Women Fear Success" was based on studies of women on campuses and showed a correlation between education and a desire to not appear quite so intelligent.

"Down With Sexist Upbringings" was interesting despite its awful headline. It rehearsed the argument that children are directed into their sex roles partially by the books they read and gives a list of books that won't do that.

"The Housewife's Moment of Truth" was great; "We Have Had Abortions" (whether you're pro or con on the subject) is something you should read; and "Where To Get Help" is a public service.

The most "fun" article in the issue is "Men's Cycles (They Have Them Too, You Know)" which has provided the other female reporter and myself with ammunition for days.

After hearing how your floating ribs are disturbing your personality it's great to come back with "You must be in a low point of your intellectual hormone cycle — but don't worry you'll be feeling better in a week."

Panel May Have Found Way To Quiet Airplanes

A Des Plaines City Council committee may have found a loophole in the apparent absolute federal control over O'Hare Airport jets that will allow the city to force a cut in jet noise before takeoffs.

Although the Federal Aviation Administration virtually always wins in federal courts on its claims to absolute control over aircraft regulations, the aldermen said the city may have the same power over jets on the ground "as it would over any nuisance near the city limits."

The aldermen are backing a proposed city noise ordinance, to be considered Monday by the city council, which could allow the city to fine or imprison jet pilots who "rev up" their engines prior to takeoff or during engine maintenance.

"JET GROUND NOISE" shakes windows as far as four miles from the airport, affecting parts of southern Des Plaines, Elk Grove Village, Schiller Park and Bensenville, according to Ald. Alan Abrams (8th).

As many as 10 jets at a time line up on runways awaiting clearance to take off "with their engines at full throttle," he said. The noise from jets on the ground "goes on night and day."

Although the airport officials have promised to warn pilots about idling engines needlessly, the practice continues, he said.

Municipalities, under Illinois law, have some authority over nuisances beyond the city limits that affect their residents, Abrams said.

"Our argument will be that once the planes are on the ground, they are beyond FAA jurisdiction and must be regarded as an unregulated industry," he said.

UNDER THE proposed ordinance, the city would measure the amount of noise coming from jet engines. If it exceeds a level of 90 decibels, the city will ticket the jet pilots, and bring them to court, where the issue of who has control of planes on the ground may be settled.

The proposed ordinance also would allow the city to ticket pilots who fly noisy aircraft inside the city limits, Abrams said. He also expects a federal court fight over this part of the ordinance, which has been proposed by the city's environmental controls committee, whose members are Abrams, Ald. Robert Michaels (8th), and Ald. Lois Czuba-kowski (5th).

Des Plaines, which lies along flight paths of two of O'Hare's busiest runways, has become increasingly bombarded by jet noise, which has been found psychologically and physically harmful, according to the aldermen.

A recent noise report issued by the Northeastern Illinois Planning Commission indicated that more of Des Plaines than any other Northwest suburb is being subjected to high noise levels.

The report also said that by 1975 more than half of Des Plaines would be subjected to uncomfortable and unhealthy noise levels. NIPC recommended that in these areas of high noise impact no new residential homes be constructed. Instead, only highly insulated apartments should be built, the report stated.

THE PROPOSED noise ordinance also presents a timetable for reduction of maximum noise levels for cars, motorcycles, construction equipment and other motor powered equipments, such as lawnmowers.

It also seeks to regulate noise in all public places, and incorporates present laws about "disturbing the peace."

Violation of the ordinance would mean a fine of $15 to $300 for the first offense and no less than $50 or more than $500 for the second offense.

A violator of the ordinance also could be imprisoned for up to six months, the proposed ordinance states.

The Secretarial Spectrum

Still A Career Opportunity For Women?

by ELEANOR RIVES

"I thoroughly enjoy it and the experience is marvelous," said 19-year-old Cathy Boylan of Mount Prospect.

"It's tremendously exciting," exclaimed Joanne Weber, young Roselle matron and mother of two children.

"Your success depends upon working for a successful man," stated Lynne Williams with years and years of business experience behind her.

All three were referring to their jobs.

All three are secretaries.

But there's a long, long climb from Cathy's rung on the ladder to Lynne's, from the fledgling secretary to the highly respected, indispensable right arm of a vice president of the company.

CATHY IS ONE of 20 secretarial students at Harper College in Palatine enjoying on-the-job training as she works for her associate of applied science degree. Miss Mary Ann Mickina, coordinator of the secretarial program and a business whirlwind herself, combed the surrounding communities until she found jobs for every student in both secretarial procedures classes.

Chris Collie, employment manager at Motorola in Schaumburg and a member of the advisory board for the secretarial science program at Harper, said, "It's a two-way street. When we accept a student for on-the-job training, both parties gain. Motorola is helping her complete her education; once it is completed, she will be an efficient, competent full-time employee."

HARPER HAS a regular two-year secretarial program and a two-year legal secretarial program, both of which culminate in associate degrees. A 25-hour medical transcriptionist program offers a certificate which enables the holder to go into any hospital and transcribe medical dictation, either there or at home.

Cathy Boylan, aspiring to be a legal secretary, works part time in the law offices of Biesiek and Facchini, P.A., in Arlington Heights. She may take dictation (Gregg shorthand) from any of four lawyers, or type from their dictaphone belts. Such terms as "plaintiff," "pleadings," "dependent," "et al," are everyday language to her now.

For girls with legal secretary aspirations, Miss Mickina arranged a visit to a meeting of the National Association of Legal Secretaries where they absorbed new knowledge of the courts, documents and other legal matters. Cathy loved it. But then Cathy has wanted to be a secretary ever since she was in 7th grade.

ACCORDING TO Clarence Feiler, a counselor at Prospect High School, girls who enter the high school secretarial program at the freshman level need no further training unless they wish to go into a specialized field. Further training consists mainly in becoming familiar with a specialized vocabulary.

However, if their secretarial program

ual skills to be a top notch executive secretary. Add experience, maturity, initiative and desire, and a career-minded young girl is on her way to the top.

trapped in expensive contracts," he said. CHRIS COLLIE advises girls to continue their training beyond the high school level, to increase their skills and get supplemental training.

Hiring at Motorola is done at the entry

level position, usually as a file clerk. A girl's abilities may then carry her to general office work, clerk-typist, stenographer and secretary. The top of the ladder — executive secretary — is filled from within the company, often by a secretary who has advanced with her boss or whose work has been outstanding enough to be noticed by an executive.

Motorola, which attempts to stay in the top brackets with comparable industries salary-wise, suggests a salary range from $95 to $130 a week for general secretaries, depending upon past experience, education and potential.

AN EXECUTIVE secretary can make up to, and sometimes over, $10,000 a year. Another 20 per cent is hidden in such fringe benefits as profit-sharing, vacations, health benefits, cafeteria subsidies, parking lot repair service and free educational courses.

Mrs. William Weber, younger than most executive secretaries, works for a corporate vice president, Carl Lindholm of Motorola's Communications Division. Joanne's fast rise to a top secretarial position was due to a combination of factors, not the least of which was good timing. A capable, efficient, enthusiastic worker, she happened to be in the right place at the right time.

In 1959 she entered the secretarial field at the bottom of the ladder in another company. She left the business world to marry, settle in Hoffman Estates and rear two children, now 8 and 10. In 1965 she went back to work and three years ago came to Motorola.

JOANNE, WORKING as a secretary in public relations, found herself filling in on a number of positions, coordinating various activities as Motorola moved its offices to Schaumburg. When Carl Lindholm arrived, he needed a secretary. Joanne got the job.

Joanne's typing skills were learned in high school, her shorthand at the Speedwriting Institute. But much more than manual skills are involved in being an executive secretary. Screening telephone calls, setting up meetings, contacting people, composing letters on one's own are all part of it.

Enthusiasm is another part. Joanne's excitement over her job radiates from her. She can hardly wait to come to work Monday mornings.

"I hope I never take all this for granted," she said.

LYNNE WILLIAMS, executive secretary to Richard Speer, vice president in manufacturing at Universal Oil Products,

Des Plaines, came to the United States from Wales as a child, studied shorthand and typing at Evanston High School and a sprinkling of other subjects at Northwestern University night school. For 19 years she has held the position of executive secretary with Calumet and Heckla, which became a part of Universal Oil in 1968. Miss Williams came with it.

Before that she held various positions, starting as a clerk-typist and advancing from job to job and place to place, even trying her hand at managing a small newspaper. "But that rough a job and those long hours weren't worth it," she said.

MISS WILLIAMS has a fantastic understanding of not only the product but the entire business. "I have read every piece of correspondence that ever came across my desk," she said. "And I had a very patient boss. He would explain anything I asked, give any amount of time to me." In addition, she keeps up with all the trade magazines and newspapers.

Lynne composes many letters, edits others, writes speeches, assembles information needed on trips and telephones, telephones, telephones. Not the least of her duties is seeing that her boss gets places on time and doesn't forget anything.

"Being an executive secretary is a personal relationship," she said. "If a secretary likes and respects her boss, she will do a much better job. She must present her boss to everyone in the best possible light. And it's important to get along with his associates, too."

Her advice to young people entering the secretarial field: "Do what is asked of you and do it graciously. Don't think anything is beneath your dignity. Try to work for a powerful company and a successful man. As he moves up, he will take you along with him."

Lynne Williams believes most young people read far too few books for pleasure.

ESPECIALLY FOR THE FAMILY

A Specialty Since 1969

by THOMAS C. MILLER

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Specialization has made the family doctor a vanishing breed, but at the University of California Medical Center, family medicine training is not only alive and well but a specialty in itself.

According to Dr. Herbert Vandervoort, the head of the UC family medicine program, the pendulum in medical schools is swinging toward a return to the family doctor training.

"Studies indicate that about 80 per cent of diseases can be treated by a GP (General Practitioner)," Vandervoort said. "And a lot of people graduating now want to go into family medicine."

A family medicine specialty was created in 1969 by the American Medical Association, and since then 30 students in each graduating class at UC, or about 25 per cent, have named it as their choice. "There has been a void due to the trend toward specialization," Vandervoort said in explaining why the family doctor has been disappearing from the medical scene.

"AND THERE HAS been a myth that

Another UC family medicine faculty member, Dr. Donald Ransom, said the trend toward family medicine was due to a combination of increased support from medical and government officials, a demand by patients for more personalized care, and more socially conscious medical students.

"But practitioners have also discovered that some of the old models just don't work any more," Ransom said. "The shift to family medicine is like the shift to ecology."

The family medicine program at UC combines classroom instruction, on-the-job training with family doctors in the San Francisco Bay area and a family practice residency that allows a doctor to bypass his internship and concentrate on family care at a hospital.

A UC FRESHMAN medical student can choose family medicine as one of six specialty areas and begin his training by taking a basic course in family medicine. "We limited the freshman class to 30 students, but 50 wanted in," Vandervoort said.

A student in the freshman class, Lucia Cies, said she was looking for a "new method of reaching people."

"The family doctor concept was an alternative to the clinic model or the team-work method now being practiced by many doctors," she said.

While in the freshman course, the students can volunteer for preceptorships — actually working with a practicing family doctor.

While working with the practicing doctor from six to nine months, the student is assigned one particular family for special study.

"We expect a very detailed report on that family," Vandervoort said. "Some students become very close to the families, and even after the course ends, they continue to keep in touch with them."

THE STUDENTS in the preceptorships are offered a choice of working with a doctor in an urban minority area, an urban majority, a suburban or rural practice. Vandervoort said the students have selected these options in about equal numbers.

After the basic freshman course, the students can take advanced courses in such subjects as family counseling. At the junior level, some students actually do family counseling at the UC Hospital family clinic.

After graduation, the doctor can apply for a family practice residency related to a university, such as UC's program at Sonoma County Hospital in Santa Rosa, north of San Francisco.

In the residency, the doctor is given total responsibility, within the limits of his training, for the care of a number of families. At the same time, he receives training in other specialty areas.

"We have 18 residents at Sonoma, with six slots opening each year," Vandervoort said. "We have 60 applicants for those six slots."

A second family practice residency will begin operating this year at San Francisco General Hospital and will specialize in training family doctors for urban areas.

The Potting Shed

by Mary B. Good

This bit of information is going to make somebody rich and famous — maybe it will be you:

The Griggsville Wild Bird Society has launched a nationwide search to find the best artist to paint the flowers of America.

Several years ago, The Society embarked on a similar campaign, but then they were looking for the best wildlife artist. It took a year and a half of detective work, and of all the artists in the world, they chose Richard Sloan of Palatine, now considered the greatest wild-bird artist since J. J. Audubon. Imagine — Sloan, right here in Palatine!

IF THE FLOWER artist chosen by Griggsville fares as well as Sloan has, this artist stands to make thousands of dollars from each painting he (or she) produces. Sloan is still working on his series of 48 for the Society, to give you just an idea. (You can't buy a Sloan original unless you are Jackie O's husband. And the 22x28 reproductions sell for $30 a print when they are first released, and zoom up to as high as $325 for "Eastern Bluebird" as the limited editions are snapped up. Now that's a better investment than any stock market inside I could ever give.)

Imagine yourself or your great talented friend in the position of another Richard Sloan.

Here's the scoop: The Society is stressing detail and authenticity as well as beauty in its criteria for judging American flower painters. The primary goal is creation of the most accurate and lifelike paintings that have ever been done of these nature subjects.

THE PROPOSED flower painting program will be a companion to the bird painting program, and the purpose of both will be the stimulation of new interest in nature and the promotion of understanding and appreciation for the beauty of nature.

Society personnel wish to study the work of every artist who has exceptional ability and might be interested in undertaking a task as monumental as the flower series the Society is contemplating.

Interested nature artists and persons familiar with artists who have exceptional talent in the nature field are urged to write J. L. Wade, Griggsville Wild Bird Society, Griggsville, Ill. 62340.

I HAD the treat of visiting the "Purple Martin Capital" of Griggsville, meeting Mr. Wade and bringing greetings from Richard Sloan and Paddock Publications this past summer. I can't begin to explain the scope of this successful business executive's plans and aspirations. But whoever may become involved in this ambitious venture as top flower artist — to him it will mean $$$.

A tremendous opportunity for an artist; oh how I wish I had artistic talent — gushes and gushes of it! Perhaps this area will produce another great artist — you?

The Midwestern Chapter of the International Shade Tree Conference will have its annual meeting at the Pick Congress Hotel in Chicago starting Tuesday and running through Thursday, Feb. 10.

The program will include timely topics regarding trees and the environment.

Meetings are open to the public. There is a registration fee of $8 a day. More information may be obtained from Laurence R. Hall, 724-8400.

A horticultural demonstration on plant propagation is scheduled at the Botanic Garden, Edens Expressway between Dundee and Lake-Cook roads, next Tuesday. There are two sessions, one at 10 a.m. and the other at 1:30 p.m.

Glenn Park, chief horticulturalist, and Carl Quasthoff will demonstrate techniques in multiplying plants by making cuttings and proper techniques in seed planting.

More information is available from Fran Whittin, program coordinator for the Chicago Horticultural Society, 332-2868.

Art Critique Class Rescheduled

Last Thursday's snow postponed Countryside Gallery's critique class directed by Barbara Houskeeper. It has been rescheduled for tonight, 7 o'clock, in Countryside's new home, 414 N. Vail in Arlington Heights.

Miodrag Mihailovic, Ruthe Karlin and Marcia Kaplan, all Chicago artists, will be guests at the critique. Also to attend the class will be John Doyle, James Pink and Joseph Burlini, local artists, and Michael Wyman, a Chicago gallery owner.

The primary objective of the class is to give the working artist, beginning or experienced, a place to have his work critically judged so that he may ultimately be able to objectively review his own work.

The class is also intended as a forum for professional artists who enjoy discussing art with students and other professionals.

Miodrag Mihailovic is a painter; Ruthe Karlin a photographer; and Marcia Kaplan a sculptress. John Doyle works both in graphics and resin sculpture as does James Pink. Joseph Burlini is a sculptor. Together they illustrate the multi-media approach of the critique class.

by Dorothy Ritz

Dear Dorothy: A friend says she keeps a dish of activated charcoal in the piano to take care of excess moisture and keep the strings from rusting. Have you ever heard of this use?—Mrs. Ronald B.

Activated charcoal would absorb any mustiness that might be present, but I hardly think it would take care of a very humid condition. When there is much humidity in a room and a valuable piano or organ is to be considered, many people have an electric dehumidifier rod installed to take care of such situations. This rod is specifically made for this purpose and can be installed by any good piano technician.

Dear Dorothy: I find that if I am going to soft boil eggs for a short period, say three minutes, I don't have to put cream of tartar in the water in an aluminum pan so tarnish won't form. However, when hard boiling eggs, which naturally takes considerably longer, I put a pinch of cream of tartar in so I won't have a scrubbing job on the aluminum.—Hazel

M.

It took a little while to learn this routine but it's the method used around here, too. Thanks for bringing it up.

Dear Dorothy: Because of something in the column I had a spray disinfectant on hand when our basement flooded. The odor was pretty awful when my husband went down to clean up the mess. Using the disinfectant spray on the area made it possible for him to get through the job.—Mrs. Ted Smith.

Dear Dorothy: My cousin who has been living in Paris for some time tells me she uses only a bit of water in the eggs when scrambling them — and that they are much more tender than when using the usual cream or milk.—Zelda C.

(Mrs. Ritz welcomes questions and hints. If a personal reply is required, please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Write to Dorothy in care of Suburban Living, Paddock Publications, Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006.)

4th Annual Draft Lottery Held — What's Your Number?

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Nearly 2 million young men turning 19 this year were thrown together in Wednesday's draft lottery, although it was possible only a few of them actually will ever be drafted.

The lottery was to determine the callup order for 1973 — on the basis of a pairing of 365 red capsules containing the dates of the year and an equal number of blue capsules containing draft sequence numbers 1 through 365.

By simultaneously drawing one after another of the red capsules from one plexiglas drum, and the blue capsules from another drum, Selective Service officials set the order by birth dates by which the young men will be liable to the draft unless exempted or deferred.

But there may be only a few men inducted into service next year.

Birthdates of men born in 1953 and the order in which they are eligible for call for possible military service in 1973, under Wednesday's fourth annual draft lottery:

Howlett Rips Oakton Board On Selection Of Campus Site

forts should go in the direction of passing the referendum."

Hartstein said, "Let's separate this issue (the Maryhill site) from that (the referendum). The referendum is not necessarily tied to this piece of land. Let's hope we get the referendum passed first... then if there's any change of heart from the community or the board about the site we have picked, well, we've already studied other sites and could move in other directions."

Falkoff pointed out the fact that the Illinois Junior College Board has twice approved Oakton's choice of the Maryhill site for its permanent campus. However, at its November meeting, the state board voted six to two to approve the site and at its December meeting, the state board did not rescind its earlier approval but did instruct Oakton to check its price estimate of the Maryhill land and report back if that price had risen. Falkoff said that price will be revealed during condemnation proceedings.

Ray Brune, chairman of the state junior college board and one of the two members voting against the Maryhill site, has said Oakton may lose state funds appropriated for its permanent campus unless it completes purchase of a site in the near future.

According to the Illinois Junior College Act, the state is required to pay 75 per cent of the cost of land and construction for public junior colleges. The state's share of those costs for Oakton will be $17,025,000.

BRUNE HAS SAID Oakton's insistence on purchasing land that it "must face a court fight" to obtain could cause an "interminable delay" and force the state board to give money allotted for Oakton to another junior college district.

The state does not pay any of the $3.4 million Oakton officials have estimated they will need for classroom equipment and other items. Local taxpayers will be required to pay this $3.4 million, plus $5.7 million, which is one-quarter of the cost of land and construction.

Thus, the March 4 referendum will ask taxpayers to pay a total of $9,075,000 towards Oakton's $28.1 million proposed permanent campus, which would mean local residents would finance 34.6 per cent of the total cost of the campus, while the state would finance 65.3 per cent.

Opposing the referendum and the condemnation suit are archdiocesan officials, who have claimed the Maryhill land has already been platted for graves and cannot be sacrificed, and Catholic residents of Polish heritage who favor Maryhill as a burial ground. Also opposing the condemnation suit are Niles Mayor Nicholas Blase and the Niles Village Board.

Oakton is currently operating on nine acres of leased former factory facilities in Morton Grove with an enrollment of about 2,400 students. According to Oakton Pres. William Koehnline, maximum capacity for the interim campus is 3,200 students.

Ski Equipment Stolen

Two sets of ski poles and an auto rack valued at $40 were reported stolen from a west side Des Plaines apartment basement Sunday.

Robert Schneider, 940 Beau Dr. told police when he went to get the ski equipment from his basement storage bin Sunday morning he noticed the items were missing. He said that he last saw the equipment Christmas Day.

Anti-Drug Policies Are Stepped Up At Center

I can't answer. I didn't know there were runaways up there."

The Rev. David Russell, director of Place For People, on temporary leave of absence, talked of the runaway whose mother alleged that she hadn't been notified her son was at the center.

"He did call his mother," Rev. Russell said. "In fact, he used the phone in our office. We are presently trying to set up family counseling with the boy and his parents."

CARL WELLS, chairman of Core, the center's youth governing committee, told officials of action he said was taken at Monday night's Core meeting.

"There is a definite problem and there always has been. Core came up with a policy — the same one we've always had — but now it will be more strictly enforced," Wells said.

"We realize it is our place and if we want to keep it open we must do something," he said.

The center's drug policy requires anyone possessing or selling drugs at the center be asked to leave and not come back for a specific length of time. If a person has drugs in his possession, the drugs will be taken from him and flushed down the toilet, officials there have said.

If a visitor is under the influence of drugs or alcohol and can't maintain control of himself, his parents will be called, an ambulance will be called, and the person will be taken to the hospital, according to Wells.

HE ADDED THIS policy will not only be enforced by staff members and volunteers but also by Core members and other teens that use the center.

"Our main purpose in being open is not to deal with rescue or crisis operations," said Rev. Russell. "We aren't there to prevent them and we don't believe we cause them."

"We are working toward setting up a place where (drugs and emotional) crisis-rescue operations — can be conducted. We are meeting Wednesday with Morris Squire (director of Forest Hospital) with a formal proposal to set up such a service. This proposal is in the negotiation stages. We have also talked to Maine Township Mental Health Center," he said.

"WE COULD CLOSE up and you'll still have the problem — maybe more of a problem. We believe we've cut back on some drug use. We've returned seven runaways to their homes. We are trying to police these things. Maybe this (the crisis rescue center) is the answer," Rev. Russell said.

The Rev. Donald Hughes, chairman of the city's youth commission, said the commission will "stick to its guns" in supporting Place For People in seeking a $10,000 grant from the city of Des Plaines.

Mayor Herbert Behrel added he didn't

Bierwirth Breaks Own 100 Backstroke Record

Larry Bierwirth broke Maine West's school record in the 100-yard backstroke for the fourth time this season to pace the Warriors to a 74-20 Central Suburban League swimming victory over Maine North.

Bierwirth covered the 100-yard backstroke in 53.2, breaking his own school record by one-tenth of a second. He also took first place in the 50-yard freestyle and was on the winning 200-yard medley relay team.

Other members of the winning medley relay team were Doug Meister, Don Hudson and Tom Rasch.

Garyt Dahl took first place and Steve Dueball second place for Maine West in the 200-yard freestyle. Mark Lange was third for North. Jeff Cassin of West took first place and Terry Hammer of North was second in the 200-yard individual medley.

In the 50-yard freestyle, Bierwirth was first, Hammer was second and Dave Detman of West was third. Rick Weaver and Joe DeFranco took 1-2 for West in diving.

Steve Mammoser took first place for West in the 100-yard butterfly while John Monaghan was second for North and Chip Essig was third for West. Gregg Lambrechts finished first and Meister second for West in the 100-yard freestyle and Jim Crites took third for North.

In the 400-yard freestyle, Hudson was first and Rasch second for West while Hammer took third for North. Cassin was second to Bierwirth in the 100-yard backstroke for West and Tom Buettgen was third for North.

Maine North's only first place finish came in the 100-yard breaststroke with Jeff Rusk. Don Polz of North was second and Rick Landuyt of West was third.

Maine West won the 400-yard freestyle relay with Essig, Rasch, Lambrechts and Cassin.

Maine West won the frosh-soph meet 68-27.

Maine North will travel to New Trier West for a Central Suburban League meet on Friday at 7:30 p.m. and Maine West will be home with Maine South on Saturday at 1:30 p.m. in a CSL meet.

Upsets Alter Rankings But Not No. 1 Position

by United Press International

For the seventh straight week unbeaten, defending state champion Dolton Thorndike is the choice for No. 1 prep basketball ranking in the state by the United Press International board of coaches.

Lincoln, despite its first loss of the season, remains in second spot, but a wave of weekend upsets altered the standings of many other teams. Quincy climbed to third and La Salle-Peru to fourth in the rankings.

Hinsdale Central, Waukegan, Rock Island Alleman and Lockport Central dropped in the standings and Belleville West fell out of the top 16 as the result of defeats last week. North Chicago and Harvey Thornton climbed a few notches and LaGrange Lyons and Chicago Morgan Park entered the top 16 standings.

The UPI is composed of coaches whose teams made up the "Sweet 16" finalists in the state prep tournament last season. The board ratings with team points and won-loss records in parentheses:

1. Dolton Thorndike	19-0	256
2. Lincoln	17-1	221
3. Quincy	17-2	192
4. La Salle-Peru	17-1	192
5. Hinsdale Central	16-1	175

14. Harvey Thornton	12-4	43
15. Springfield S.E.	18-2	39
16. LaGrange Lyons	14-3	24
Chgo. Morgan Park	15-3	24

Others with 20 or more points — Belleville West, 20.

North Swamped By Deerfield

Competing against the Central Suburban League's powerhouse, Deerfield, Maine North's swimming team could not get anything better than a third place finish in any event, other than the relays, as the Norsemen absorbed an 86-8 loss.

Mark Lange was third in the 200-yard freestyle for Maine North and Terry Hammer was third in the 200-yard individual medley. John Monaghan was third in the 50-yard freestyle and the 100-yard butterfly.

Third place in the 100-yard freestyle went to Jim Crites and third in the 400-yard freestyle went to Hammer. Tom Buettgen was third in the 100-yard backstroke and Jeff Rusk was third in the 100-yard breaststroke.

The Norsemen's two relay teams finished second. There were, of course, only two teams entered in both relays.

... One's Hooked On 'Speed'

A Tale Of 2 'Pushers' ...

by PAUL LOGAN
Swimming Editor

Two pushers went about their systematic task in a large room at the rear of Dempster Junior High School late Friday afternoon.

As a group of eager youngsters gazed intently, this pair revealed a ritual that would lead to the ultimate of thrills. The two, working as a team, showed how to make a lengthy trip short by satisfying.

The younger one used speed; the other yelled, whistled and made wild gestures.

Their captive audience soaked it up. When the trip had been completed, both parties were elated. Some even screamed their approval.

The pushers had succeeded. Besides directly experiencing the ultimate, they had truly influenced their observers. These youngsters were definitely hooked.

This wasn't an introduction to drugs. Instead, it was the 200-yard freestyle event between hosting Prospect and Forest View at Kopp's Pool. Falcon coach Gordon Aukerman was the sideline "pusher" and Cliff Schlak, his prize pupil, was the competing "pusher." Together they succeeded in lowering his area leading time in that event. Both explained their "pusher" roles.

"Sometimes you don't like the coach during practice," said this outstanding senior. "This is natural if he's working you hard. He's dropped my time in the 400 quite a bit. I'm glad I'm getting coached by him. I like the way he pushes me."

Aukerman had this to say about possibly the most talented swimmer in the Herald area:

"To say nothing of what he's done in terms of scoring for us, I think one of the most valuable contributions he's made is in terms of pushing these other swimmers. The ability and desire he's displayed in practice, along with his very positive approach to swimming itself, have helped some of our other swimmers."

Prior to this season, Schlak had directed his skills toward defeating Forest View as a member of the Elk Grove team. Four reasons contributed to his change of schools — his Des Plaines home was located in a redistricting area, his younger swimming brother was already attending there, his sister was just about to become a Forest View freshman and his coach — Phil Pardun — had taken the head job at Rolling Meadows.

Both Aukerman and the Falcon team are just as happy about the transfer as Schlak. His influence, both as a leader and standout performer, has made Forest View unbeatable through seven straight duals this season.

Schlak presently leads the Herald area's swim honor roll in three categories — the 200 and 400-yard freestyles and the 200-yard individual medley. A feat no other swimmer can match.

Aukerman began pushing Schlak last summer at a Mount Prospect park district pool.

"I just worked out all summer long," explained Schlak. "My stroke kept improving and my times kept going down."

Compared to his best time last year in prep competition in the 400 (4:38.0), his improvement has been outstanding — 3:58.6.

Working with weights for the first time has helped in lowering his times, according to Schlak. He also receives an assist from his basketball player size — 6-2, 185.

His goal, naturally, is the state finals. Or, as he puts it, "getting up there in the top six."

As of last week's state ratings, Schlak ranks fourth in the individual medley with a time of 2:08.0. To capture a place in the state as well as an athletic scholarship, he'll have to shave several seconds off, according to Aukerman.

Only a person on dope would be foolish enough to bet against this pair of pushers.

Harlem Diplomats At West Friday

The faculty and the Letterman Club of Maine West will combine their basketball talents, such as they may be, against the Harlem Diplomats Friday at 7:30 p.m. in the Maine West High gymnasium.

The Diplomats are Canada's version of the Harlem Globetrotters. Tickets are available in advance at the book store at Maine West during school hours.

Umpire Training Begins Tonight

The first meeting of the Umpires Training School will be held at Maine West High at 7:30.

The school will conduct weekly sessions until May 17. It is sponsored by Umpires Metropolitan Professional Services. Tonight's meeting will be held in room G-102 in the Southeast Wing of the school.

Bengals Draft Conley

Steve Conley

Arlington High School product Steve Conley was selected by the Cincinnati Bengals Tuesday evening in the National Football League player draft.

Conley was the fifth choice of the Bengals, who had sent an assistant coach to Arlington Heights just last weekend to watch the 6-3, 220-pound running back in a series of workouts at Rolling Meadows High School.

Conley, who is also being touted as a possible tight end candidate, was notified at approximately 9 p.m. Tuesday.

Conley and his wife, who now live in Arlington Heights, immediately flew to Kansas City but will return home over the weekend. Steve starred as a college performer with the University of Kansas.

Several teams had expressed interest in the area product, but Cincinnati made it known last weekend they would select him if available and they were impressed with the workouts at Rolling Meadows.

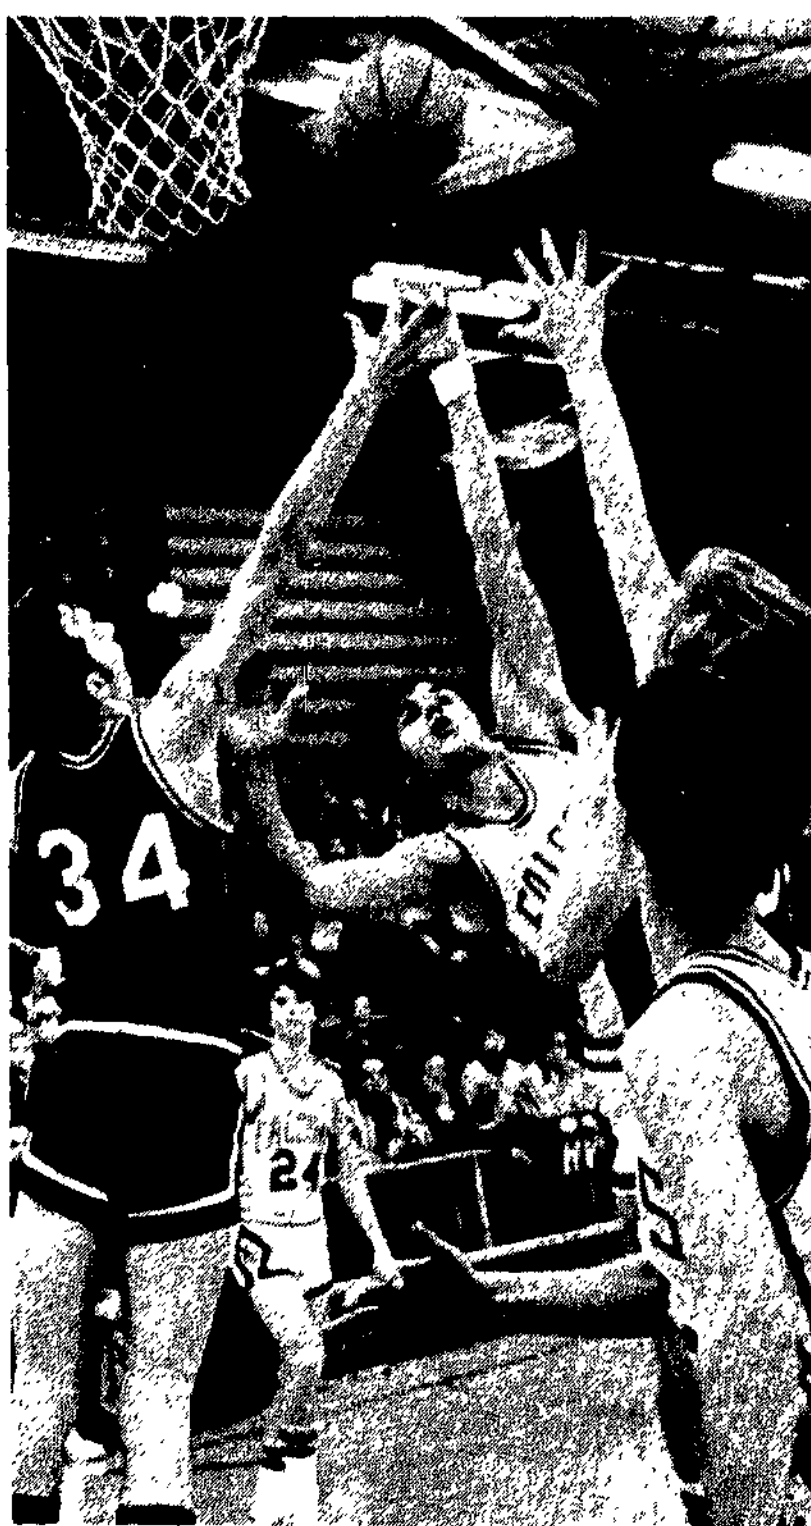

Oakton Cagers Down McHenry

Craig Christensen connected for 16 points and hauled down 17 rebounds as Oakton downed McHenry 85-78 in a junior college basketball game Monday night.

The Raiders' leading scorer was Larry Gwaluch, who poured in 23 points. Dennis Peltus contributed 18 points. Jim Welter was the second leading rebounder for Oakton with 10.

Oakton led 46-28 at the half and held off a second-half McHenry rally for its seventh win in 14 games.

The Raiders will go against Kenosha Tech on Monday at 7:30 p.m. at Niles East High School.

HOOK SHOT artistry is displayed by Rick Hoyt of Forest View, with Conley's George Petee (34) unable to stop the shot. Hoyt was part of a well-balanced attack as the Falcons handed the Cougars their first conference defeat in five games, 65-56.

Warrior Gymnasts Top Glenbrook

Steve Holmbeck scored best for Maine West in two events and added five points in all-around to lead the Warriors to a 193.10 to 96.46 Central Suburban League gymnastics victory over Glenbrook North at Glenbrook North over the weekend.

Holmbeck scored a 6.45 on the rings and 6.3 on the parallel bars, highs for Maine West in both events. In all-around, he scored 5.9.

Steve Schwab recorded the meet's second highest score, a 6.9 in free floor exercise. Mark Schukit had a 5.95 and Holmbeck had a 5.4.

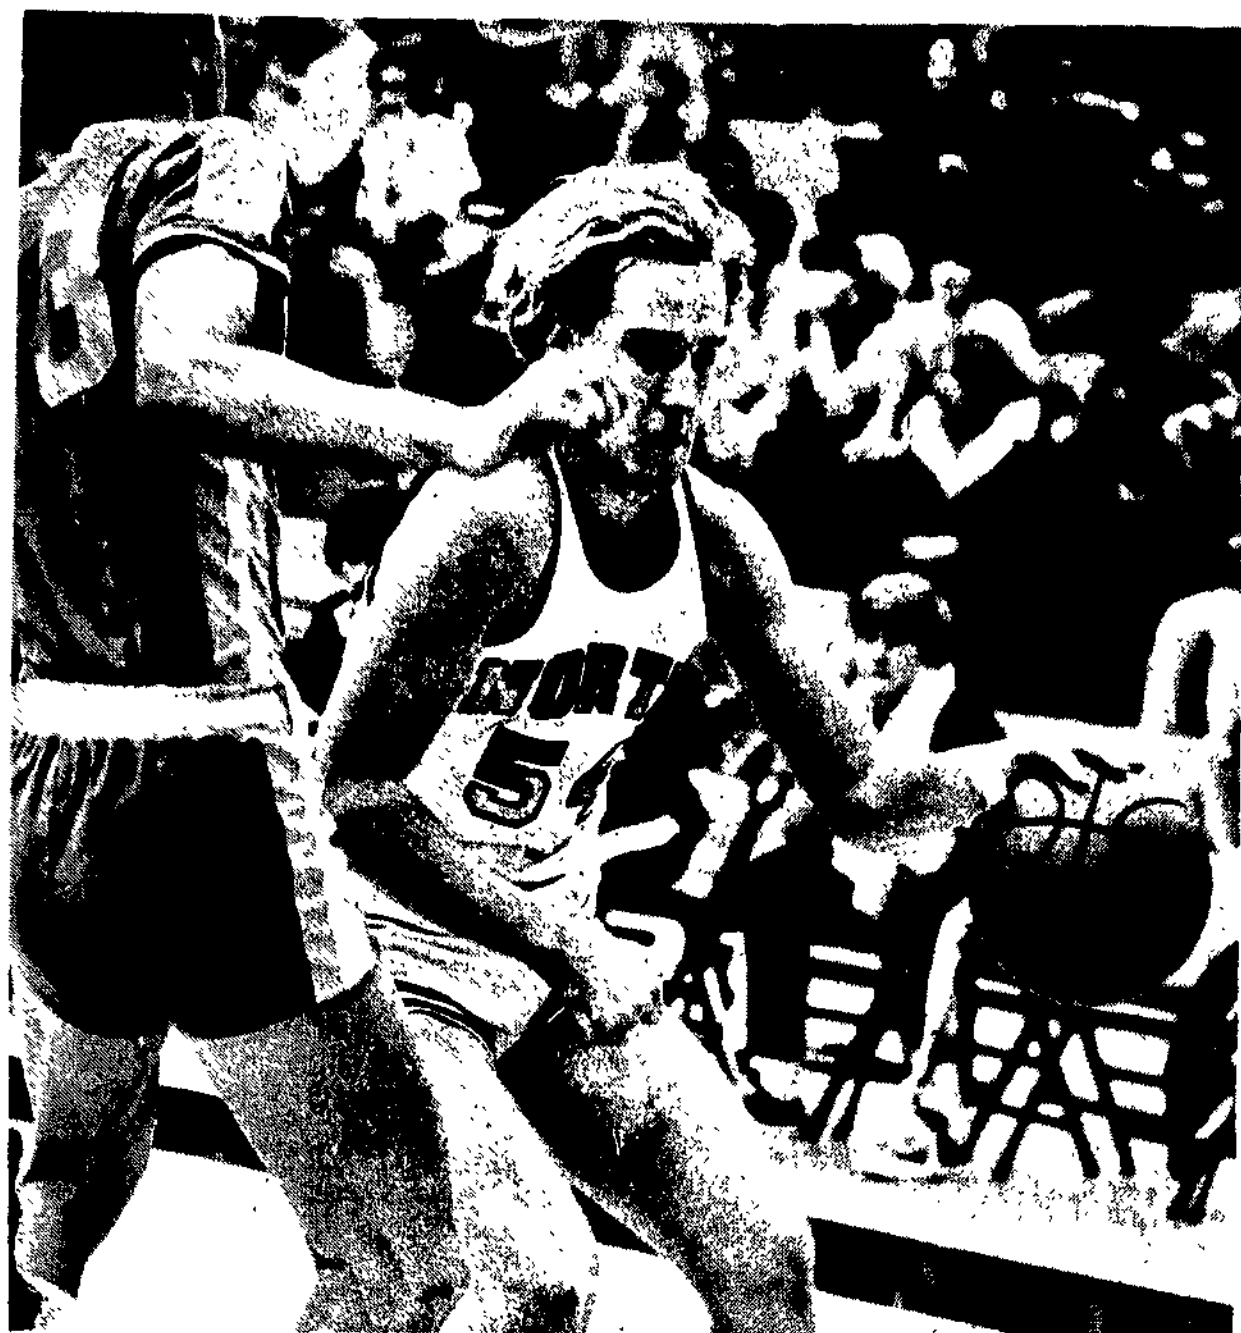

On the side horse, Robin Ruediger scored a 6.45, Bill Lumpus a 4.95 and Holmbeck a 3.1. Kevin Kerner tallied a 5.65 on the horizontal bar while Tom Fulham had a 5.25 and Holmbeck a 3.75.

The meet's highest score was turned in by John Lear on the trampoline, a 6.95. Schwab scored a 5.75 on the trampoline while Ken Haller had a 4.9.

On the parallel bars, Holmbeck scored 6.3, Phil DaPrato 5.65 and Schwab 5.1. Chuck Martino scored a 5.65 and Kerner a 4.36 for Maine West on the rings, other than Holmbeck's 6.45.

Maine West will host Maine South on Saturday at 1:30 p.m. in what is expected to be a close meet. Maine South is averaging around 108 points per meet. Maine West has hit as high as 111.

BASELINE MANEUVER. Bob Allen of Maine North drives along the baseline past Maine West's Doug Myers for two of his 17 points in Friday night's Central Suburban

Bengals Draft Conley

Steve Conley

Arlington High School product Steve Conley was selected by the Cincinnati Bengals Tuesday evening in the National Football League player draft.

Conley was the fifth choice of the Bengals, who had sent an assistant coach to Arlington Heights just last weekend to watch the 6-3, 220-pound running back in a series of workouts at Rolling Meadows High School.

Conley, who is also being touted as a possible tight end candidate, was notified at approximately 9 p.m. Tuesday.

Conley and his wife, who now live in Arlington Heights, immediately flew to Kansas City but will return home over the weekend. Steve starred as a college performer with the University of Kansas.

Several teams had expressed interest in the area product, but Cincinnati made it known last weekend they would select him if available and they were impressed with the workouts at Rolling Meadows.

Oakton Cagers Down McHenry

Craig Christensen connected for 16 points and hauled down 17 rebounds as Oakton downed McHenry 85-76 in a junior college basketball game Monday night.

The Raiders' leading scorer was Larry Gavaluch, who poured in 23 points. Dennis Pelhus contributed 18 points. Jim Welter was the second leading rebounder for Oakton with 10.

Oakton led 46-23 at the half and held off a second-half McHenry rally for its seventh win in 14 games.

The Raiders will go against Kenosha Tech on Monday at 7:30 p.m. at Niles East High School.

Harlem Diplomats At West Friday

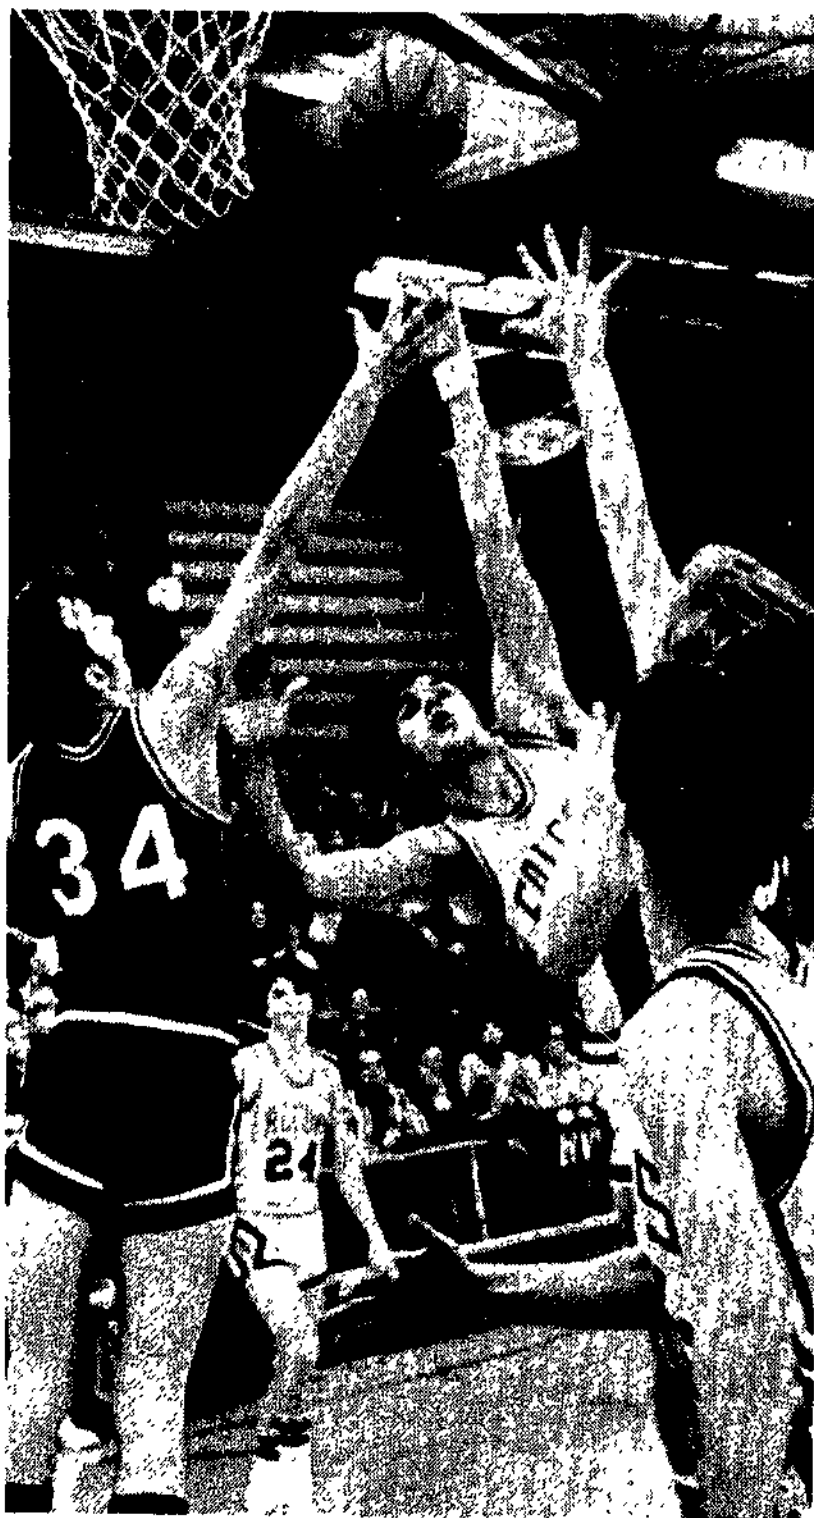

The faculty and the Letterman Club of Maine West will combine their basketball talents, such as they may be, against the Harlem Diplomats Friday at 7:30 p.m. in the Maine West High gymnasium.

The Diplomats are Canada's version of the Harlem Globetrotters. Tickets are available in advance at the book store at Maine West during school hours.

Umpire Training Begins Tonight

The first meeting of the Umpires Training School will be held at Maine West High at 7:30.

The school will conduct weekly sessions until May 17. It is sponsored by Umpires Metropolitan Professional Services. Tonight's meeting will be held in room G-102 in the Southeast Wing of the school.

HOOK SHOT artistry is displayed by Rick Hoyt of Forest View, with Conant's George Pattie (34) unable to stop the shot. Hoyt was part of a well-balanced attack as the Falcons handed the Cougars their first conference defeat in five games, 65-56.

Warrior Gymnasts Top Glenbrook

Steve Holmbeck scored best for Maine West in two events and added five points in all-around to lead the Warriors to a 103.10 to 96.46 Central Suburban League gymnastics victory over Glenbrook North at Glenbrook North over the weekend.

Holmbeck scored a 6.45 on the rings and 6.3 on the parallel bars, highs for Maine West in both events. In all-around, he scored 5.0.

Steve Schwab recorded the meet's second highest score, a 6.9 in free floor exercise. Mark Schult had a 5.85 and Holmbeck had a 5.4.

On the side horse, Robin Ruediger scored a 6.45, Bill Lumpa a 4.96 and Holmbeck a 3.1. Kevin Kerner tallied a 5.65 on the horizontal bar while Tom Fulham had a 5.25 and Holmbeck a 3.75.

The meet's highest score was turned in by John Lear on the trampoline, a 6.95. Schwab scored a 5.75 on the trampoline while Ken Haller had a 4.9.

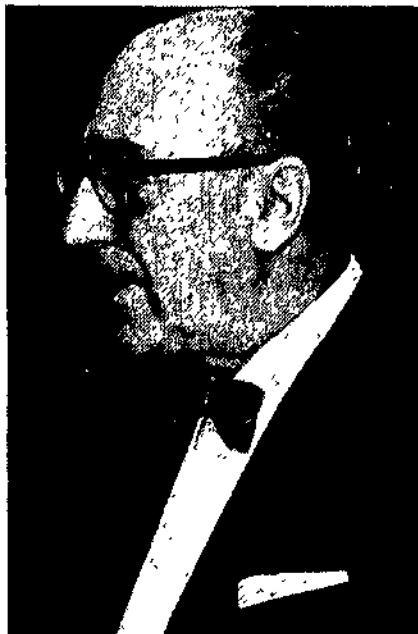

On the parallel bars, Holmbeck scored 6.3, Phil DaPrato 5.65 and Schwab 5.1. Chuck Martino scored a 5.65 and Kerner a 4.35 for Maine West on the rings, other than Holmbeck's 6.45.

Maine West will host Maine South on Saturday at 1:30 p.m. in what is expected to be a close meet. Maine South is averaging around 108 points per meet. Maine West has hit as high as 111.

Press Needs To Be Watched: Editor

NEWSPAPERS ARE something people use all of their lives, according to Jack Humphrey, reading specialist. He urged a group of Dist. 25 teachers to teach their students how to use newspapers correctly.

A watchdog council is needed to keep check on newspapers, according to Norman Isaacs, Paddock Publications editorial consultant.

Isaacs told a group of suburban teachers attending a seminar Tuesday that newspapers can be used as a valuable tool in the classroom. But he cautioned them against accepting news stories as the ultimate authority. He proposed instituting a press council, similar to the British Press Council, that would evaluate news coverage and respond to readers' complaints.

"I don't regard the journalism enterprise as anything sacred," said Isaacs. "It can be a vipers pit."

"However, the press provides a great opportunity for public service when honorably done. It calls for a great deal of dedication and a high commitment to truth."

Isaacs was a guest speaker at a seminar at Dist. 25 South Junior High School in Arlington Heights. He teamed with Jack Humphrey, a reading specialist from the Evansville, Ind. school system, in instructing teachers how to use newspapers as a teaching tool. The project, called "Newspaper In The Classroom," was sponsored jointly by Dist. 25 and Paddock Publications. The teachers were from Districts 25, 26, 57 and 62. people have it anywhere.

Isaacs, editor-in-residence at Columbia University in New York, said that the public's lack of confidence in the press arises when the press oversteps its role of reporting truth.

"Sometimes a reporter has to go behind the facts to get at the truth. Unfortunately some reporters tip the scales from interpretation to opinion. You have this problem in Chicago as much as people have it anywhere."

"The most crucial factor in journalism is the exercise of judgment," added Isaacs. "By the very placement of stories on a page a newsman affects your attitudes. This is where he starts to play God."

One of the major abuses of the power of the press is monopoly control of the media, said Isaacs. He believes an owner who has control over newspapers, TV and radio stations has too much effect on public opinion.

Isaacs called for public control (such as a private council), not government control, to keep the press in line. He stressed the need to preserve freedom of the press.

"There has been some talk of this (Nixon) administration issuing curbs on the press," said Isaacs, referring to the Pentagon papers controversy. "I hope they don't attempt it."

He also denounced licensing journalists. "Technically, journalists are not professionals, but craftsmen because we are not licensed. Licensing would bring requirements. The day we get to that is the day we wash out one of our greatest freedoms."
